Ethnopolitical Warfare Causes Consequences And Possible Solutions:

Ethnopolitical Warfare Daniel Chirot, Martin E. P. Seligman, 2001-01-01 Examines international cases to understand what causes a society's ethnic conflicts to escalate or de-escalate. This book contains examinations of the political and historical antecedents to conflict around the world combining them with psychological analyses of group identity and intergroup conflict. In examining the escalation of ethnic conflict, the chapters highlight the critical role of group identification, stressing how group identification becomes enmeshed with threatened economic resources, violent political subcultures, and media manipulation of collective fear.

The Prevention and Intervention of Genocide Samuel Totten, 2017-09-08 Over the last twenty years, the world has witnessed four major genocides: There was the genocide in Iraq 1988, in Rwanda 1994, in Srebrenica 1995, and in Darfur 2003, and continuing. Most observers agree there is an urgent need to assess the international community's efforts to prevent genocide and to intervene once a genocide is under way in an effective and timely manner. This volume, the latest in a widely respected series on the subject of genocide, provides an overview of a host of issues germane to this task. The book begins with a cogent discussion of the issues of prevention and intervention during the Cold War years. The second chapter discusses the abject failures and moderate though in some cases highly controversial successes at prevention and intervention carried out in the 1990s and early 2000s. Further chapters examine latest efforts to develop an effective genocide early warning system and examine the complexity of and barriers to prevention. The pros and cons of sanctions and the problems of enforcement and evaluation of their effectiveness are then discussed. Conflicts between state sovereignty and the protection of threatened populations are examined both in historical context and by incorporating the latest thinking. Later chapters treat the issue of intervention: why and how it has met with only limited success. Concentrating on Rwanda and Srebrenica, chapter 8 discusses various peace operations that were abject failures and those that were moderately successful. The concept of an anti-genocide regime is examined in terms of progress in developing such a regime as well as what the international community must do in order to implement it. Chapters discuss key issues related to post-genocidal periods: those that need to be addressed in order to establish stability in a wounded land and populace as well as to prevent future genocides. The final chapter asks whether bringing perpetrators to justice has any impact in breaking impunity, ensuring deterrence, and bringing about reconciliation. The contributors to the volume are all noted scholars, some of whom specialize in the study of genocide and others who specialize in such areas as early warning, peacekeeping, and sanctions.

Handbook of Conflict Analysis and Resolution Dennis J.D. Sandole, Sean Byrne, Ingrid Sandole-Staroste, Jessica Senehi, 2008-07-31 This major Handbook is a collection of work from leading scholars in the Conflict Analysis and Resolution (CAR) field. The central theme is the value of interdisciplinary approaches to the analysis and resolution of conflicts.

Communication and Conflict Transformation through Local, Regional, and Global Engagement Peter M. Kellett, Thomas G. Matyók, 2016-12-13 Central to a transformational approach to conflict is the idea that conflicts must be viewed as embedded within broader relational patterns and social and discursive structures and must be addressed as such. This implies the need for systemic change at generative levels in order to create genuine transformation at the level of particular conflicts. Central also to this book is the idea that the origins of transformation can be momentary or situational, small scale or micro level as well as bigger and more systemic or macro level. Micro level changes involve shifts and meaningful changes in communication and related patterns that are created in communication between people. Such transformative changes can radiate out into more systemic levels and systemic transformative changes can radiate inwards to more micro levels. This book engages this transformative framework. Within this framework, this book pulls together current work that epitomizes and highlights the contribution of communication scholarship and communication centered approaches to conflict transformation in local, community, regional, environmental, and global conflicts in various parts of the world. The resulting volume presents an engaging mix of scholarly chapters, think pieces, and experiences from the field of practice. The book embraces a wide variety of theoretical and methodological approaches as well as transformative techniques and processes including narrative, dialogic, critical, cultural, linguistic, conversation analytic, discourse analytic, and rhetorical. This book makes a valuable contribution to the ongoing dialogue across and between disciplines and people on how to transform conflicts creatively, sustainably, and ethically.

Cambodia's Neoliberal Order Simon

Springer, 2010-07-02. This book deals with the post conflict geographies of violence and neoliberalization in Cambodia. Applying a geographical analysis to contemporary Cambodian politics, the author employs notions of neoliberalism, public space, and radical democracy as the most substantive components of its theoretical edifice.

Ethnocentrism Boris

Bizumic, 2018-10-09. Ethnocentrism works to reinvigorate the study of ethnocentrism by reconceptualising ethnocentrism as a social psychological and attitudinal construct. Using a broad multidisciplinary approach to ethnocentrism, the book integrates literature from disciplines such as psychology, political science, sociology, anthropology, biology, and marketing studies to create a novel reorganisation of the existing literature, its origins, and its outcomes. Empirical research throughout serves to comprehensively measure the six dimensions of ethnocentrism: devotion, group cohesion, preference, superiority, purity, and exploitativeness, and show how they factor into causes and consequences of ethnocentrism, including personality, values, morality, demographics, political ideology, social factors, prejudice, discrimination, and nationalism. Ethnocentrism is fascinating reading for scholars, researchers, and students in psychology, sociology, and political science.

Private Security Contractors and New Wars Kateri Carmola, 2010-02-05. This book addresses the ambiguities of the growing use of private security contractors and provides guidance as to how our expectations about regulating this expanding service industry will have to be adjusted. In the warzones of Iraq and Afghanistan, many of those who carry weapons are not legally combatants.

nor are they protected civilians They are contracted by governments businesses and NGOs to provide armed security Often mistaken as members of armed forces they are instead part of a new protean proxy force that works alongside the military in a multitude of shifting roles and overseen by a matrix of contracts and regulations This book analyzes the growing industry of these private military and security companies PMSCs used in warzones and other high risk areas PMSCs are the result of a unique combination of circumstances including a change in the idea of soldiering insurance industry analyses that require security contractors and a need for governments to distance themselves from potentially criminal conduct The book argues that PMSCs are a unique type of organization combining attributes from worlds of the military business and humanitarian organizations This makes them particularly resistant to oversight The legal status of these companies and those they employ is also hard to ascertain which weakens the multiple regulatory tools available PMSCs also fall between the cracks in ethical debates about their use seeming to be both justifiable and objectionable This transformation in military operations is a seemingly irreversible product of more general changes in the relationship between the individual citizen and the state This book will be of much interest to students of private security companies war and conflict studies security studies and IR in general Kateri Carmola is the Christian A Johnson Professor of Political Science at Middlebury College in Vermont She received her Ph D from the University of California Berkeley

The Dark Side of Democracy Michael Mann,2005

Publisher Description Resolving Claims to Self-Determination Andrew Coleman,2014-01-03 Since the end of World War Two and the formation of the UN the nature of warfare has undergone changes with many wars being intra state wars or wars of secession Whilst wars of secession do not involve the same number or type of combatants as in the last two World Wars their potential for destruction and their danger for the international community cannot be underestimated There are currently many peoples seeking independence from what they perceive as foreign and alien rulers including the Chechens West Papuans Achenese Tibetans and the Kurds The break up of Yugoslavia and the former USSR together with recent conflicts in South Ossetia reveal that the potential for future wars of secession remains high This book explores the relationship between recognition statehood and self determination and shows how self determination continues to be relevant beyond European decolonisation The book considers how and why unresolved questions of self determination have the potential to become violent The book goes on to investigate whether the International Court of Justice as the primary judicial organ of the United Nations could successfully resolve questions of self determination through the application of legal analysis and principles of international law By evaluating the strengths weaknesses and effectiveness of the Court s advisory jurisdiction Andrew Coleman asks whether the ICJ is a suitable forum for these questions and asks what changes would be necessary to provide an effective means for the peaceful birth of States
