

A person is seen from behind, sitting on a wooden dock that extends into a calm lake. The person is wearing a dark jacket. The lake's surface is still, reflecting the surrounding landscape. In the background, there are large, rugged mountains with patches of snow or light-colored rock. The sky is overcast and grey. The overall mood is contemplative and serene.

Coping and Hoping: 62 Poems That Take You From Despair to Hope Ed Keelen,2023-12-12 Coping and Hoping pretty well sums up what Ed Keelen has been through over the past several years His friends call him Miracle Man for the number of times he has escaped the clutches of death and has come back to life Even though he came back to a life of pain and suffering to him it was a life well worth living Ed s mantra is to see the preciousness of life and the goodness of God through the lens of pain and suffering For quite a while he was looking through the wrong end of the lens and would complain and show anger toward God and his friends But through a process of reading the Psalms of Lament and then developing his own talent for writing similar poetry he gradually went from despair to hope Ed is not a trained or seasoned poet Instead he writes from the heart and his poems engulf the reader in the emotional roller coaster that constitutes his life

every emotion and perhaps feelings you didn't know you had More Than You Can Handle Nate Pyle, 2019-03-05 God won't give you more than you can handle. This is one of the most common and least helpful reassurances floating around Christian circles. It is anything but biblical. The truth is that God does allow a lot more than we can handle. But why? Nate Pyle has walked through tragedy in his own life: professional uncertainty, the intense impact of mental illness, and the struggle to build a family because of a lost pregnancy, infertility, and adoption. As a pastor, Nate has cried with countless people experiencing deep and overwhelming pain. They want answers, but perhaps even more, they want someone to sit with them as they lament. Cliché Christianity tells us not to ask questions in hard times. Yet transformation awaits us in the dark night of the soul. In More Than You Can Handle, Nate asks with you, God, where are you in this pain? Why don't you step in and act? Because when we courageously bring all of who we are to all of who God is and stop pretending we can handle life, we encounter the God of Redemption. The good news isn't that we can handle everything, but rather that God promises to be with us at the very moments we can't handle anything. Skillfully weaving together his own story, the stories of others, and a powerful look at the life of Jesus, Nate delivers a fresh and timely response to the pain we each experience. As Nate reminds us, the only thing more overwhelming than the pain of life is the love of a God who carries that pain with us.
