Four African Political Systems:

Four African Political Systems Christian P. Potholm,1970 African Political Systems M. Fortes,E. E. Evans-Pritchard,2015-06-03 First published in 1940 and this edition in 1987 this book is a comparative study of African political institutions It describes different types of social organisation that are found in a number of African societies and analyses the principles underlying these traditional forms of government The volume represents the results of field studies carried out by trained investigators in a number of areas and was compiled and edited under the auspices of the International African Institute It will be of interest to students anthropologists and administrators The Politics of African and Middle Eastern States Anne Gordon Drabek,Wilfrid Knapp,2013-10-22 The Politics of African and Middle Eastern States An Annotated Bibliography is a record of books written about the politics history and the lives of the leaders of Africa and the Middle East The book is divided per chapter according to the geographical area being discussed Each chapter contains a list of books that fall under the following categories Political History Political Systems and Government Biographies Memoirs Speeches and Writings and External Relations Chapters I to VII cover different regions of Africa while Chapters VIII to XI cover the Middle East The text is a recommended for historians and political scientists especially those interested in the areas mentioned in the book The selection also serves a guide to those who plan to have further readings or make a paper about the political history government and development of the areas mentioned African Political Systems Revisited Aleksandar Bošković,Günther Schlee,2022-04-08 Reexamining a classical work of social anthropology African Political Systems 1940 edited by Fortes and Evans Pritchard this book looks at the colonial and academic context from which the work arose as well as its reception and its subject matter and looks at how the work can help with analysis of current politics in Africa This book critically reflects upon the history of anthropology It also contributes to a political anthropology which is aware of its antecedents self reflexive as a discipline conscious of pitfalls and biases and able to locate itself in its academic social and political environment Rethinking African Development Lual Acuek Lual Deng,1998 African Political Systems Meyer Fortes,2011-03-23 One object we had in initiating this study was to provide a convenient reference book for anthropologists We also hope that it will be a contribution to the discipline of comparative politics We feel sure that the first object has been attained for the societies described are representative of common types of African political systems and taken together they enable a student to appreciate the great variety of such types As the sketch map on p 2 shows the eight systems described are widely distributed in the continent Most of the forms described are variants of a pattern of political organization found among contiguous or neighbouring societies so that this book covers by implication a very large part of Africa We are aware that not every type of political system found in Africa is represented but we believe that all the major principles of African political organization are brought out in these essays Several contributors have described the changes in the political systems they investigated which have taken place as a result of European conquest and rule If we do not emphasize this side of the subject it is because all contributors are more interested in anthropological than in administrative problems We do not wish to imply however that anthropology is indifferent to practical affairs The policy of Indirect Rule is now generally accepted in British Africa We would suggest that it can only prove advantageous in the long run if the principles of African political systems such as this book deals with are understood Each essay is a condensation of a detailed study of the political system of a single people undertaken in recent years by the most advanced methods of field work by students trained in anthropological theory A degree of brevity that hardly does justice to some important topics has been necessary for reasons of space Each essay furnishes nevertheless a useful standard by which the political systems of other peoples in the same area may be classified No such classification is attempted in this book but we recognize that a satisfactory comparative study of African political institutions can only be undertaken after a classification of the kind has been made It would then be possible to study a whole range of adjacent societies in the light of the Ngwato system the Tale system the Ankole system the Bemba system and so on and by analysis to state the chief characters of series of political systems found in large areas An analysis of the results obtained by these comparative studies in fields where a whole range of societies display many similar characteristics in their political systems would be more likely to lead to valid scientific generalizations than comparison between particular societies belonging to different areas and political types African Political Thought Guy Martin, 2012-12-05 For most of its history the African continent has witnessed momentous political change remarkable philosophical innovation and the complex cross fertilization of ideologies and belief systems This definitive study surveys the concepts values and historical upheavals that have shaped African political systems from the ancient period to the postcolonial era and beyond Beginning with the emergence of indigenous political institutions it traces the most important developments in African history including the Africanization of Islam liberal democratic movements socialism Pan Africanism and Africanist Populist resistance to the neoliberal world order The result is an invaluable resource on a region too often ignored in the history of political thought Political Topographies of the African State Catherine Boone, 2003-10-27 This study brings Africa into the mainstream of studies of state formation in agrarian societies Territorial integration is the challenge institutional linkages and political deals that bind center and periphery are the solutions In African countries rulers at the center are forced to bargain with regional elites to establish stable mechanisms of rule and taxation Variation in regional forms of social organization make for differences in the interests and political strength of regional leaders who seek to maintain or enhance their power vis a vis their followers and subjects and also vis a vis the center What If the American Political System Were Different? Herbert M. Levine, 2015-02-24 First Published in 2015 This unique book is an ideal supplement for an introductory American politics course Each chapter consider a basic aspect of the American political system or historical tradition and speculates as to the consequences were that aspect fundamentally different Engagingly written by political scientists historians and a legal solicitor the book is non ideological throughout and invites reflection and discussion Each chapter will encourage readers to think critically about the American political system elate the relationships between different political structures and policy outcomes and in general consider American politics in an exciting new way Africa and the Democratic Option Austin Ogunsuyi,2004-05-29 The prospect for democracy in Africa is the central concern of this study The factors that contribute to the existence of undemocratic or autocratic governments in most of Africa therefore become our major focus for evaluation An analysis of the pre colonial colonial and postcolonial political history of Africa attribute autocracy in Africa to irreconcilable differences between the African traditional institutions and the imposed colonial political and economic systems This socioeconomic and political disharmony orchestrated by the colonial economics of exploitation set the tone for neocolonial African states fraught with economic and political instability Our research strategy involved a qualitative technique of collecting and analyzing a significant body of data relating to the political history of African states Through an Afrocentric prism the flaws of the African political and economic systems are traced to underlying deficiencies in the nature of its states For a second and perhaps authentic emancipation of Africa the components of the state structure must be realigned giving priority to the values customs and traditions of African people This should form the base for a democratic environment that will usher in effectiveness and legitimacy in governance in those states A democratization front comprising of Africans in Africa and the Diaspora is advocated to design and monitor the democratization movement in the continent The Organization of African Unity OAU should serve as the supervisory body to the democratization front The philosophy of the democratization front would include a pan African mobilization against the forces of political economic and social exploitation of the continent

The Principles of Sociology: pt. 4. Ceremonial institutions ; pt. 5. Political institutions (1883) Herbert Spencer,1882 Global Geopolitical Power and African Political and Economic Institutions John James Quinn,2015-12-30 Global Geopolitical Power and African Political and Economic Institutions When Elephants Fight describes the emergence and nature of the prevailing African political and economic institutions in two periods In the first most countries adopted political and economic institutions that funneled significant levels of political and economic power to the political elites usually through one or no party military political systems inward oriented development policies and or state led and often state owned industrialization In the second period most countries adopted institutions that diluted the overarching political and economic power of ruling elites through the adoption of de jure multiparty electoral systems more outward oriented trade policies and the privatization of many state owned or controlled sectors though significant political and economic power remains in their hands The choices made in each period were consistent with prevailing ideas on governance and development the self interests of political elites and the perceived availability of support or autonomy vis vis domestic regional and international sources of power at the time This book illustrates how these two region wide shifts in prevailing political and economic institutions and practices of Africa can be linked to two prior global geopolitical realignments the end of WWII with the ensuing American and Soviet led bipolar system and the end of the Cold War with American primacy Each period featured changed or newly empowered international and regional leaders with competing national priorities within new intellectual and geopolitical climates altering the opportunities and constraints for African leaders in instituting or maintaining particular political and economic institutions or practices The economic and political institutions of Africa that emerged did so as a result of a complex mix of contending domestic regional and international forces material and intellectual all which were themselves greatly transformed in the wake of these two global geopolitical realignments

Political Systems and the Distribution of Power Michael Banton, 2012-11-12 Modern political anthropology began in 1940 with the first systematic comparative studies of how primitive societies maintained law and order The focus was on government and the presence or absence of state institutions Recently interest has shifted to the study of power to examining the manipulation of political relations and to the task of elaborating a classification of governmental systems that will throw light on the important problems for research First published in 1965
