Seven Curricular Landscapes Clifford Mayes, 2003 Seven Curricular Landscapes offers a holistic presentation and critique of what the author considers to be the seven major types of curricula This book which is suitable for both upper division and graduate education courses differs from previous holistic approaches in that it closely considers the holistic implications of postmodernism adds new categories and terms to the holistic repertoire includes the latest developments in transpersonal theory examines the Existentialist curriculum as a spiritual phenomenon and discusses the curricular implications of both Eastern and Western spirituality

Archetype, Culture, and the Individual in Education Clifford Mayes, 2020-03-16 In Archetype Culture and the Individual in Education The Three Pedagogical Narratives Clifford Mayes presents a unique approach to understanding how Jungian principles can inform pedagogical theory and practice In a time when what the educational historian Lawrence Cremin called the military industrial educational complex and its standardized education are running roughshod over the psyche and spirit of students Mayes deploys depth psychology especially the work of Jung to advance an archetypal approach to teaching and learning Mayes demonstrates how catastrophic it is to students when the classroom is governed by forces that objectify the individual in a paralysing stranglehold He argues that one's life narrative is significantly impacted by one's narrative as a learner thus schooling that commodifies learning and turns the student into an object has neuroticizing effects that will spread throughout that student's entire life In Part I Mayes explores the interaction between archetypes and various types of time ultimately focusing on the individual but always mediated by the cultural unconscious In Parts II and III he brings together education with post Jungian and post Freudian psychology examining transference countertransference in the classroom the Jungian idea of the shadow applied to educational processes Jung's unique vision of the symbol and its importance for educational theory and Jung's transcendent function as a prime educational modality Mayes concludes by looking to the future of archetypal pedagogy This groundbreaking work in the emerging field of Jungian pedagogy is invaluable reading in Jungian Studies depth psychological theory educational theory and for teachers and psychotherapists The Journal of Transpersonal Psychology ,1992 Psychotherapy of the Future

Humanism and Behaviorism in Physical Education Robert E. Gensemer, Robert J. Krajewski, Robert Baird Shuman, 1979 This book offers analyses applications and a combined form of behaviorism and humanism as they relate to the teaching of physical education The composition of the two systems is explored pragmatically with an overall objective of assisting teachers in their endeavors to make teaching and learning more efficient effective and rewarding The differences between the two philosophies are apparent humanism assigns the responsibility for learning to the student while behaviorism assigns the responsibility for learning to the teacher Humanism is concerned with self directed activity such as creativity and self discovery Applying humanism to a physical education course entails creating an environment of psychological intellectual and physical movement freedom The behaviorist model of teaching represents a branch of psychology which relies on a stimulus response view of education The central idea of behaviorism is that behavior is affected by its consequences and the future occurrence of behaviors is influenced by the way in which the environment usually people responds to those behaviors An effective combination of both systems which at first glance seems antithetical would use the following steps 1 identify specific target behaviors 2 select the educational experiences 3 organize the educational experiences and 4 evaluate the effect FG
