Ray,2013 This book brings together current perspectives concerning the manner in which human mind behavior and experience evolved In addition to the traditional psychological literature it draws from work in the cognitive and affective neurosciences ethology and genetics The focus will be on a unification and integration of evolutionary understandings within a broader consideration The Evolutionary Mechanism of Human Dysfunctional Behavior Ivan Fuchs,2019-04-18 Why is humanity by far the most successful animal in the animal kingdom but when it comes to survival of the fittest we pull against the impulse toward natural selection Unique among vertebrates humans develop and practice varied forms of dysfunctional or maladaptive behavior the graver of which are categorized as mental disorders which doesn t sustain our species Dr Ivan Fuchs explains why this is the case setting his discussion within the fields of psychiatry evolutionary biology and genetics marshalling a wide range research to make a compelling case In this work Dr Ivan Fuchs provides his theory on human dysfunctional behavior rooted in Darwinian evolutionary thinking His theory includes 1 An attempt to identify the basic evolutionary mechanism that leads to dysfunctional or maladaptive behavior that is increasing in human populations He proposes that this mechanism consists of progressive relaxation of selection pressures originating in the natural environment as a result of the technological and cultural development in human civilization These developments protect against many natural inconveniences and dangers such as harmful weather conditions scarce or unreliable food supplies cruel even deadly competition for life sustaining or reproductive resources danger of predation and so on The relaxation of natural selection pressures leads to excessive diversification of innate predispositions that due to the complexities of social coexistence has both far reaching beneficial as well as harmful consequences 2 Dr Fuchs deals primarily with severe forms of dysfunctional behavior categorized as mental disorders pinpointing those genetically based behavioral complexes which predispose humans to anxiety affective and personality disorders paranoia and schizophrenia 3 Dr Fuchs also makes clear that the above innate predispositions cannot lead by themselves to the whole clinical picture of diagnosable mental disorder categories In order for full blown clinical symptomatology to develop the innate predisposition has to interact with influences after childbirth first of all learning Consequently psychiatric understanding and research has to distinguish sharply between those mental brain structures and functions which constitute the innate predisposition to a certain mental disorder versus those ones involved secondarily during the lifespan This consideration is detailed in the case of schizophrenia spectrum of disorders The above theoretical considerations have important therapeutic preventive and research implications

Evolutionary Theory: Fringe or Central to Psychological Science Danielle Sulikowski,2016-08-08 The computational theory of mind which views the brain as an information processor that operates on cognitive representations is central to modern cognitive psychology and is the dominant perspective from which brain function is conceptualized and studied Evolutionary Psychology EP is the application of evolutionary theory to understanding human behaviour and cognition Unlike other core Psychology topic areas such as Personality Learning or Developmental Psychology however EP is not defined by the subset of psychological phenomena it seeks to describe and understand It is instead defined by a specific meta theoretical perspective from which it seeks to potentially explain all psychological phenomena The central question posed by this volume is whether this over arching nature provides an opportunity for evolutionary approaches to offer an alternative meta theoretical perspective to the information processing representational view of brain function and behavior

Brown, 2007 In psychology motivation refers to the initiation direction intensity and persistence of behaviour Motivation is a temporal and dynamic state that should not be confused with personality or emotion Motivation is having the desire and willingness to do something A motivated person can be reaching for a long term goal such as becoming a professional writer or a more short term goal like learning how to spell a particular word Personality invariably refers to more or less permanent characteristics of an individual's state of being eg shy extrovert conscientious As opposed to motivation emotion refers to temporal states that do not immediately link to behaviour e g anger grief happiness This book presents that latest research in this field      Neuroethology and Behavioral Physiology F. Huber, H. Markl, 2012-12-06 The investigation of the relationships between a behavior pattern and its underlying sensory and neurophysiological mechanisms in both man and animals dates back well into the last century However the concepts and findings of ethology and experimental psychology together with an improved understanding of how the nervous system is organized and how neurons interact with each other have only in the last 30 years laid the groundwork for an in depth analysis The many technological advances achieved in neurophysiology and neuroanatomy have also played an important role in this The study of the neuronal bases of behavior for which the term neuroethology has been coined has thus become one of the central themes of neuroscience Kenneth David Roeder who died in 1979 was one of the pioneers of this field of research It is to him that the contributions in this book are dedicated K D Roeder was among the first to attempt to define the correlation between the natural behavior of an experimental animal and the activity of single sensory and nerve cells The questions he asked his experimental approach and his fundamental discoveries are presented in an introductory chapter
