Implementation and Scaling of Nature-based Solutions Veeriah Jegatheesan, Perlie Velasco, Nevelina Pachova, 2024-03-02 The value of implementing nature based solutions NbS for water treatment in urban environments is increasingly recognized due to the multiple ecosystem services and societal benefits they provide The successful implementation of NbS for urban water treatment however depends on a range of diverse technical and societal factors that need to be taken into account Those vary by the type of NbS implemented the societal challenges the NbS are designed to address and the local ecological socio economic and political context in which the solutions are implemented This book provides a collection of guidelines for the implementation of three types of NbS for water treatment in urban environments across cities in South Southeast Asia namely constructed wetlands green roofs and floating treatment wetlands The guides were developed based on existing experiences with the establishment operation and maintenance of those three types of NbS in three different countries in South Southeast Asia and the lessons learnt from their implementation They provide detailed outlines of suggested steps for ensuring successful implementation in the respective local contexts Those include overall planning schemes surveys for socio economic evaluations suggested methods for construction and associated costs required maintenance as well as a range of operational monitoring parameters It also includes examples of approaches for the scaling of the three types of NbS discussed in the book in their respective local contexts This book is expected to benefit local government units and contractors and other stakeholders involved in NbS implementation and up scaling as well as researchers and postgraduate students who plan to conduct pilot scale studies on NbS interdisciplinary scientific reference this book provides a comprehensive theoretical and empirical analysis of contemporary IWRM research examples of science based implementations and a synthesis of the lessons learnt It concludes with some major future challenges the solving of which will further strengthen the IWRM concept Geographical Information Systems in Hydrology Vijay Singh, M. Fiorentino, 1996-09-30 The last few years have witnessed an enormous interest in application of GIS in hydrology and water resources This is partly evidenced by organization of several national and international symposia or conferences under the sponsorship of various professional organizations This increased interest is in a large measure in response to growing public sensitivity to environmental quality and management The GIS technology has the ability to capture store manipulate analyze and visualize the diverse sets of geo referenced data On the other hand hydrology is inherently spatial and distributed hydrologic models have large data requirements The integration of hydrology and GIS is therefore quite natural The integration involves three major components 1 spatial data construction 2 integration of spatial model layers and 3 GIS and model interface GIS can assist in design calibration modification and comparison of models This integration is spreading worldwide and is expected to accelerate in the foreseeable future Substantial opportunities exist in integration of GIS and hydrology We believe there are enough challenges in use of GIS for conceptualizing and modeling complex hydrologic processes and for globalization of hydrology The motivation for this book grew out of the desire to provide under one cover a range of applications of GIS technology in hydrology It is hoped that the book will stimulate others to write more comprehensive texts on this subject of growing importance
