Engaging And Changing Higher Education Through Brokerage:

Engaging and Changing Higher Education Through Brokerage Norman Jackson, 2018-01-12 This title was first published in 2003 During the 1990s UK higher education was transformed through the full panoply of levers available to government legislation funding to encourage expansion and change regulation and a national review As we enter the 21st century new organizational agents acting as brokers are emerging as important facilitators of systemic change The central argument in this book is that brokering is a process that facilitates change at all levels of the education system and enables UK higher education to be more adaptive and responsive to society and the global marketplace The educational broker is a facilitator who connects people networks organizations and resources to support change The process is key to creating new innovative capacities involving partnerships that are now required of a socially attuned and continuously adaptive mass system The educational brokerage role also includes activities that might be associated with the business world where the broker is an agent promoter dealer or trader or the political world where the broker is a diplomat mediator and negotiator There has been little recognition description or analysis of brokerage which is essential to the rapid development and utilization of knowledge in a large complex diverse multipurpose and autonomous HE system These new capacities offer exciting possibilities for advancing UK HE and for gaining competitive advantage This volume provides through a series of organizational case studies important new insights into the ways in which change is being brokered by national bodies like the Learning and Teaching Support Network University for Industry the e university and the Quality Assurance Agency It also provides an overview of the international scene to show that UK higher education is leading the world in this approach to the development of a higher education system

Tackling the Wicked Challenge of Strategic Change Pamela Baker, Norman Jackson, Jane Longmore, 2014-06-19 The aim of this book is to make better sense of a long complex messy change process through the stories of those who were involved Over fifty participants were interviewed during the course of the study and their uniquely personal perspectives have been woven into a compelling story of organisational change This book describes their ingenuity and effort in bringing about change that they and their organisation valued Between 2009 and 2012 Southampton Solent University UK engaged in an unprecedented and highly complex strategic initiative which ran across the entire institution its structures processes and systems it aimed to produce a fundamental shift in institutional culture Such an all embracing approach is rare in universities This programme of organisational change is seen through the eyes of people who were immersed in the process Their perspectives and feelings will resonate with anyone who has tried to bring about significant change in a university Universities are inherently creative places but too often there is a pervasive inertia that prevents ideas from being turned into new and better practices This programme aimed to create a culture of innovation Conventional project planning techniques were deliberately avoided and replaced with an approach based on complexity theory recognising that the process of change requires constant adaptation acceptance of non linear progress and subversion of conventional management discourse Offering an unusual example from the higher education sector this study is a distinctive contribution to the extensive literature on organisational change Learning gained from participants is related to theories and research from this wider literature The study proposes a holistic and integrated approach to change which might offer a more culturally relevant and sustainable model both for higher education and for those sectors of industry and commerce from which much change management practice has conventionally been drawn

University Collaboration for Innovation, 2007-01-01 In 2000 the UK Government funded the establishment of the Cambridge MIT Institute CMI with the expressed purpose of improving the impact of UK Universities on the UK economy The programme of work conducted by CMI covered the full range of activities in and this book reports on its educational activities Through a regime of investigation intervention and assessment CMI advanced understanding of how the practices of both Universities contribute to the subsequent performance of their graduates as innovators and entrepreneurs in later life The investigations began with an analysis of the impact on students of participation in exchange programme which saw a cohort from each University spend a year in the other The interventions included changes in curricular and pedagogy and the implementation of practices taken from one University in the activities of the other The book will be of interest to educators interested in developing the curriculum and pedagogies of their institution to equip their students for the demands of the modern workplace policy makers concerned with the economic impact of Universities and researchers interested in the changing nature of higher education in a globalised world system

Collaborative Knowledge in Scientific Research Networks Diviacco, Paolo, 2014-10-31 Research inherently requires collaborative efforts between individuals databases and institutions However the systems that enable such interpersonal cooperation must be properly suited in facilitating such efforts to avoid impeding productivity Collaborative Knowledge in Scientific Research Networks addresses the various systems in place for collaborative e research and how these practices serve to enhance the quality of research across disciplines Covering new networks available through social media as well as traditional methods such as mailing lists and forums this publication considers various scientific disciplines and their individual needs Theorists of collaborative scientific work technology developers researchers and funding agency officials will find this book valuable in exploring and understanding the process of scientific collaboration

Routledge Handbook of Academic Knowledge Circulation Wiebke Keim, Leandro Rodriguez Medina, Rigas Arvanitis, Natacha Bacolla, Chandni Basu, Stéphane Dufoix, Stefan Klein, Mauricio Nieto Olarte, Barbara Riedel, Clara Ruvituso, Gernot Saalman, Tobias Schlechtriemen, Hebe Vessuri, 2023-06-30 Knowledge is a result of never ending processes of circulation This accessible volume is the first comprehensive multidisciplinary work to explore these processes through the perspective of scholars working outside of Anglo American paradigms Through a variety of literature reviews examples of recent research and in depth case studies the chapters demonstrate that the analysis of knowledge circulation requires a series of ontological and epistemic commitments that impact its conceptualisation and

Ecologies for Learning and Practice provides the first systematic account of the ideas of learning ecologies and ecologies of practice and locates the two concepts within the context of our contemporary world It focuses on how individuals and society are being presented with all manner of learning challenges arising from fluidities and disruptions which extend across all domains of life This book examines emerging ways of understanding and living purposively in these new fluidities and provides fresh perspectives on the way we learn and achieve in such dynamic contexts Providing an insight into the research of a range of internationally renowned contributors this book explores diverse topics from the higher education and adult learning worlds These include The challenges faced by education systems today The concept of ecologies for learning and practice The role and responsibility of higher education institutions in advancing ecological approaches to learning The different eco social systems of the world local and global economic cultural practical technological and ethical How adult learners might create and manage their own ecologies for learning and practice in order to sustain themselves and flourish With its proposals for individual and institutional learning in the 21st century and concerns for our sustainability in a fragile world Ecologies for Learning and Practice is an essential guide for all who seek to encourage and facilitate learning in a world that is fundamentally ecological in nature Integrating Primary Healthcare Paul Thomas,2017-11-22 This book combines models theory and practical advice that guides clinicians managers and facilitators to lead integrated primary health care Using case studies and real life examples the practical sections are cross referred to theoretical sections that show how theories of whole system learning and change can be applied in different situations Exercises help the reader to devise their own tailor made interventions in small organisations in networks and in large institutions The latest theories about leadership in complex situations are covered and challenges to traditional approaches to research and understandings of health are made This book is perfect for those who lead or teach change in health care institutions such as primary care organisations in small organisations such as general practices and through networks In particular practitioners and managers who wish to make sense of complex interacting factors will find it of great benefit Navigating Oil Palm Swamps Runavia Mulyasari ,2025-09-04 Over the past few decades many rural areas in Indonesia have been undergoing a massive transformation with its natural resources being exploited more rapidly than ever before through the establishment of incredibly large mono cropping plantations of oil palm This development has led to the creation of so called New Frontier regions De Jong et al 2017 One such region in Indonesia is West Kalimantan The profound transformation of this region became a fertile breeding ground for the emergence of go betweenes Until recently little was known about the role of go betweenes in these developments and the question why some people were able to leverage the evolving economy to assume a new role or position while others could not In this thesis I examine the role of go betweenes in the cultivation of oil palm at the new resource frontier in Sintang West Kalimantan It is based on a year of field research in the region where I discovered that in the wake of the political decentralisation and regional autonomy process the social and political organization of local societies had changed considerably As a consequence go betweenes are increasingly influential in social and political practices The establishment of oil palm plantations and the long periods of their maintenance created a new lahan basah wetland for various actors to compete including a new gap to be filled by go betweenes In this sense lahan basah is not a place but rather a space marked by many opportunities The transformation and fluidity of lahan basah entails the remaking of values and norms which also explains the central position of a variety of go betweenes in the region In the past go betweenes were still structurally embedded in the social organization of societies but in Kalimantan this has changed to such an extent that beyond structural characteristics new go betweenes require to possess a range of other characteristics as well Beyond structural changes the personal characteristics and agency of go betweenes emerged as crucial factors At the same time however exploring the dialectics between socio cultural structures and people s agency did not fully explain the success or failure of go betweenes Another dimension seemed at play their manifold social relations and social networks For that reason too in order to comprehend go betweenes comprehensively why they assume and maintain their position their actions vocabulary behaviour and interactions it was also necessary to map their social relationships networks and practices The three dimensions of structure agency and social networks intertwine enabling go betweenes not just to adhere to structural norms and rules but to actively shape them for their material and non material goals and objectives From the three critical dimensions explored in this study it is evident that each dimension cannot be analysed separately to comprehend the roles of go betweenes in the oil palm setting at the new frontier in Sintang Following a close scrutiny of a variety of go betweenes in the region I demonstrate that these three dimensions in varying combinations give rise to five distinct types of go betweenes an adaptive go between a speciality go between an opposing go between a positioning go between and a go between that may be regarded as a chameleon In practice this typology is fluid and flexible for each type of go between in the so called lahan basah the adaptation of which is grounded in the situation its conditions and their objectives to maintain and sustain their role Given their role all go betweenes in Sintang share both fundamental and complementary characteristics yet their style is intricately interconnected in a dyadic or rather triadic manner to social structures individual characteristics and social networks The entanglement of individual characteristics with structural aspects and social networks in our analysis offers a more comprehensive understanding of their position In this context go betweens can either withdraw or find ways to navigate the lahan basah The nodes and dimensions in lahan basah provide space for go betweens to connect within social spheres and in crossing hierarchical as well as horizontal relationships Consequently go betweens are not uniform actors but individuals with specific personal characteristics acting and moving between structural conditions and social networks showcasing their ability to seize opportunities and find ways to capitalize on them

Race and Ethnicity in Education Ranjit Arora,2018-01-18 This publication is primarily intended for teachers student teachers and for staff in teacher training institutions It will also be of use to staff in further higher and adult education It is primarily about issues of race and ethnicity in education and includes an examination of the relationship between policies and practices concerned with equal opportunities both in schools and in teacher training institutions The central theme of this book is the preparation of all teachers through initial teacher training to implement equal opportunities in schools and to provide education for a positively diverse society A secondary theme is that of the recruitment training and employment of minority ethnic teachers in British educational institutions The organization of this book allows the author to address the two central issues as identified above in the context of policies and practices as they have developed over the last two decades It begins with a discussion about equality in the context of issues of quality followed by a discussion of race and education in its historical context It includes a historical and contemporary review of issues concerned with two major aspects of teacher education in relation to ethnic minorities Recent developments in initial teacher education and issues of partnership with schools are explored with a view to identifying the needs of schools The book ends with an in depth discussion of equality assurance in education and offers a framework for permeation as well as an agenda for action for all concerned with education

Cultural, Training and Educational Spaces Theodora Balmon,Bruno Garnier,2024-01-04

For two centuries the school system has been a central point around which other players have gravitated local authorities voluntary organizations and the world of work Over the course of the 20th century this school centric configuration underwent a transformation with local authorities tending to become integrated into the vertical culture of the school system This was only the beginning of a process that brought schools and socio cultural players into constant contact Cultural Training and Educational Spaces first examines the relationships with knowledge generated by the links between the school system and other cultural training and educational spaces taking a historical pedagogical and philosophical perspective Easy access to learning materials creates different relationships with knowledge than those observed in schools The book then looks at the pedagogical practices in these different cultural educational spaces such as libraries and media libraries museums and historical sites places of heritage history and entertainment social networks and other multimedia formats Cases on Learning Design and Human Performance Technology Stefaniak, Jill,2019-07-05 As a company grows and new business opportunities are presented there is an expectation that employee performance will grow and improve as the organization does One method to improve performance is through systematic data driven technology that analyzes all affecting aspects of an organization A better understanding of how this quality improving technology can be integrated within a variety of different industries is needed in order to develop strategies and interventions that address an organizational need Cases on Learning Design and Human Performance Technology provides a collection of cases that demonstrate how principles of learning design and human performance technology have been employed within organizations in a variety of industries to address business problems quality improvement initiatives and business opportunities While highlighting topics including intervention design workflow procedures and employee development this book is ideally designed for managers executives human resources IT specialists academicians business professionals industry practitioners researchers and students
