Framing Authority Mary Thomas Crane, 2014-07-14 Writers in sixteenth century England often kept commonplace books in which to jot down notable fragments encountered during reading or conversation but few critics have fully appreciated the formative influence this activity had on humanism Focusing on the discursive practices of gathering textual fragments and framing or forming arranging and assimilating them Mary Crane shows how keeping commonplace books made up the English humanists central transaction with antiquity and provided an influential model for authorial practice and authoritative self fashioning She thereby revises our perceptions of English humanism revealing its emphasis on sayings collectivism shared resources anonymous inscription and balance of power in contrast to an aristocratic mode of thought which championed individualism imperialism and strong assertion of authorial voice Crane first explores the theory of gathering and framing as articulated in influential sixteenth century logic and rhetoric texts and in the pedagogical theory with which they were linked in the humanist project She then investigates the practice of humanist discourse through a series of texts that exemplify the notebook method of composition These texts include school curricula political and economic treatises such as More's Utopia contemporary biography and collections of epigrams and poetic miscellanies Originally published in 1993 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Reading, Society and Politics in Early Modern England Kevin Sharpe, Steven N. Psychoanalysis, and Early Modern Culture Carla Mazzio,Douglas Trevor,2013-10-28 First published in 2000 Did people in early modern Europe have a concept of an inner self Carla Mazzio and Douglas Trevor have brought together an outstanding group of literary cultural and history scholars to answer this intriguing question Through a synthesis of historicism and psychoanalytic criticism the contributors explore the complicated nuanced and often surprising union of history and subjectivity in Europe centuries before psychoanalytic theory Addressing such topics as fetishes and Renaissances the cartographic unconscious and the topographic imaginary these essays move beyond the strict boundaries of historicism and psychoanalysis to carve out new histories of interiority in early modern Europe

Literature and politics in the English Reformation Tom Betteridge, 2017-10-03 This book is a study of the English Reformation as a political and literary event Focusing on an eclectic group of texts unified by their explication of the key elements of the cultural history of the period 1510-1580 the book unravels the political poetic and religious themes of the era Through readings of work by Edmund Spenser William Tyndale Sir Thomas More and John Skelton as well as less celebrated Tudor writers Betteridge surveys pre-Henrician literature as well as Henrician Reformation texts and delineates the literature of the reigns of Edward VI Mary Tudor and Elizabeth I Ultimately the book argues that this literature and the era should not be understood simply on the basis of conflicts between Protestantism and Catholicism but rather that Tudor culture must be seen as fractured between emerging confessional identities and marked by a conflict between those who embraced confessionalism and those who rejected it This important study will be fascinating reading for students and researchers in early modern English literature and history

Boxes and Books in Early Modern England Lucy Razzall, 2021-08-19 In early modern England boxes furnished minds as readily as they furnished rooms shaping ideas about the challenges of interpretation and negotiations of the book itself as text and material object Engaging with recent work on material culture and the history of the book Lucy Razzall weaves together close readings of texts and objects from wills plays sermons and religious polemic to chests book bindings reliquaries and coffins She demonstrates how the material and imaginative possibilities of the box were dynamically connected in post-Reformation England structuring modes of thought These early modern responses to materiality offer ways in which the discipline of book history might reframe its analysis of the material text In tracing the early modern significance of the box as matter and metaphor this book reveals the origins of some of the enduring habits of thought with which we still respond to people texts and things

Heale, 2002-12-13 The advent of relatively cheap editions in the mid-sixteenth century produced an explosion of verse much of which represented the first person speaker as a version of the author This book examines ways in which writers often seeking advancement in their careers harnessed verse for self-promotional purposes Texts studied include a manuscript autobiography by Thomas Whythorne printed verse by a woman Isabella Whitney travel and war narratives as well as canonical texts by Spenser Sidney and Shakespeare

Fictions of Credit in the Age of Shakespeare Laura Kolb, 2021-02-04 In Shakespeare's England credit was synonymous with reputation and reputation developed in the interplay of language conduct and social interpretation As a consequence artful language and social hermeneutics became practical profitable skills Since most people both used credit and extended it the dual strategies of implication and inference of producing and reading evidence were everywhere Like poetry or drama credit was constructed fashioned out of the interplay of artifice and interpretation The rhetorical dimension of economic relations produced social fictions on a range of scales from transitory performances facilitating local transactions to the long term project of maintaining creditworthiness to the generalized social indeterminacy that arose from the interplay of performance and interpretation Fictions of Credit in the Age of Shakespeare examines how Shakespeare and his contemporaries represented credit driven artifice and interpretation on the early modern stage It also analyses a range of practical texts including commercial arithmetics letter writing manuals legal formularies and tables of interest which offered strategies for generating credit and managing debt Looking at plays and practical texts together Fictions of Credit argues that both types of writing constitute equipment for living practical texts by offering concrete strategies for navigating England s culture of credit and plays by exploring the limits of credit s dangers and possibilities In their representations of a world re written by debt relations dramatic texts in particular articulate a phenomenology of economic life telling us what it feels like to live in credit culture to live that is inside a fiction

The End of Conduct Barbara Correll,2019-06-07 Grobianus et Grobiana a little known but key Renaissance text is the starting point for this examination of indecency conduct and subject formation in the early modern period First published in 1549 Friedrich Dedekind's ironic poem recommends the most disgusting behavior indecency as a means of instilling decency The poem Barbara Correll maintains not only supplements prior conduct literature but offers a reading of it as well her analysis of the Grobianus texts the neo Latin original the German vernacular adaptation the 1605 English translation and Thomas Dekker's Guls Horne booke also provides a historical account of conduct during the shift from a medieval to a Renaissance sensibility According to Correll the effect of Dedekind's text is to establish normative masculine identity through the labor of aversion The gross material body must be subjugated and reconstituted in order to attain its status as the bearer of civil manhood Correll shows how the virtual subject of civil conduct emerges in dominant yet necessarily beleaguered relation to colonized Others whether in feminine animal or peasant guise Referring to Renaissance courtesy literature from Castiglione to Erasmus she identifies this double drama of early modern subject formation as central to conduct books as well as to their grobian extensions Her work places Grobianus in the civilizing process that marked emerging bourgeois society in early modern Europe

The Oxford History of Classical Reception in English Literature Rita Copeland, 2016-01-28 The Oxford History of Classical Reception in English Literature OHCREL is designed to offer a comprehensive investigation of the numerous and diverse ways in which literary texts of the classical world have stimulated responses and refashioning by English writers Covering the full range of English literature from the early Middle Ages to the present day OHCREL both synthesizes existing scholarship and presents cutting edge new research employing an international team of expert contributors for each of the five volumes OHCREL endeavours to interrogate rather than inertly reiterate conventional assumptions about literary periods the processes of canon formation and the relations between literary and non literary discourse It conceives of reception as a complex process of dialogic exchange and rather than offering large cultural generalizations it engages in close critical analysis of literary texts It explores in detail the ways in which English writers engagement with classical literature casts as much light on the classical originals as it does on the English writers own cultural context This first volume and fourth to appear in the series covers the years c 800 1558 and surveys the reception and transformation of classical literary culture in England from the Anglo Saxon period up to the Henrician era Chapters on

Close Readers Alan Stewart, 2014-07-14 Humanism in both its rhetoric and practice attempted to transform the relationships between men that constituted the fabric of early modern society So argues Alan Stewart in this ground breaking investigation into the impact of humanism in sixteenth century England Here the author shows that by valorizing textual skills over martial prowess humanism provided a new means of upward mobility for the lowborn but humanistically trained scholar he could move into a highly intimate place in a nobleman's household that was previously not open to him Because of its novelty and secrecy the intimacy between master and scholar was vulnerable to accusations of another type of intimacy sodomy In comparing the ways both humanism and sodomy signaled a new economy of social relations capable of producing widespread anxiety Stewart contributes to the foray of modern gay scholarship into Renaissance art and literature The author explores the intriguing relationship between humanism and sodomy in a series of case studies the Medici court of the 1470s the allegations against monks in the campaign to suppress the English monasteries the institutionalized beating of young boys the treacherous circle of the doomed Sir Thomas Seymour and the closet secretaries of Elizabeth's final years Stewart's documentation comes from a wide range of underused materials from schoolboys grammar books to political writings enabling him to reconstruct frequently misunderstood events in their original contexts Originally published in 1997 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Cultivated by Hand Glenda Goodman, 2024-05 Cultivated by Hand aligns the overlooked history of amateur musicians in the early years of the United States with little understood practices of music book making. It reveals the pervasiveness of these practices particularly among women and their importance for the construction of gender, class, race, and nation. Sir Philip Sidney and the Circulation of Manuscripts, 1558-1640 H. R. Woudhuysen, 1996-05-23 This is the first modern study of the production and circulation of manuscripts during the English Renaissance. H. R. Woudhuysen examines the relationship between manuscript and print, looks at people who lived by their pens, and surveys authorial and scribal manuscripts, paying particular attention to the copying of verse plays and scholarly works by hand. It investigates the professional production of manuscripts for sale by scribes such as Ralph Crane and Richard Robinson. The second part of the book examines Sir Philip Sidney's works in the context of Woudhuysen's research, discussing all Sidney's important manuscripts and seeking to assess his part in the circulation of his works and his role in the promotion of a scribal culture. A detailed examination of the manuscripts and early prints of his poems, his Arcadias, and of Astrophil and Stella shed new light on their composition, evolution, and dissemination, as well as on Sidney's friends and admirers.
