The Ethics and Poetics of Alterity Maylis Rospide, Sandrine Sorlin, 2015-09-04 This volume focuses on language and ethics in literary genres such as dystopia science fiction and fantasy that depict encounters with alterity

Indeed so called genre literature embodies a heuristic model that dramatizes and exacerbates these encounters by featuring exotic subhuman or post human beings that defy human knowledge elements particularly prevalent in science fiction and fantasy

These genres have often been regarded as an entertaining or escapist field that does not lend itself to ethical and poetical reflections limiting its scope to a hollow and servile repetition of genre codes

This volume shows unequivocally that this field does lend itself to such reflections

The contributors to this book highlight genre literature's defamiliarising power through which things can be seen

In meta conceptualising the relationship between language and reality it problematises and enhances this relation by making it more easily perceivable

The book shows that rather than contenting itself with merely questioning the mechanism of estrangement genre literature explores the confines of readability and the boundary between the readerly and the writerly

In their desire to represent the Other in all its complexity writers are indeed confronted with an ethical and poetical aporia how can what escapes humanity be described in human language How can human language represent things that have no known referent in the reader's world of experience This collection of essays reveals that the most prototypical traits of genre literature lie in the encounter with otherness and the linguistic issues this raises

Gulliver's Travels Jonathan Swift, 1920 The Politics and Poetics of Translation in Turkey, 1923-1960 Şehnaz Tahir Gürçağlar, 2008 The present book is a bold attempt at revealing the complex and diversified nature of the field of translated literature in Turkey during a period of radical socio-political change On the broad level it investigates the implications of the political transformation experienced in Turkey after the proclamation of the Republic for the cultural and literary fields including the field of translated literature On a more specific level it holds translation under focus and explores the discourse formed on translation and translators while it also traces the norms not observed by translators throughout the 1920s 1950s in two case studies The findings of the study suggest that the concepts of translation both affected and were affected by cultural processes in the society including ideological and poetological ones and that there was no uniform way of defining or carrying out translations during the period under study The findings also point at the segmentation of readership in early republican Turkey and conclude that the political and poetological factors governing the production and reception of translations varied for different segments of readers The British Library General Catalogue of Printed Books 1976 to 1982 British Library, 1983 Classic Starts®: Peter Pan J.
