Ethical Education Community And Morality In The Multicultural University:

An Ethical Education Mortimer N. S. Sellers, 1994-11-10 This book considers the ethical basis of fundamental university policies with special emphasis on how issues of community and diversity influence education. Students, faculty and administrators must seek to maintain a sense of community as diversity increasingly characterises university campuses. This raises four central questions which are addressed in this volume: What should the aims of universities be given their changed demography? How should university curricula reflect multicultural society? Does the new environment require special treatment of campus speech? What role should affirmative action play in promoting diversity or community in the academy? The shared premise of these essays, presented from a variety of perspectives, is that university administrators, teachers and academic ethicists will all benefit from examining such issues together. The contributors approach academic ethics from very diverse institutional roles and ideological positions and this provides a broad and provocative basis for classroom and institutional discussion of the aims of the university, the curriculum, campus speech and affirmative action. These essays will help to give pluralism meaning and establish the common purpose and community of good will that make academic discourse possible.

The Quest for Equity in Higher Education Beverly Lindsay, Manuel J. Justiz, 2001-08-16 A critical examination of current sociopolitical issues surrounding equity and diversity and their impact on higher education.

Creating the Ethical Academy Tricia Bertram Gallant, 2011-09-22 In this edited volume, higher education experts and scholars tackle the challenge of understanding why ethical misconduct occurs in the academy and how we can address it.

Genealogical Pragmatism John J. Stuhr, 1997-10-16 Drawing on the work of popular American writers, American philosophers and Continental thinkers, this book provides a new interpretation of pragmatism and American philosophy.

Reconstructing the "Uni-versity" Harvey J. Graff, 2025-09-14 Slogans, myths and isolated anecdotes are inadequate substitutes for documented history and contextual understanding. Literature on the history of higher education is dominated by ahistorical and contextually ignorant slogans. Seldom acknowledged in discussions of the decline or failure of the modern university is 1 how long it has been going on at least since the 1960s and 2 universities' own complicity in this long, complicated and contradictory process. Myths intertwine inseparably with slogans to echo yet another lost cause. Our collective as well as individual pasts provide essential lessons if we know how to read and learn from them. More complicated is imagining a plausible better future for universities. In Reconstructing the University: From the Ashes of the Mega and Multi-University to the Futures of Higher Education, Harvey J. Graff, bringing experience from over 50 years as a professor, provides an accurate history of higher education, redefining the issues and terms to establish a new agenda.

Professional Development in Higher Education Gill Nicholls, 2014-06-23 Staff development and teaching accreditation is becoming a reality in UK higher education. This volume explores the implications of continued professional development and institutions such as the ILT outlining the options and approaches to professional development.

Ethical Issues in the Communication Process J.

Vernon Jensen, 2013-11-05 A rapid and widespread growth of interest in applied ethics is occurring today not only in the United States but around the world as well. Academia both reflects this and is a leader in the movement. The field of speech communication shares in this increased sensitivity to ethical concerns. Students and the general public are looking for thoughtful analyses and guidance in all areas of communication. Ethical concerns relative to mass communication have been the subject of a number of books but only a very few cover the entire scope of communication to include interpersonal, intercultural, organizational, small groups, and public speaking. This book tries to fill that need by discussing ethical concerns as they emerge in the areas of the communication process: the communicator, the message, the media, the audience, and the situation. The speech communication field now has a need to digest and synthesize the existing research findings and the general literature in the field and in related humanities and social science works into a coherent and nontechnical discussion. This volume explores the most up-to-date materials to provide just such a synthesis. An extensive bibliography at the end of the book gives readers the sources on which the book is based and offers ample avenues for further personal exploration. The book should provide meaningful food for thought as readers grapple conscientiously with the many everyday decisions made in communication transactions and in evaluating the communication of others. Saving Higher Education in the Age of Money James Engell, Anthony Dangerfield, 2005 The new status of money. Prestige money and the ends of higher education. Learning for dollars. Humanities and the market model university. The destruction of reading. Means and ends signs and symbols. Packaging ethics. Leading the self into the world. Science, art, and democracy: a partnership. The higher utility.

Postwar Academic Fiction K. Womack, 2001-12-17 As a literary genre, academic fiction has emerged in recent years as one of the most popular modes for satirizing the cultural conflicts and sociological nuances inherent in campus life. Drawing upon recent insights in ethical criticism and moral philosophy, Postwar Academic Fiction satirizes ethics. Community offers new readings of fictional and nonfictional works by such figures as Kingsley Amis, Vladimir Nabokov, Joyce Carol Oates, David Lodge, David Mamet, Ishmael Reed, Sandra M. Gilbert, and Susan Gubar, and Jane Smiley. Constitutional Revolutions

Robert Justin Lipkin, 2000-05-17 Rethinks constitutional jurisprudence from a postmodern perspective attempting to integrate a Kuhnian approach to intellectual transformations with a Rawlsian pragmatic approach to decision making.

Controversies in Affirmative Action James A. Beckman, 2014-07-23 An engaging and eclectic collection of essays from leading scholars on the subject which looks at affirmative action past and present, analyzes its efficacy, its legacy, and its role in the future of the United States. This comprehensive three-volume set explores the ways the United States has interpreted affirmative action and probes the effects of the policy from the perspectives of economics, law, philosophy, psychology, sociology, political science, and race relations. Expert contributors tackle a host of knotty issues ranging from the history of affirmative action to the theories underpinning it. They show how affirmative action has been implemented over the years, discuss its legality and constitutionality, and speculate about its future. Volume one traces the origin and evolution of affirmative action Volume two discusses modern applications and debates and volume three delves into such areas as international practices and critical race theory Standalone essays link cause and effect and past and present as they tackle intriguing and important questions When does affirmative action become reverse discrimination How many decades are too many for a temporary policy to remain in existence Does race or gender based affirmative action violate the equal protection of law guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment In raising such issues the work encourages readers to come to their own conclusions about the policy and its future application Unity and Diversity in America Frances Scott,1999 This is the 95th issue of the US Air Force Academy Libraries Special Bibliographic Series Created by Ms Frances K Scott Political Sciences Bibliographer and Reference Librarian this issue of the Series was developed to support the 42nd annual Academy Assembly to be held 15 18 February 2000 The Assembly sponsored by the Department of Political Science brings more than 150 delegates from more than 100 colleges and universities to discuss and to debate a contemporary issue This year s theme is Unity and Diversity in America Tradition and Change in the 20th Century Affirmative Action A.
