The Columbia Companion to American History on Film Peter C. Rollins, 2004-03-24 American history has always been an irresistible source of inspiration for filmmakers and today for good or ill most Americans sense of the past likely comes more from Hollywood than from the works of historians In important films such as The Birth of a Nation 1915 Roots 1977 Apocalypse Now 1979 and Saving Private Ryan 1998 how much is entertainment and how much is rooted in historical fact In The Columbia Companion to American History on Film more than seventy scholars consider the gap between history and Hollywood They examine how filmmakers have presented and interpreted the most important events topics eras and figures in the American past often comparing the film versions of events with the interpretations of the best historians who have explored the topic Divided into eight broad categories Eras Wars and Other Major Events Notable People Groups Institutions and Movements Places Themes and Topics and Myths and Heroes the volume features extensive cross references a filmography of discussed and relevant films notes and a bibliography of selected historical works on each subject The Columbia Companion to American History on Film is also an important resource for teachers with extensive information for research or for course development appropriate for both high school and college students Though each essay reflects the unique body of film and print works covering the subject at hand every essay addresses several fundamental questions What are the key films on this topic What sources did the filmmaker use and how did the film deviate or remain true to its sources How have film interpretations of a particular historical topic changed and what sorts of factors technological social political historiographical have affected their evolution Have filmmakers altered the historical record with a view to enhancing drama or to enhance the truth of their putative message

History, Ethics, and the Recognition of the Other Anton Froeyman, 2015-09-25 This book introduces a new way of looking at the writing of history Rather than as the production of knowledge or the telling of stories it sees writing history as an ethical existential and emotional engagement with the people from the past The conceptual and philosophical basis for this view is provided by the philosophy of Emmanuel Levinas In the first part the view is presented and contrasted with other competing views such as those of Hans Georg Gadamer and Michel Foucault In the second part the view is argued for most importantly by an in depth discussion of one specific tradition of history writing microhistory and a series of close readings of several classical works from the history of historiography The third part finally explores some of the methodological consequences of this view and applies it to a non academic way of dealing with the past namely historical performance practice in music The book features a foreword by Frank Ankersmit

The Columbia Guide to Asian American History

Gary Y. Okihiro, 2005-03-30 Offering a rich and insightful road map of Asian American history as it has evolved over more than 200 years this book marks the first systematic attempt to take stock of this field of study It examines comments and questions the changing assumptions and contexts underlying the experiences and contributions of an incredibly diverse population of Americans Arriving and settling in this nation as early as the 1790s with American born generations stretching back more than a century Asian Americans have become an integral part of the American experience this cleverly organized book marks the trajectory of that journey offering researchers invaluable information and interpretation Part 1 offers a synoptic narrative history a chronology and a set of periodizations that reflect different ways of constructing the Asian American past Part 2 presents lucid discussions of historical debates such as interpreting the anti Chinese movement of the late 1800s and the underlying causes of Japanese American internment during World War II and such emerging themes as transnationalism and women and gender issues Part 3 contains a historiographical essay and a wide ranging compilation of book film and electronic resources for further study of core themes and groups including Chinese Japanese Filipino Hmong Indian Korean Vietnamese and others

Global Families

Catherine Ceniza Choy, 2013-10-11 In the last fifty years transnational adoption specifically the adoption of Asian children has exploded in popularity as an alternative path to family making Despite the cultural acceptance of this practice surprisingly little attention has been paid to the factors that allowed Asian international adoption to flourish In Global Families Catherine Ceniza Choy unearths the little known historical origins of Asian international adoption in the United States Beginning with the post World War II presence of the U S military in Asia she reveals how mixed race children born of Japanese Korean and Vietnamese women and U S servicemen comprised one of the earliest groups of adoptive children Based on extensive archival research Global Families moves beyond one dimensional portrayals of Asian international adoption as either a progressive form of U S multiculturalism or as an exploitative form of cultural and economic imperialism Rather Choy acknowledges the complexity of the phenomenon illuminating both its radical possibilities of a world united across national cultural and racial divides through family formation and its strong potential for reinforcing the very racial and cultural hierarchies it sought to challenge

Autobiography as Indigenous Intellectual Tradition critiques ways of approaching Indigenous texts that are informed by the Western academic tradition and offers instead a new way of theorizing Indigenous literature based on the Indigenous practice of life writing Since the 1970s non Indigenous scholars have perpetrated the notion that Indigenous people were disinclined to talk about their lives and underscored the assumption that autobiography is a European invention Deanna Reder challenges such long held assumptions by calling attention to longstanding autobiographical practices that are engrained in Cree and M'tis or n'hiyawak culture and examining a series of examples of Indigenous life writing Blended with family stories and drawing on original historical research Reder examines censored and suppressed writing by n'hiyawak intellectuals such as Maria Campbell Edward Ahenakew and James Brady Grounded in n'hiyawak ontologies and epistemologies that consider life stories to be an intergenerational conduit to pass on knowledge about a shared world this study encourages a widespread re evaluation of past and present engagement with Indigenous storytelling forms across scholarly disciplines

Jewish Messianism and the History of Philosophy Martin Kavka, 2004-05-10 Jewish Messianism and the History of Philosophy contests the ancient opposition between Athens and Jerusalem by retrieving the concept of meontology the doctrine of nonbeing from the Jewish philosophical and theological tradition For Emmanuel Levinas as well as for Franz Rosenzweig Hermann Cohen and Moses Maimonides the Greek concept of nonbeing understood as both lack and possibility clarifies the meaning of Jewish life These thinkers of Jerusalem use Athens for Jewish ends justifying Jewish anticipation of a future messianic era as well as portraying the subjects intellectual and ethical acts as central in accomplishing redemption This book envisions Jewish thought as an expression of the intimate relationship between Athens and Jerusalem It also offers new readings of important figures in contemporary Continental philosophy critiquing previous arguments about the role of lived religion in the thought of Jacques Derrida the role of Plato in the thought of Emmanuel Levinas and the centrality of ethics in the thought of Franz Rosenzweig

The Degradation of American History David Harlan, 2009-02-15 American historical writing has traditionally been one of our primary forms of moral reflection However David Harlan argues that in the disillusionment following the 1960s history abandoned its redemptive potential and took up the methodology of the social sciences In this provocative new book Harlan describes the reasons for this turn to objectivity and professionalism explains why it failed and examines the emergence of a New Traditionalism in American historical writing Part One The Legacy of the Sixties describes the impact of literary theory in the 1970s and beyond the rise of women s history the various forms of ideological analysis developed by historians on the left and the crippling obsession with professionalism in the 1980s Part Two The Renewal of American Historical Writing focuses on the contributions of John Patrick Diggins Hayden White Richard Rorty Elaine Showalter Henry Louis Gates Jr and others Harlan argues that at the end of the twentieth century American historical writing is perfectly poised to become what it once was not one of the social sciences in historical costume but a form of moral reflection that speaks to all Americans A wholly admirable work This book will be talked about for years Library Journal Eudora Welty, Whiteness, and Race Harriet Pollack, 2013-01-01 Faced with Eudora Welty's preference for the oblique in literary performances some have assumed that Welty was not concerned with issues of race or even that she was perhaps ambivalent toward racism This collection counters those assumptions as it examines Welty's handling of race the color line and Jim Crow segregation and sheds new light on her views about the patterns insensitivities blindness and atrocities of whiteness Contributors to this volume show that Welty addressed whiteness and race in her earliest stories her photography and her first novel Delta Wedding In subsequent work including The Golden Apples The Optimist's Daughter and her memoir One Writer's Beginnings she made the color line and white privilege visible revealing the gaping distances between lives lived in shared space but separated by social hierarchy and segregation Even when black characters hover in the margins of her fiction they point readers toward complex lives and the black body is itself full of meaning in her work Several essays suggest that Welty represented race like gender and power as a performance scripted by whiteness Her black characters in particular recognize whiteface and blackface as performances especially comical when white characters are unaware of their role play Eudora Welty Whiteness and Race also makes clear that Welty recognized white material advantage and black economic deprivation as part of a cycle of race and poverty in America and that she connected this history to lives on either side of the color line to relationships across it and to an uneasy hierarchy of white classes within the presumed monolith of whiteness Contributors Mae Miller Claxton Susan V Donaldson Julia Eichelberger Sarah Ford Jean C Griffith Rebecca Mark Suzanne Marrs Donnie McMahan David McWhirter Harriet Pollack Keri Watson Patricia Yaeger
