Gooficon The:

The Dynamic Interlanguage Miriam R. Eisenstein, 2013-06-29 Recent work in applied linguistics has expanded our understanding of the rule governed nature of language The concept of an idealized speaker hearer whose linguistic competence is abstract and separate from reality has been enriched by the notion of an actual interlocutor who possesses communicative competence a knowledge of language which accounts for its use in real world contexts Areas of variation previously relegated to idiosyncratic differences in performance have been found to be dynamic yet consistent and lend themselves to study and systematic description Because language acquisition involves the development of communicative competence by its very nature it incorporates variation and systematicity Second language acquisition is similarly variable since interlanguage is subject to the same universal and language specific conventions In addition aspects of the second language have been found to be unevenly acquired and are differentially reflected in particular contexts or settings Yet despite our expanding knowledge this variability is only beginning to be treated in much of the second language acquisition literature This volume presents the work of some researchers and methodologists who have taken on the challenge of including variation in their research designs and pedagogical recommendations Variation is shown to be relevant to linguistic social and psychological aspects of language It is apparent in the registers and dialects of the target language and in the inter language of learners

The Development of Second Language Grammars Elaine C. Klein, Gita Martohardjono, 1999-05-15 This volume is a collection of state of the art papers in generative studies of second language L2 acquisition bringing together an unusually broad range of interests and inquiry Selected papers report on controlled experimental studies within specific areas of research investigating the development of L2 grammars others formulate exciting new proposals for methodology and learnability in both first and second language acquisition Following an introduction which argues for new research strategies that focus on the process of acquisition along with its product the book is divided into two sections Current Perspectives includes compelling new work on the development of functional categories within a parameter setting model of L2 acquisition the second section New Directions introduces research and discussion on topics which reflect the latest developments in the field including syntax semantics correspondences L2 processing research code switching from a UG perspective and applications of Chomsky's 1995 Minimalist Program to second language acquisition studies

Anatolievna, 2023-07-21 There is a clear tendency to consider the errors committed by learners in the process of learning a foreign language not as a negative aspect but as a natural process in the development of their language skills In the past teachers and researchers pondered these errors as something unfavorable something to prevent from occurring at all costs In order to regulate this appearance of errors many researchers in the field of foreign language technical teaching have started to study and track the errors made by these students Knowing the most common types of errors is an important and necessary step to inform teachers about where to direct their efforts regarding the most problematic areas students face while producing their technical writing assignments in a foreign language Cases on Error Analysis in Foreign Language Technical Writing provides relevant theoretical foundations and the latest empirical research findings in the area of error analysis in foreign language technical writing This book also summarizes the experience of teaching a foreign language for professional purposes in various fields of higher education Covering topics such as error analysis lexical skills and writing outputs this casebook is an essential resource for preservice teachers educators administrators librarians researchers and academicians Linguistics across Historical and Geographical Boundaries Dieter Kastovsky, Aleksander

Transfer and Interference in Language Monika Brügge-meier, Dietmar Fütterer, 1984 The topic of this bibliography in its broadest sense is the subject of a wide range of academic disciplines Given these circumstances the particular associations and connotations of the terms transfer and interference in each of these areas are legion with resultant differences in meaning in the disparate literature on these subjects And yet it is in one way or another contact and interaction of languages in the speaker hearer and learner in language acquisition contexts as well as in society in general which is basic to these two concepts throughout the various disciplines The discovery of this basic unitary notion is surely one of the reasons for the new interest in these phenomena In light of all this a bibliography cannot at present avoid being highly selective in order to demarcate an interdisciplinary area of research in its own right and with its own status The establishment of such an area is one of our main aims The focus of interest in this bibliography admittedly is directed towards the psycholinguistics of language contact and interaction
