Fragment By Fragment Feminist Perspectives On Memory And Child Sexual Abuse:

Fragment by Fragment Margo Rivera, 1999 Fragment by Fragment is an important resource for survivors and professionals as well as anyone interested in a clear analysis of the complexities of memory and abuse. This compilation is a tool for social and political change in the best sense I trust it will provoke deeper thinking, animated discussion and eventually concerted political action. Elly Danica, award winning author and survivor of child sexual abuse. Critical Issues in Child Sexual Abuse Jon R. Conte, 2001-11-06. The chapters in this book are intended to describe what is known and what is not known in several specific areas of childhood abuse. The opening interview with Roland Summit gives readers an opportunity to get acquainted with a pioneer in the field. An instrumental force in the study of child sexual abuse, Summit has indelibly impacted the work of the remaining authors and the field in general. The interview provides a personal and historical view of the development of the field and identifies problems and issues all professionals should be prepared to deal with. A beginning chapter looks at the development of child sexual abuse research. Internationally recognized scholars, practitioners and thinkers who have based their contributions on both research and practice experience emphasize the most critical unknowns in his or her area, reflecting on the subject much as Dr. Summit might have in the early days of finding out the now knowns. Chapters focus on sexual offenders, children's memory, adult memory for trauma, children as victims, treatment challenges of traumatized victims, victims in court and treatment of dissociative identity clients. The Dissociative Mind Elizabeth F. Howell, 2013-05-13. Drawing on the pioneering work of Janet Freud, Sullivan and Fairbairn and making extensive use of recent literature, Elizabeth Howell develops a comprehensive model of the dissociative mind. Dissociation for her suffuses everyday life; it is a relationally structured survival strategy that arises out of the mind's need to allow interaction with frightening but still urgently needed others. For therapists, dissociated self states are among the everyday fare of clinical work and gain expression in dreams, projective identifications and enactments. Pathological dissociation, on the other hand, results when the psyche is overwhelmed by trauma and signals the collapse of relationality and an addictive clinging to dissociative solutions. Howell examines the relationship of segregated models of attachment, disorganized attachment, mentalization and defensive exclusion to dissociative processes in general and to particular kinds of dissociative solutions. Enactments are reframed as unconscious procedural ways of being with others that often result in segregated systems of attachment. Clinical phenomena associated with splitting are assigned to a model of attachment based dissociation in which alternating dissociated self states develop along an axis of relational trauma. Later chapters of the book examine dissociation in relation to pathological narcissism, the creation and reproduction of gender and psychopathy. Elegant in conception, thoughtful in tone, broad and deep in clinical applications, Howell takes the reader from neurophysiology to attachment theory, to the clinical remediation of trauma states, to the reality of evil. It provides a masterful overview of a literature that extends forward to the writings of Bromberg, Stern, Ryle and others. The capstone of contemporary understandings of dissociation in relation to development and psychopathology The Dissociative Mind will be an adventure and an education for its many clinical readers

Relational Remembering Sue Campbell, 2003-10-07 Tracing the impact of the memory wars on science and culture Relational Remembering offers a vigorous philosophical challenge to the contemporary skepticism about memory that is their legacy Campbell's work provides a close conceptual analysis of the strategies used to challenge women's memories particularly those meant to provoke a general social alarm about suggestibility Sue Campbell argues that we cannot come to an adequate understanding of the nature and value of memory through a distorted view of rememberers The harmful stereotypes of women's passivity and instability that have repopulated discussions of abuse have led many theorists to regard the social dimensions of remembering only negatively as a threat or contaminant to memory integrity Such models of memory cannot help us grasp the nature of harms linked to oppression as these models imply that changed group understandings of the past are incompatible with the integrity of personal memory Campbell uses the false memory debates to defend a feminist reconceptualization of personal memory as relational social and subject to politics Memory is analyzed as a complex of cognitive abilities and social narrative activities where one's success or failure as a rememberer is both affected by one's social location and has profound ramifications for one's cultural status as a moral agent

True and False Recovered Memories Robert F. Belli, 2011-11-18 Beginning in the 1990s the contentious memory wars divided psychologists into two schools of thought that adults recovered memories of childhood abuse were generally true or that they were generally not calling theories therapies professional ethics and survivor credibility into question More recently

Unruly Girls, Unrepentant Mothers Kathleen Rowe Karlyn, 2011-01-15 Since the 1990s when Reviving Ophelia became a best seller and Girl Power a familiar anthem girls have assumed new visibility in the culture Yet in asserting their new power young women have redefined femininity in ways that have often mystified their mothers They have also largely disavowed feminism even though their new influence is a likely legacy of feminism's Second Wave At the same time popular culture has persisted in idealizing demonizing or simply erasing mothers rarely depicting them in strong and loving relationships with their daughters Unruly Girls Unrepentant Mothers a companion to Kathleen Rowe Karlyn's groundbreaking work The Unruly Woman studies the ways popular culture and current debates within and about feminism inform each other Surveying a range of films and television shows that have defined girls in the postfeminist era from Titanic and My So Called Life to Scream and The Devil Wears Prada and from Love and Basketball to Ugly Betty Karlyn explores the ways class race and generational conflicts have shaped both Girl Culture and feminism's Third Wave Tying feminism's internal conflicts to negative attitudes toward mothers in the social world she asks whether today's seemingly materialistic and apolitical girls inspired by such real and fictional figures as the Spice Girls and Buffy the Vampire Slayer have turned their backs on the feminism of their mothers or are redefining unruliness for a new age

Our Greatest Challenge Hannah McGlade, 2012 Hannah McGlade's book bravely addresses the complex and fraught issue of Aboriginal child abuse She argues that Aboriginal child sexual assault has been formed within the entrenched societal forces of racism colonisation and patriarchy yet cast in the Australian public domain as an Aboriginal problem with controversial government responses critiqued as racist and paternalistic McGlade highlights that non Aboriginal society has yet to acknowledge the traumatic impacts of the sexual assault on Aboriginal children which was part and parcel of the European project of civilisation She provides detailed analysis of the legal systems response While child sexual assault is a criminal offence the Aboriginal experience of the law is tainted Despite reforms to the law the courtroom experience is based on re victimisation and trauma which prevents the fundamental principle of equality before the law McGlade believes that we should be guided by Indigenous human rights concepts and international Indigenous responses in addressing the problem In doing so she believes that we can help to stem the harm to future generations
