Help For The Handicapped Child:

Help for the Handicapped Child Florence Weiner,1973 Care of the Handicapped Child John Apley,1978-04-22 This book is a tribute to Ronald Mac Keith who during his lifetime was the leading exponent of the broader aspects of care of handicapped children In following his philosophy it covers the aetiologies the family the environment the therapies the research and the teaching The book will help all those in any way involved in looking after handicapped children to care for them with a new understanding The Family and the Handicapped Child Elizabeth Newson,2017-09-04 This book describes an inquiry into the upbringing of young cerebral palsied children Following the precedent set by John and Elizabeth Newson in their studies of normal children at home Sheila Hewett visited the mothers of 180 spastic children and obtained their personal accounts of their experiences There is considerable literature on handicapped children in which the adverse effects of their presence in the family are emphasized This study is the first to present not evidence provided by professional people but that of a large number of mothers of all social classes who have children with all degrees of handicap They tell in their own words how they meet the problems and anxieties of everyday life and how they strive to maintain the norms of family living in spite of their very real difficulties A measure of their success is provided by a number of comparisons with the families of normal children Hewett s nursing experience combined with a social science training and personal experience of parenthood contributed a useful background for this research Resulting as it does from close collaboration with the Newsons her work provides an important extension of the main work of the Child Development Research Unit in Nottingham It will help all those who work with handicapped children to achieve a better understanding of the families to whom they offer their specialist knowledge To the general public it offers an opportunity to gain insights into a situation which calls for their support and acceptance but not their pity For the parents of handicapped children themselves it provides a much needed opportunity to make their views known and to see that they are not alone in the difficulties which they face with such stoicism and resourcefulness This book s last aim has been achieved by using the now extensive information about the upbringing of normal children obtained from Nottingham mothers in the United Kingdom by John and Elizabeth Newson Caring for the Mentally Handicapped Child David Wilkin,2016-01-08 First published in 1979 this book concerns itself primarily with the mothers of mentally handicapped children It discusses the problems of assistance that they may have experienced from their families the community or the available services Whilst arguing for far more support for mothers when they are the main carer this book also suggests reasons why some families are more easily able to cope with the problems of caring for severely handicapped children This study is based on research that was conducted for and funded by the Department of Health and Social Security between 1973 and 1976 The Family and the Handicapped Child Sheila Hewett,2007-06-01 This book describes an inquiry into the upbringing of young cerebral palsied children Following the precedent set by John and Elizabeth Newson in their studies of normal children at home Sheila Hewett visited the mothers of 180 spastic children and obtained their personal accounts of their experiences There is considerable literature on handicapped children in which the adverse effects of their presence in the family are emphasized This study is the first to present not evidence provided by professional people but that of a large number of mothers of all social classes who have children with all degrees of handicap They tell in their own words how they meet the problems and anxieties of everyday life and how they strive to maintain the norms of family living in spite of their very real difficulties A measure of their success is provided by a number of comparisons with the families of normal children Hewett s nursing experience combined with a social science training and personal experience of parenthood contributed a useful background for this research Resulting as it does from close collaboration with the Newsons her work provides an important extension of the main work of the Child Development Research Unit in Nottingham It will help all those who work with handicapped children to achieve a better understanding of the families to whom they offer their specialist knowledge To the general public it offers an opportunity to gain insights into a situation which calls for their support and acceptance but not their pity For the parents of handicapped children themselves it provides a much needed opportunity to make their views known and to see that they are not alone in the difficulties which they face with such stoicism and resourcefulness This book s last aim has been achieved by using the now extensive information about the upbringing of normal children obtained from Nottingham mothers in the United Kingdom by John and Elizabeth Newson
