Europe And China:

China-Europe Relations Bates Gill, Melissa Murphy, 2008-05-08 Today as China's influence in the world grows and as the European Union moves to strengthen its position in international affairs it is all the more critical for U S policy leaders to take careful stock of China Europe relations and their implications for U S interests Europe China relations have become increasingly regularized institutionalized and mutually beneficial encompassing a broadening range of political economic military scientific technological educational and cultural ties The China question has arisen as an area of potential transatlantic disagreement especially over the arm embargo issue but also on broader concerns of global order multipolarity balancing U S power and economic competition Given the political economic and security related importance of China and Europe to the United States improving China Europe relations pose important challenges and opportunities for U S interests These developments may not only challenge the U S position vis vis China and Europe they also could contribute to an increasingly competitive confrontational and ultimately detrimental deterioration in traditionally strong transatlantic relations while also further exacerbating persistent mistrust in U S China ties Were U S Europe China relations to deteriorate Washington could lose out on the enormous strategic opportunities that would encourage positive political economic and security related outcomes in China which favor U S European and Chinese interests over the longer term

China and the European Union Lisheng Dong, Zhengxu Wang, Henk Dekker, 2013 The European Union is China's largest trading partner and Chinese views of the EU are of crucial importance in shaping how the relationship will develop in the future especially as the new Chinese leadership takes power This book presents the findings of an extensive research project into the views of both elite groups in government business academia media and social activists and the Chinese public towards Europe and the European Union It considers attitudes on a wide range of subjects and reaches a number of interesting encouraging conclusions These include the fact that as Chinese people's knowledge of and travel to Europe becomes more extensive Chinese attitudes towards Europe become more positive that Chinese people have a high regard for European culture and a high degree of trust in Europeans though there are significant differences between different Chinese groups concerning controversial issues in the China EU relationship Overall the book concludes that the Chinese public opinion supports a strong bilateral relation

China-eu: A Common Future Stanley Crossick, Etienne Reuter, 2007-11-22 Negotiations for a new EU China Partnership Cooperation Agreement have just got underway and are likely to take two to three years This is the first book to explore the wide range of issues affecting the China EU relationship including the US factor environmental issues WTO governance trade matters civil society democracy the RMB energy security arms embargo UN reform Taiwan Japan North Korea Africa and many others The result of an intense collaborative exercise between over 30 respected Chinese and European scholars this timely book highlights the necessity of a China EU relationship and why it will be mutually beneficial Recommendations for the harmonious development of relations between China and the EU are offered as well

Security Relations between China and the European Union Emil J. Kirchner, Thomas Christiansen, Han Dorussen, 2016-09-29 This book explores EU China security cooperation across a range of key issues Europe and China

Roland Vogt, 2012-03-01 This edited volume analyzes the changing nature of the relationship between China and Europe This relationship has been subject to significant shifts and transformations not least because of the enormity of China's social and economic development since 1978 and the political consequences this has brought about in international politics The global financial crisis of 2008-09 and the subsequent sovereign debt emergency in Europe have also altered the nature of the interactions between the two regions China has become a more assertive confident and active player on the global stage Its economic development is now a major pillar of the global economy and its growth has been conducive for a fragile economic recovery to take place in Europe and beyond China-Europe Relations David Shambaugh, Eberhard Sandschneider, Zhou Hong, 2007-09-24 Written by a hugely experienced team of international contributors from China Europe and the US this book takes an innovative and insightful look at one of the most important bilateral relationships in international relations this century The European Union and China Thomas Christiansen, Emil Kirchner, Uwe Wissenbach, 2018-12-12 This accessible text offers a comprehensive analysis of the European Union EU China relationship as one of the most important in global politics today Both are major players on the world stage accounting for 30% of trade and nearly a quarter of the world's population This text shows how despite many differences in political systems and values China and the EU have developed such a close regular set of interactions at multiple levels from political strategic to economic and individual The authors start with an historical overview of the domestic politics and foreign policy apparatus of each partner to show the context in which external relations are devised From this foundation each key dimension of the relationship is analysed from trade and monetary policy security culture and society The authors show the relative merits of different theoretical perspectives and outline what is next for this complex ever changing relationship At every step the success of each partner in persuading the other of changing their positions for key strategic interests is explored What emerges is a multifaceted picture of relations between two sides that are fundamentally different kinds of actors in the international system yet have many mutual interests and a common stake in the stability of global governance The first major text to offer an accessible introduction to the multifaceted nature of EU China relations this book is an ideal companion for upper undergraduate and postgraduate students on Politics International Relations and European Studies courses China and EU Jing Men, Annika Linck, 2017-05-12 Reform and governance are of vital interest to both the People's Republic of China and the European Union EU China is facing demographic and environmental challenges and has been experiencing a rapid economic transition The social tensions arising from these challenges call for a governance system that will allow the Chinese leadership to alleviate social tensions without putting at risk their leadership A society which is becoming more diverse and facing problems of a global scale that also cause turmoil at the grass roots may be difficult to govern top down Notwithstanding the Communist Party of China's CPC grip on Chinese society there may be ways to integrate public opinion and civil society organisations in governmental decision making through reforms that do not challenge the current leadership The EU on the other hand faces the same global challenges with a very different and complex governance system EU foreign and security policy thus including EU policy towards China are governed by the EU's foreign policy principles which contain among others the promotion of democracy the rule of law and the universality and indivisibility of human rights and fundamental freedoms How successful can the EU be in advancing these principles when engaging with China while respecting the Chinese political system How can the EU and China find common grounds in their governance systems so as to enhance their strategic partnership in order to tackle global issues that need a coordinated approach

Conceptual Gaps in China-EU Relations

Zhongqi Pan, 2012-10-15 The contributors attempt to look into how China and Europe differently interpret political concepts such as sovereignty soft power human rights democracy stability strategic partnership multilateralism multipolarization and global governance to examine what implications of their conceptual gaps may have on China EU relations

China and Europe

Klaus Kunzmann, Willy A Schmid, Martina Koll-Schretzenmayr, 2009-09-10 China and Europe addresses the challenges for the cities and regions of Europe that may be the consequences of such development trends

China, the European Union and the Restructuring of Global Governance Tanguy De Wilde, Pierre Defraigne, Jean-Christophe

Defraigne, 2012-05-01 China the European Union and Global Governance examines the key determinants of European and Chinese approaches to the restructuring of global governance systems Using a multidisciplinary method this collection of chapters analyses four distinct fields that are key for both China and the EU and in the development of their relations and future cooperation the global trading system the international monetary system climate and energy policy and international security In the context of China's growing role in global governance and of EU-China cooperation these contributions emphasize strategies prospects and objectives of both actors They outline possible avenues for an enhanced partnership in light of the changing global order which implies a rethinking of the existing multilateral structures This interdisciplinary study will appeal to researchers and scholars interested in global governance European foreign policy Chinese foreign policy EU-China relations as well as trade the international economy and climate change policies Postgraduate students in international relations international political economy European studies and Chinese studies as well as policymakers in the areas of external relations and EU-China relations will also find much to interest them in this book

News Media and

EU-China Relations L. Zhang, 2011-04-11 An exploration of the role of the news media in the development of EU China relations after the end of the Cold War this book provides empirical evidence to support what Nye and Anholt have argued that branding a country's image is soft power The author examines the nature of European Union and China coverage in Chinese and European news media respectively and explores how the economics politics and journalistic practice interplay in shaping the coverage Based on this analysis the author delves into the relationship between the news media and their foreign policy toward each other in terms of both the general direction of policy making and the policy in a specific issue area Including not only content analysis of media coverage but also has first hand interview materials with the officials involved in the decision making process and the journalists involved in reporting the EU and China the book sheds light on the way in which the media construct the post Cold War world and therefore play a role in transforming international relations

China-EU Trade Disputes and Their Management Qingjiang Kong,2012 This book delves into the trade disputes between the EU and China and identifies the causes for trade disputes It examines how the disputes will shape the China EU trade relations and offers a macro overview on how the issues can be resolved or at least how they should be managed

The Diplomatic Making of EU-China Relations Lucie Qian Xia,2024-04-11 This book provides a novel theoretical framework to understand EU China diplomatic relations The existing scholarly literature on EU China relations is characterised by a dichotomous distinction between material and ideational factors and overemphasises the interest versus value motif undergirding EU China relations The diplomacy and future direction of the relationship seem as opaque as their extent remains incalculably complex This book takes us beyond binary motives by introducing a novel theoretical model of diplomatic relationship building that brings to the fore the more nuanced and latent factors to make sense of EU China diplomatic relationship building the new theory captures the relational nature of diplomatic relationship building by integrating the social layer of intentions in understanding international diplomacy This study further sheds light on the opportunities and challenges in enhancing EU China relations through a comparative in depth investigation of the processes practices and politics of EU China climate change and agricultural trade relations over the past two decades The book draws on a rich collection of original data encompassing over 100 interviews with stakeholders of EU China relations conducted from 2015-2023 strengthened by participant observation at EU and Chinese institutional headquarters and in diplomatic fora that has taken place over the past ten years Enriching these data are newly disclosed official minutes and documentation regarding EU China negotiations and cooperation This book will be of much interest to students of diplomacy studies Chinese politics EU politics and international relations in general

China-EU Relations in a New Era of Global Transformation Li Xing,2021-06-14 This book draws together leading experts to examine the key issues in China EU relations China EU relations are increasingly complex and affected by a number of inter related factors such as China's global rise growing China US strategic competition US global withdrawal the transatlantic split the China Russia comprehensive alliance and Brexit The book highlights the struggles of both China and the EU to look for a dynamic and durable mode of engagement in an attempt to achieve the balance between opportunities and challenges and between partnership and rivalry International contributors explore how to conceptualise China EU relations and identify their differences and commonalities such as the EU's role in China's foreign policy process and how the EU works with China as a strategic partner Finally it analyses China's and the EU's perceptions of their own present and future roles Shedding light on the perspectives of understanding and change in China EU relations and its impact on multilateralism it will appeal to researchers and professionals working in International Relations International Political Economy and area studies who are interested in the rise of emerging powers and the changing world order China, East Asia and the European Union ,2016-11-21 In China East Asia and the European Union specialist authors from both Europe and Asia reflect on the dynamic relationship between the three actors from an International Relations perspective The book is a testimony to China s seemingly unstoppable rise both in the East Asian region and in the relationship with the EU and its member states The authors investigate why the economic links between the European Union and East Asia have become so firmly established while in comparison the political bond has remained underdeveloped They conclude that the crises the EU is currently facing seriously affect its manoeuvring space vis a vis China and its neighbours both economically and politically Contributors are Ding Chun Neil Duggan Enrico Fardella Frank Gaenssmantel Tjalling Halbertsma Daniel R Hammond Jan van der Harst Elisa H rhager Jing Jing Werner Pascha Sanne Kamerling David Kerr Silja Keva Christopher K Lamont Li Junyang Feng Liu Maaike Okano Heijmans Nadya Stoynova and Herman Voogsgeerd The EU and China Jens Hillebrand,2008-09-19 Seminar paper from the year 2008 in the subject Politics Topic Public International Law and Human Rights grade 1 7 Vrije University Brussel Faculty of Economic Political and Social Sciences and Solvay Business School course European and International Politics language English abstract This paper examines the impact of policies of the European Union EU on the human rights development in the People s Republic of China PRC To this end the definition of human rights from a United Nations perspective will be used After briefly looking at the history of human rights abuses in China the paper turns towards the main analysis shedding light on the EU s conditional engagement policy towards China and the nature of the EU China relations whether it be a true strategic partnership or merely a strategic dialogue The paper then evaluates the success of the EU s policy by looking at how far it has been able to achieve its objectives set with regard to human rights in the PRC Moving on from the achievements to date a critical outlook on the prospects of Europe s strategy is given comprising an analysis of the opportunities and challenges the EU is likely to face in this respect Finally the paper concludes that the impact of the European Union on the human rights development in China remains far from clear cut Whereas some scholars and politicians attribute much of the observed advancements to Europe s conditional engagement policy others challenge this view and contest that developments in this area are predominantly related to China s overall economic progress While the truth probably lies somewhere in between these two opposing views future human rights development in the PRC will nevertheless remain a challenging task Whereas developments on the economic and social side are also in China s interest and will thus be relatively easy to promote holistic progress including civil and political rights will only be possible if substantial differences between the EU and China can successfully be dissolved Amongst other things this will require the development of deep mutual cultural understanding and the discovery of sophisticated novel negotiation approaches Due to the complexity and sensitivity of the involved issues meaningful progress will only develop gradually though and the achievement of a universally acceptable human rights standard in China will still require a substantial amount of time as well as the willingness to compromise on behalf of both parties

"Glass Exchange between Europe and China, 1550?800 " Emily Byrne Curtis, 2017-07-05 In this study Emily Byrne Curtis explores as her subject lenses spectacles aventurine glass and windows found in China from the sixteenth century She traces their technological development back to the glassworks in Murano Venice and explores their significance in terms of Venice's commerce with China Because glassware also figured among the gifts which three papal legates from the Vatican presented to the Kangxi and Yongzheng emperors the author examines many documents from the archives in Rome and the Vatican the study therefore touches to an extent on the history of the Catholic Church in China Curtis also discusses in the volume some contemporary Chinese references and verses to European glassware and in the case of enamel materials she discloses the pronounced effect their use had upon the decor of Chinese porcelains

Narrating China and Europe in Uncertain Times Ágota Révész, Duncan Freeman, Magnus Feldmann, Steven Langendonk, 2025-04-24 This edited volume examines the crucial yet overlooked role narratives play in the rapidly changing relationship between Europe and China Its contributors analyse the role of narratives in different societies and arenas ranging from economic and foreign policy to history and social media Emphasizing the social dimension of narrative the volume challenges traditional state centric and strategic approaches in international politics It also engages with the ubiquity of stories about the other in present manifold crises and underscores the need for a heightened awareness of narratives and their consequences in decision making processes

One Belt, One Road, One Story? Alister Miskimmon, Ben O'Loughlin, Jinghan Zeng, 2021-12-22 This book explores the emerging EU China relationship with a focus on the impact of the Belt and Road Initiative It takes a narrative approach to understanding the EU China relationship as a means to highlight how scholars in the EU and China interpret the narrativization of EU China bilateral relations and to how this bilateral relationship is refracted through relations with third parties The volume brings together scholars from China and Europe in the fields of Chinese foreign policy EU studies and strategic communication The empirical focus cuts across policy publics and media and across history political economy and diplomacy The Belt and Road Initiative alongside the other policy areas addressed in the chapters offers ways for people in Europe and China to get to know one another in new ways and for the EU and its member states and the Chinese state to forge new partnerships
