Nicholas A. Robins, Adam Jones

Ethnic Times Exploring Ethnonationalism In The Former Yugoslavia:

Ethnic Times Dusan Kecmanovic, 2001-11-30 Kecmanovic deals with the phenomenon of ethnonationalism both as a broad worldwide concern and as a key ingredient to the struggles in the former Yugoslavia. As in the former Yugoslavia, the rise of ethnonationalistic sentiments and attitudes coincided with the transition from a state and party run affair to a new post communist type of government and society. Drawing upon his personal experiences in Sarajevo, Kecmanovic provides a unique view of the conflict. In a style accessible to students and general readers, he traces the transformations of leading principles, value systems, behavioral patterns, and views of people in times of severe ethnic tensions. At times nearly novelistic, the book examines epidemic ethnonationalism and individual manifestations such as violence toward members of other groups, beliefs that ethnic differences are genetic, a need to aggrandize, and even manufacture differences between communities.

Genocide Perspectives IV Colin Tatz, 2012-01-01 Genocide isn't past tense and the Nazi and Bosnian eras are not yet closed. The demonising of people as unworthy and expendable is ever present and the consequences are all too evident in the daily news. These fourteen essays by Australian scholars confront the issues: the need for a measuring scale that encompasses differences and similarities between seemingly divergent cases of the crime; the complicity of bureaucracies, the healing professions, and the churches in this crime of crimes; the quest for historical justice for genocide victims generally following the Nuremberg Trials; the fate of children in the Nazi and postwar eras; the worthiness of Armenians, Jews, and Romani people in twentieth century Europe; and the imperative to tackle early warning signs of an incipient genocide. Colin Tatz is a founding director of the Australian Institute for Holocaust and Genocide Studies, visiting fellow in Politics and International Relations at the Australian National University, and honorary visiting fellow at the Australian Institute of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Studies. He teaches and publishes in comparative race politics, youth suicide, migration studies, and sports history.

Identity Politics in the Age of Genocide David B. MacDonald, 2007-09-28 In an era of globalization and identity politics, this book explores how Holocaust imagery and vocabulary have been appropriated and applied to other genocides. The author examines how the Holocaust has impacted on other ethnic and social groups, asking whether the Holocaust as a symbol is a useful or destructive means of reading non-Jewish history. This volume explains the rise of the Holocaust as a gradual process, charting how its importance as a symbol has evolved, providing a theoretical framework to understand how and why non-Jewish groups choose to invoke holocausts to apply to other events. It explores the Holocaust in relation to colonialism and indigenous genocide with case studies on America, Australia, and New Zealand; analyzes the Holocaust in relation to war and genocide with case studies on the Armenian genocide, the Rape of Nanking, Serbia, and the Rwandan genocide; examines how the Holocaust has been used to promote animal rights; demonstrating both the opportunities and pitfalls the Holocaust provides to non-Jewish groups who seek to represent their collective histories; this book fills a much needed gap on the use of the Holocaust in contemporary identity politics and will be of interest to students.

Iraqi Kurdistan, the PKK and International Relations

Hannes Černý, 2017-07-28 Due to its primacy in explaining issues of war and peace in the international arena the discipline of International Relations IR looms large in analyses of and responses to ethnic conflict in academia politics and popular media in particular with respect to contemporary conflicts in the Middle East Grounded in constitutive theory this book challenges how ethnic ethno nationalist conflict is represented in explanatory IR by deconstructing its most prominent state centric models frameworks and analytical concepts As much a critique of contemporary scholarship on Kurdish ethno nationalism as a detailed analysis of the most prominent Kurdish ethno nationalist actors the book provides the first in depth investigation into the relations between the PKK and the main Iraqi Kurdish political parties from the 1980s to the present It situates this inquiry within the wider context of the ambiguous political status of the Kurdistan Region of Iraq its relations with Turkey and the role Kurdish parties and insurgencies play in the war against ISIS in Iraq and Syria Appreciating these complex dynamics and how they are portrayed in Western scholarship is essential for understanding current developments in the Iraqi and Syrian theatres of war and for making sense of discussions about a potential independent Kurdish state to emerge in Iraq Iraqi Kurdistan provides a comprehensive and critical discussion of the state centric and essentialising epistemologies ontologies and methodologies of the three main paradigms of explanatory IR as well as their analytical models and frameworks on ethnic identity and conflict in the Middle East and beyond It will therefore be a valuable resource for anyone studying ethnicity and nationalism International Relations or Middle East Politics

Nationalism and Ethnic Conflict Berch Berberoglu,2005-12-13 This book examines the origins and development of nationalism and national movements in the twentieth century and provides an analysis of the nature and dynamics of nationalism and ethnic conflict in a variety of national settings Examining the intricate relationship between class state and nation the book attempts to develop a critical approach to the study of nationalism and ethnonational conflict within the broader context of class relations and class struggles in the age of globalization The book consists of three parts made up of seven chapters Part I examines classical and contemporary conventional and Marxist theories of nationalism Part II provides a series of empirical comparisons of nationalism and ethnic conflict on a world scale focusing on the Third World the advanced capitalist countries and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union A highlight of this section of the book is a detailed comparative case study of the Palestinian and Kurdish nationalism and national movements Part III provides a political analysis of the relationship between class state and nation and lays out the class nature of nationalism and the role of the state in ethnonational conflicts that are the political manifestations of deeper class struggles that have been the driving force of nationalism and ethnic conflict in the era of globalization Berberoglu contends that future studies of nationalism and ethnonational conflict must pay closer attention to the dynamics of class forces that are behind the ideology of nationalism by examining national movements in class terms For only through a careful class analysis of these forces and their ideological edicts will we be able to clearly understand the nature of nationalism and ethnonational conflicts around the world

The Search for a Cold War Legitimacy: Foreign Policy and Tito's Yugoslavia Robert Edward Niebuhr,2018-01-03 Titoist Yugoslavia is a particularly interesting setting to examine the integrity of the modern nation state especially the viability of distinctly multi ethnic nation building projects Scholarly literature on the brutal civil wars that destroyed Yugoslavia during the 1990s emphasizes divisive nationalism and dysfunctional politics to explain why the state disintegrated But the larger question remains unanswered just how did Tito's state function so successfully for the preceding forty six years In an attempt to understand better what united the stable multi ethnic and globally important Yugoslavia that existed before 1991 Robert Niebuhr argues that we should pay special attention to the dynamic and robust foreign policy that helped shape the Cold War

Genocides by the Oppressed Nicholas A. Robins,Adam Jones,2009-05-12 In the last two decades the field of comparative genocide studies has produced an increasingly rich literature on the targeting of various groups for extermination and other atrocities throughout history and around the contemporary world. However, the phenomenon of genocides by the oppressed that is retributive genocidal actions carried out by subaltern actors has received almost no attention. The prominence in such genocides of non-state actors combined with the perceived moral ambiguities of retributive genocide that arise in analyzing genocidal acts from below have so far eluded serious investigation. Genocides by the Oppressed addresses this oversight opening the subject of subaltern genocide for exploration by scholars of genocide, ethnic conflict and human rights. Focusing on case studies of such genocide, the contributors explore its sociological, anthropological, psychological, symbolic and normative dimensions.

Claiming the Dispossession Vladimir Biti, 2017-10-02. With the Treaty of Versailles, the Western nation-state powers introduced into the East Central European region the principle of national self-determination. This principle was buttressed by frustrated native elites who regarded the establishment of their respective nation-states as a welcome opportunity for their own affirmation. They desired sovereignty but were prevented from accomplishing it by their multiple dispossession. National elites started to blame each other for this humiliating condition. The successor states were dispossessed of power, territories and glory. The new nation-states were frustrated by their devastating condition. The dispersed Jews were left without the imperial protection. This embarrassing state gave rise to collective historical and individual fictional narratives of dispossession. This volume investigates their intended and unintended interaction. Contributors are Davor Beganovi, Vladimir Biti, Zrinka Bojanić, Blanka Marko, Juvan Bernarda, Katu, Nataša Kovačević, Petr Kušera, Aleksandar Mijatović, Guido Snel and Stijn Vervaet.

International Intervention and the Problem of Legitimacy Andrew C. Gilbert, 2020-08-15. In International Intervention and the Problem of Legitimacy, Andrew C. Gilbert argues for an ethnographic analysis of international intervention as a series of encounters focusing on the relations of difference and inequality and the question of legitimacy that permeate such encounters. He discusses the transformations that happen in everyday engagements between intervention agents and their target populations and also identifies key instabilities that emerge out of such engagements. Gilbert highlights the struggles, entanglements and interdependencies between and among foreign agents and the people of Bosnia and Herzegovina that channel and shape intervention and how it unfolds. Drawing upon nearly two years of fieldwork studying in postwar Bosnia and Herzegovina, Gilbert's probing analysis identifies previously overlooked sites, processes and effects of international intervention and suggests new comparative opportunities for the study of transnational action that seeks to save and secure human lives and improve the human condition. Above all, International Intervention and the Problem of Legitimacy foregrounds and analyzes the open-ended, innovative and unpredictable nature of international intervention that is usually omitted from the ordered representations of the technocratic vision and the confident assertions of many critiques.
