Frames Of Remembrance The Dynamics Of Collective Memory:

Frames of Remembrance Iwona Irwin Zarecka, Frames of Remembrance Iwona Irwin Zarecka, 1994 Frames of Remembrance Iwona Irwin-Zarecka, 2017-10-02 What is the symbolic impact of the Vietnam War Memorial How does television change our engagement with the past Can the efforts to wipe out Communist legacies succeed Should victims of the Holocaust be celebrated as heroes or as martyrs These questions have a great deal in common yet they are typically asked separately by people working in distinct research areas in different disciplines Frames of Remembrance shares ideas and concerns across such divides Irwin Zarecka writes in clear trenchant prose inviting interdisciplinary exchanges She journeys through a widely ranging empirical terrain allowing students of collective memory to explore the emergent links and bridges Working through a selection of analytically challenging questions she opens new passages of inquiry The results should prove a treasure trove for experienced researchers and newcomers alike The first part of the book sets the analytical parameters of the study The second section reflects on how the past becomes relevant to people in smaller as well as larger communities The final chapters focus on the practices and practitioners of memory work itself Included is a select critically annotated bibliography that with the range of works listed shows that the study of collective memory is rapidly gaining a place in the history of past and present By placing questions about the dynamics of collective remembrance and forgetting at the center of our efforts to understand human affairs this book is a bold undertaking indeed Yet at a time when the future of whole regions from Eastern Europe to South Africa from the Middle East to North America may well depend on how people deal with the past this call to serious analytical attention needs to be heard This book will be of keen interest to historians sociologists anthropologists psychologists and professionals in communications studies The Northern Cheyenne Exodus in History and Memory James N. Leiker, Ramon Powers, 2012-11-09 The exodus of the Northern Cheyennes in 1878 and 1879 an attempt to flee from Indian Territory to their Montana homeland is an important event in American Indian history It is equally important in the history of towns like Oberlin Kansas where Cheyenne warriors killed more than forty settlers The Cheyennes in turn suffered losses through violent encounters with the U S Army More than a century later the story remains familiar because it has been told by historians and novelists and on film In The Northern Cheyenne Exodus in History and Memory James N Leiker and Ramon Powers explore how the event has been remembered told and retold They examine the recollections of Indians and settlers and their descendants and they consider local history mass media treatments and literature to draw thought provoking conclusions about how this story has changed over time The Cheyennes journey has always been recounted in melodramatic stereotypes and for the last fifty years most versions have featured noble savages trying to reclaim their birthright Here Leiker and Powers deconstruct those stereotypes and transcend them pointing out that history is never so simple The Cheyennes flight they write had left white and Indian bones alike scattered along its route from Oklahoma to Montana In this view the descendants of the Cheyennes and the settlers they encountered are all westerners who need history as a way of explaining the bones and arrowheads that littered the plains Leiker and Powers depict a rural West whose diverse peoples Euro American and Native American alike seek to preserve their heritage through memory and history Anyone who lives in the contemporary Great Plains or who wants to understand the West as a whole will find this book compelling

Fragments of the Holocaust David Duindam, 2025-10-01 Why do we attach so much value to sites of Holocaust memory if all we ever encounter are fragments of a past that can never be fully comprehended David Duindam examines how the Hollandsche Schouwburg a former theater in Amsterdam used for the registration and deportation of nearly 50 000 Jews fell into disrepair after World War II before it became the first Holocaust memorial museum of the Netherlands Fragments of the Holocaust The Amsterdam Hollandsche Schouwburg as a Site of Memory combines a detailed historical study of the postwar period of this site with a critical analysis of its contemporary presentation by placing it within international debates concerning memory emotionally fraught heritage and museum studies A case is made for the continued importance of the Hollandsche Schouwburg and other comparable sites arguing that these will remain important in the future as indexical fragments where new generations can engage with the memory of the Holocaust on a personal and affective level

Israeli Historical Revisionism Derek J. Penslar, Anita Shapira, 2013-10-31 The essays in this volume by leading scholars from within and outside Israel shed new light on the Israeli historians controversy of the creation of the State of Israel the 1948 War and its aftermath Israel s attitude towards Holocaust survivors the melting pot absorption policy and similar subjects The attack on Zionist historiography which initially came from what is dubbed the post Zionist radical left has recently broadened to include a critique from the right These essays cover diverse aspects of the critique exploring its historiographical political sociological and educational ramifications

Cultural Memory and the Construction of Identity Dan Ben-Amos, Liliane Weissberg, 1999 Cultural memory and the Construction of Identity brings together scholars of folklore literature history and communication to explore the dynamics of cultural memory in a variety of contexts Memory is a powerful tool that can transform a piece of earth into a homeland and common objects into symbols The authors of this volume show how memory is shaped and how it operates in uniting society and creating images that attain the value of truth even if they deviate from fact

Diaspora, Memory and Identity Vijay Agnew, 2005-01-01 Memories establish a connection between a collective and individual past between origins heritage and history Those who have left their places of birth to make homes elsewhere are familiar with the question Where do you come from and respond in innumerable well rehearsed ways Diasporas construct racialized sexualized gendered and oppositional subjectivities and shape the cosmopolitan intellectual commitment of scholars The diasporic individual often has a double consciousness a privileged knowledge and perspective that is consonant with postmodernity and globalization The essays in this volume reflect on the movements of people and cultures in the present day when physical social and mental borders and boundaries are being challenged and sometimes successfully dismantled The contributors from a variety of disciplinary perspectives discuss the diasporic experiences of ethnic and racial groups living in Canada from their perspective including the experiences of South Asians Iranians West Indians Chinese and Eritreans Diaspora Memory and Identity is an exciting and innovative collection of essays that examines the nuanced development of theories of Diaspora subjectivity double consciousness gender and class experiences and the nature of home After the Gulag Tyler C. Screening Queer Memory Anamarija Horvat, 2021-04-22 In Screening Queer Memory Anamarija Horvat examines how LGBTQ history has been represented on screen and interrogates the specificity of queer memory. She poses several questions: How are the pasts of LGBTQ people and communities visualised and commemorated on screen? How do these representations comment on the influence of film and television on the construction of queer memory? How do they present the passage of memory from one generation of LGBTQ people to another? Finally, which narratives of the queer past, particularly of the activist past, are being commemorated and which are obscured? Horvat exemplifies how contemporary British and American cinema and television have commented on the specificity of queer memory, how they have reflected aspects of its construction as well as participated in its creation. In doing so, she adds to an under-examined area of queer film and television research which has privileged concepts of nostalgia, history, temporality and the archive over memory. Films and television shows explored include Cheryl Dunye's The Watermelon Woman (1996), Todd Haynes' Velvet Goldmine (1998), Joey Soloway's Transparent (2014, 2019), Matthew Warchus' Pride (2014) and Tom Rob Smith's London Spy (2015).
