Promoting the Health of the Community Julie Ann St. John, Susan L. Mayfield-Johnson, Wandy D. Hernández-Gordon, 2021-02-18 Community health workers CHWs are an increasingly important member of the healthcare and public health professions who help build primary care capacity Yet in spite of the exponential growth of CHW interventions CHW training programs and CHW certification and credentialing by state agencies a gap persists in the literature regarding current CHW roles and skills scope of practice CHW job settings and national standards This collection of contributions addresses this gap by providing information in a single volume about CHWs the roles CHWs play as change agents in their communities integration of CHWs into healthcare teams and support and recognition of the CHW profession The book supports the CHW definition as defined by the American Public Health Association APHA Community Health Worker Section 2013 which states A community health worker is a frontline public health worker who is a trusted member of and or has an unusually close understanding of the community served The scope of the text follows the framework of the nationally recognized roles of CHWs that came out of a national consensus building project called The Community Health Worker CHW Core Consensus C3 Project Topics explored among the chapters include Cultural Mediation Among Individuals Communities and Health and Social Service Systems Care Coordination Case Management and System Navigation Advocating for Individuals and Communities Building Individual and Community Capacity Implementing Individual and Community Assessments Participating in Evaluation and Research Uniting the Workforce Building Capacity for a National Association of Community Health Workers Promoting the Health of the Community is a must have resource for CHWs those interested in CHW scope of practice and or certification credentialing anyone interested in becoming a CHW policy makers CHW payer systems CHW supervisors CHW employers CHW instructors trainers CHW advocates supporters and guideline on self-care interventions for health and well-being World Health Organization,2021-07-31 Self care interventions are among the most promising and exciting new approaches to improve health and well being both from a health systems perspective and for people who use these interventions The World Health Organization WHO uses the following working definition of self care Self care is the ability of individuals families and communities to promote health prevent disease maintain health and cope with illness and disability with or without the support of a health worker The scope of self care as described in this definition includes health promotion disease prevention and control self medication providing care to dependent persons seeking hospital specialist primary care if necessary and rehabilitation including palliative care It includes a range of self care modes and approaches While this is a broad definition that includes many activities it is important for health policy to recognize the importance of self care especially where it intersects with health systems and health professionals Worldwide an estimated shortage of 18 million health workers is anticipated by 2030 a record 130 million people are currently in need of humanitarian assistance and disease outbreaks are a constant global threat At least 400 million people worldwide lack access to the most essential health services and every year 100 million people are plunged into poverty because they have to pay for health care out of their own pockets There is an urgent need to find innovative strategies that go beyond the conventional health sector response While self care is not a new term or concept self care interventions have the potential to increase choice when they are accessible and affordable and they can also provide more opportunities for individuals to make informed decisions regarding their health and health care In humanitarian settings for example due to lack of or limited health infrastructure and medical services in the crisis affected areas self care could play an important role to improve health related outcomes Self care also builds upon existing movements such as task sharing which are powerful strategies to support health systems Counseling the Nursing Mother: A Lactation Consultant's Guide Judith Lauwers,Anna Swisher,2020-07-01 Counseling the Nursing Mother A Lactation Consultant s Guide Seventh Edition presents topics within a counseling framework with practical suggestions and evidence based information interwoven throughout
