Goodbye Britain:

Good-bye, Great Britain Kathleen Burk, Professor of Modern and Contemporary History Kathleen Burk, Alec Cairncross, 1992-01-01 In this authoritative and gripping book the first full account of the 1976 International Monetary Fund crisis Kathleen Burk and Alec Cairncross peel back the surface of the most searing economic crisis of postwar Britain to reveal its historical roots and contemporary context During the spring of 1976 the plummeting value of the British pound against the U S dollar triggered a traumatic economic and political crisis International confidence in the pound collapsed an article in the Wall Street Journal headlined Good bye Great Britain urged investors to get out of sterling Refused aid by the London and New York markets the Labour Government under Prime Minister James Callaghan was forced to turn for help to the IMF a highly unusual move for a developed Western economy Fearing that the economic crisis would drive Britain into a left wing siege economy which would endanger NATO and the EEC the United States and Germany used the IMF loan as a means to force Britain to make major domestic policy changes when the IMF mission arrived in London in November 1976 it was announced that the price for the loan included deep cuts in domestic spending Burk and Cairncross uncover the maneuvers of the Labour Government to evade IMF conditions They also examine underlying economic factors the political agenda the rise of monetarist ideas and the Keynesian response Juxtaposing narrative with analysis they provide surprising answers to critical questions and reveal how the breakdown of the post war consensus on the macroeconomic management paved the way for the triumph of Thatcherism

Heritage and the Legacy of the Past in Contemporary Britain Ryan Trimm,2017-08-24 Bringing together heritage studies and literary studies this book examines heritage as a ubiquitous trope in contemporary Britain a seemingly inescapable figure for relations to the past Inheritance has been an important metaphor for characterizing cultural and political traditions since the 1970s but one criticized for its conservatism and apparent disinheritance of new Britons Engaging with contemporary literary and cinematic texts the book interrogates metaphoric resonances that bestowing past receiving present and transmitted bounty are all singular and unified that transmission between past and present is smooth despite heritage depending on death that the past enjoins the present to conserve its legacy into the future However heritage offers an alternative to modern market driven relations transactions stressing connection only through a momentary exchange for bequest resembles gift giving and connects past to present Consequently heritage contains competing impulses subtexts largely unexplored given the trope s lapse into cliché The volume charts how these resonances developed as well as charting more contemporary aspects of heritage as postmodern image tourist industry historic environment and metaculture These dimensions develop the trope moving it from singular focus on continuity with the past to one more oriented around different lines of relation between past present and future Heritage as a trope is explored through a wide range of texts core accounts of political theory Locke and Burke seminal documents within historic conservation phenomenology and poststructuralism film and television Merchant Ivory Downton Abbey and a broad range of contemporary fiction from novelists including Zadie Smith Julian Barnes Hilary Mantel Sarah Waters Alan Hollinghurst Peter Ackroyd and Helen Oyeyemi

E. Preiser, Brenda Case Scheer, 2017-08-03 First published in 1992 this book collects together the papers presented at the International Symposium on Design Review which was held to address the growing tendency of local governments to institute programs of aesthetic control The editor argues that the widespread adoption of design review processes in the years preceding the conference necessitated thoroughgoing professional criticism and a number of areas of debate are identified and addressed in the subsequent papers Are the difficulties experienced by planners community activists and architects with the process due to its relative youth or inherent flaws in the entire concept How should mechanical problems like time and expense the ease with which the process can be manipulated and general inefficiencies in the system be resolved More intricate problems are also addressed such as who has the power to judge the aesthetic quality of a building whether design review infringes on the rights of the individual especially under the First Amendment whether the design review process is fair and the difficulty for the reviewer of deciding what is right and what is wrong having taken into account factors that can be highly subjective or contradict more practical concerns Conservation in the Age of Consensus John Pendlebury, 2008-09-17 This new text on the subject of conservation in the built environment provides a unique holistic view on the understanding of the practice of conservation connecting it with wider societal and political forces UK practice is used as a means along with international examples for bringing together a real understanding of practice with a social science analysis of the issues The author introduces ideas about the meanings and values attached to historic environments and how that translates into public policies of conservation Conservation and the City Peter Larkham, 2002-03-11 It is a widely held belief that cities must change or they will wither and die One of the key problems of urbanization is how to cope with these changes while retaining the structures constructed and maintained by previous generations Conservation and the City is a study of conservation and change throughout the built environment city centres suburbs and even tiny villages and how the activities of conservation interact with the planning system Using detailed case studies from Britain and the Westernized world the author examines some of the key social economic and psychological ideas which support conservation as well as studying the urban landscape and the agents of change Conservation and the City seeks to understand urban conservation and in doing so presents possible solutions for managing change in the built environment of the future Conservation and Planning Edward Hobson,2004 This book presents original research into how national and local decision makers construct and implement conservation of the built environment On Roads Joe Moran,2010-12-09 In this history of roads and what they have meant to the people who have driven them one of Britain's favourite cultural historians reveals how a relatively simple road system turned into a maze like pattern of roundabouts flyovers and spaghetti junctions Using a unique blend of travel writing anthropology history and social observation he explores how Britain's roads have their roots in unexpected places from Napoleon's role in the numbering system to the surprising origin of sat nav Full of quirky nuggets of history such as the day trips organised to see the construction of the M1 and the 2 5m Mills and Boons used to build the M6 Toll Road On Roads also celebrates innovators whose work we take for granted such as the designers of the road sign system On subjects ranging from speed limits to driving on the left and the non places where we stop to the unwritten laws of traffic jams these hidden stories have never been told together until now
