Sennacherib's "Palace Without Rival" at Nineveh John Malcolm Russell,1991 Best known today from biblical accounts of his exploits and ignominious end the Assyrian king Sennacherib 704-681 B.C. was once the ruler of all western Asia In his capital at Nineveh in what is now northern Iraq he built what he called the Palace without Rival Though only scattered traces of this magnificent structure are visible today contemporary written descriptions and surviving wall reliefs permit a remarkably detailed reconstruction of the appearance and significance of the palace An art historian trained in ancient Near East philology archaeology and history John Malcolm Russell marshals these resources to investigate the meaning and political function of the palace of Sennacherib He contends that the meaning of the monument cannot be found in images or texts alone nor can these be divorced from architectural context Thus his study combines discussions of the context of inscriptions in Sennacherib's palace with reconstructions of its physical appearance and analyses of the principles by which the subjects of Sennacherib's reliefs were organized to express meaning Many of the illustrations are published here for the first time notably drawings of palace reliefs made by nineteenth century excavators and photographs taken in the course of the author's own excavations at Nineveh

From Batboy to Congressman John J. Duncan, 2023-07-27 On October 10 2002 Congressman John J Duncan Jr cast a vote in the U S House that he thought might end his political career Going against his own party he was one of only six House Republicans who voted against the Iraq War resolution Constituents in his district were shocked but over time Duncan felt his least
