Arab Economies in the Twenty-First Century Paul Rivlin, 2009-02-09 This book examines the relationship between demographic growth and economic development in eight Arab countries Despite a slowdown in demographic growth as a result of the change in the age structure of the population the labor force is increasing rapidly In other parts of the world similar developments have enhanced economic growth In the Arab world however many of the opportunities presented by demographic transition are being lost resulting in serious threats to the political stability of the region The main reason for this is that the region has missed out on industrialization The book goes beyond conventional analysis to ask two closely related questions The first is why were governments so slow in tackling stability The second is why has the response been similar in apparently different economies Answers are provided using new literature in economics and economic history Modeling and Analysis of Compositional Data Vera

Pawlowsky-Glahn, Juan José Egozcue, Raimon Tolosana-Delgado, 2015-03-30 Modeling and Analysis of Compositional Data presents a practical and comprehensive introduction to the analysis of compositional data along with numerous examples to illustrate both theory and application of each method Based upon short courses delivered by the authors it provides a complete and current compendium of fundamental to advanced methodologies along with exercises at the end of each chapter to improve understanding as well as data and a solutions manual which is available on an accompanying website Complementing Pawlowsky Glahn s earlier collective text that provides an overview of the state of the art in this field Modeling and Analysis of Compositional Data fills a gap in the literature for a much needed manual for teaching self learning or consulting Technology in Interlanguage Pragmatics Research and Teaching Naoko Taguchi, Julie M.

Gradability in Natural Language Heather Burnett, 2017-02-23 This book presents a new theory of the relationship between vagueness context sensitivity gradability and scale structure in natural language Heather Burnett argues that it is possible to distinguish between particular subclasses of adjectival predicates relative adjectives like tall total adjectives like dry partial adjectives like wet and non scalar adjectives like hexagonal on the basis of how their criteria of application vary depending on the context how they display the characteristic properties of vague language and what the properties of their associated orders are It has been known for a long time that there exist empirical connections between context sensitivity vagueness and scale structure however a formal system that expresses these connections had yet to be developed This volume sets out a new logical system called DelTCS that brings together insights from the Delineation Semantics framework and from the Tolerant Classical Strict non classical framework to arrive at a full theory of gradability and scale structure in the adjectival domain The analysis is further extended to examine vagueness and gradability associated with particular classes of determiner phrases showing that the correspondences that exist between the major adjectival scale structure classes and subclasses of determiner phrases can also be captured within the DelTCS system

Urbanization with Chinese Characteristics: The Hukou System and Migration Kam Wing Chan, 2018-04-19 Many agree that rapid urbanization in China in the late 20th and early 21st centuries is a mega process significantly reshaping China and the global economy China's urbanization also carries a certain mystique which has long fascinated generations of scholars and journalists alike As it has turned out many of the asserted Chinese feats are mostly fancied claims or gross misinterpretations of statistics for example There does exist however an urbanization that displays rather uncommon Chinese characteristics that remain to inadequately understood Building on his three decades of careful research Professor Kam Wing Chan expertly dissects the complexity of China's hukou system migration urbanization and their interrelationships in this set of journal articles published in the last ten years These works range from seminal papers on Chinese urban definitions and statistics and broad perspective analysis of the hukou system of its first semi centennial to examinations of migration trends and geography and critical evaluations of China's 2014 urbanization blueprint and hukou reform plan This convenient assemblage contains many of Chan's recent important works Together they also form a relatively coherent set on this topic They are essential readings to anyone serious about gaining a true understanding of the prodigious urbanization in contemporary China
