Europe And The Arabs:

The Arab Influence in Medieval Europe Dionisius A. Agius, Richard Hitchcock, 1994 A collection of essays covering a diverse range of topics with an underlying theme of the contact and the interaction between the Arabs and Europe during the medieval period The Arabs and Mediaeval Europe Norman Daniel, 1979 Europe and the Arabs David McDowall, 1992

Out of Arabia Warwick Ball, 2010-01-03 Arab history is often viewed as beginning with Islam But the Arabs have a long history stretching back millenia and it is one intimately bound up with European history and identity The Arabs forbears the Phoenicians were exploring the coasts of England and West Africa and colonizing much of Spain Sicily and North Africa in the early first millennium BC The Arabs were to continue this tradition of world penetration long before the European Age of Expansion Islam therefore was as much a culmination as a beginning The arrival of the Arabs in Spain in 711 and the subsequent continuation of Islam s first Caliphate in Cordoba after a second one had been established in Baghdad not to mention Emirates in the Balearics Sicily and southern Italy and further penetration throughout much of Italy France and Switzerland can only be understood as part of a process that had already been underway for several thousands of years Phoenicians and Arabs form a part of European history that is both European and Asiatic a part that defines and makes Europe what it is cultures that can no more be excluded from Europe than the Viking Roman or Greek Europe has been engaged in a complex relationship with the Arabs and their immediate forbears throughout its history This richly illustrated book is an account of that relationship Eurabia-cloth Bat Ye'or, 2005 This book is about the transformation of Europe into Eurabia a cultural and political appendage of the Arab Muslim world Eurabia is fundamentally anti Christian anti Western anti American and antisemitic The institution responsible for this transformation and that continues to propagate its ideological message is the Euro Arab Dialogue developed by European and Arab politicians and intellectuals over the past thirty years From publisher description Muslims in the Enlarged Europe Brigitte Marechal, Stefano Allievi, Felice Dassetto, Jørgen Nielsen, 2003-09-01 This volume describes the main characteristics of contemporary European Islam Following an outline of the historical background and some statistics related to the presence of Islam in Europe the process of growth the development of Islam is analysed through religious instruction in educational systems organisational structures and the forms of political participation by Muslims In addition to a description of the relationship between European states and Islam in judicial terms the different types of the inclusion integration of Islam in European society is studied by looking at the media the relations between religions economic and international dimensions and the manner in which views have changed following the events of September 11 Based on extensive bibliographical research field studies and specific contributions of scholars this book provides a rare and useful overall review for a wide public Muslims in the Enlarged Europe has been selected by Choice as Outstanding Academic Title 2005 Islam in the Balkans H. T. Norris, 1993 From the earliest times also many Balkan Muslim soldiers and bureaucrats as well as scholars and poets made an impact on the wider

Islamic world the most prominent being Mohammed Ali the founder of modern Egypt Europe and the Arab World Alastair Hamilton,1994 This superbly illustrated catalogue of seventy five books from the libraries of the Arcadian Group includes some of the most important and rare works on Arab culture published in Europe since the early sixteenth century Hamilton has included an extensive introduction and catalogue notes Cartography between Christian Europe and the Arabic-Islamic World, 1100-1500 ,2021-06-17 Medieval Christian European and Arabic Islamic cultures are both notable for the wealth and diversity of their geographical literature yet to date there has been relatively little attempt to compare medieval Christian and Islamic mapping traditions in a detailed manner Cartography between Christian Europe and the Arabic Islamic World offers a timely assessment of the level of interaction between the two traditions across a range of map genres including world and regional maps maps of the seven climes and celestial cartography Through a mixture of synthesis and case study the volume makes the case for significant but limited cultural transfer Contributors are Elly Dekker Jean Charles Duc ne Alfred Hiatt Yossef Rapoport Stefan Schr der Emmanuelle Vagnon Arab France Ian Collier,2010-11-16 Many think of Muslims in Europe as a twentieth century phenomenon but this book brings to life a lost community of Arabs who lived through war revolution and empire in early nineteenth century France Ian Collier uncovers the surprising story of the several hundred men women and children Egyptians Syrians Greeks and others who followed the French army back home after Napoleon s occupation of Egypt Based on research in neglected archives on the rediscovery of forgotten Franco Arab authors and on a diverse collection of visual materials the book builds a rich picture of the first Arab France its birth rise and sudden decline in the age of colonial expansion As he excavates a community that was nearly erased from the historical record Collier offers a new account of France itself in this pivotal period one that transcends the binary framework through which we too often view history by revealing the deep roots of exchange between Europe and the Muslim world and showing how Arab France was in fact integral to the dawn of modernity The Arabs in Europe Gabriele Crespi,1986 Europe Through Arab Eyes, 1578-1727 Nabil I. Matar,2009 and Malta From the first non European description of Queen Elizabeth I to early accounts of Florence and Pisa in Arabic from Tunisian descriptions of the Morisco expulsion in 1609 to the letters of a Moroccan Armenian ambassador in London the translations of the book s second half draw on the popular and elite sources that were available to Arabs in the early modern period Matar notes that the Arabs of the Maghrib and the Mashriq were eager to engage Christendom despite wars and rivalries and hoped to establish routes of trade and alliances through treaties and royal marriages However the rise of an intolerant and exclusionary Christianity and the explosion of European military technology brought these advances to an end In conclusion Matar details the decline of Arab Islamic power and the rise of Britain and France Book Jacket Islam and Muslims in Europe Yehuda Cohen,2018 The main subject of this book concerns the Muslim immigrants in Europe It includes the entire history of Islam vis a vis Europe since the 7th century prescribing useful dos and donts for current European policymakers Europeans have developed negative

predispositions toward Muslims sometimes even distinctly perceiving them as foes The British greatly value the recollection of their glorious erstwhile empire thus when it broke up they enabled former subjects of the Crown to settle in the UK as if to build a miniature duplicate of their empire within Britains borders Hence the British did not perceive former colonies Muslim immigrants as foes unlike continental Europeans but as British subjects Generally Europeans intend to fill the individual Muslim immigrants needs as a citizen according to the liberal approach The expectation however is that Muslims as a group would become culturally integrated within the absorbing society That approach bewilders the European Muslims Many Muslim immigrants experience discrimination in Europe The continental European approach toward Muslims stemming from prejudice and fear made some immigrants aggressive The main divergence between European society and Muslim immigrants is due foremost to certain collective memories of the native Europeans That insight is elucidated by comparing European and American societies The American found in a country built by immigrants tends to adapt to a variety of new immigrants Muslims included Conversely European society is fundamentally incapable of truly incorporating immigrant culture and practices which it perceives as a threat especially concerning Islam It is therefore the Europeans who hold the key to alter the destructive dynamics not the Muslims Muslims and Arabs within their countries suffer the frustration of remembering their Golden Age when the Europeans were deeply mired in the Middle Ages Nowadays the Arabs and Muslims have not been able to lift themselves back to their former state That frustration may be compared to the German frustration in the 1920s being split up into distinct German states the consequence of which was the mass destruction of the European Jewish population The splitting of the Germans while suffering from lack of one uniting national myth had brought on the adoption of a German race theory which Adolf Hitler offered to the Germans and had led to the Holocaust Frustration may turn people rather aggressive and Iran or some Arabs like the members of ISIS aided by Muslims in Europe might end up using weapons of mass destruction against Europe The case of ISIS is therefore elaborated upon in detail in this book The successful integration of the Muslims in Europe may help somewhat indeed this book aims to promote such an accomplishment The French approach is uniquely rather rigid towards Muslim immigrants as a group and individually Hence there is no mental confusion among Muslims there and a significant portion of the Muslims in France see themselves as French better integrated than other Muslims in Europe The best policy the Continental Europeans may adopt is the French approach

The Emancipation of Europe's Muslims Jonathan Laurence, 2011-12-19 The Emancipation of Europe's Muslims traces how governments across Western Europe have responded to the growing presence of Muslim immigrants in their countries over the past fifty years. Drawing on hundreds of in-depth interviews with government officials and religious leaders in France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, the United Kingdom, Morocco, and Turkey, Jonathan Laurence challenges the widespread notion that Europe's Muslim minorities represent a threat to liberal democracy. He documents how European governments in the 1970s and 1980s excluded Islam from domestic institutions instead inviting foreign powers like Saudi Arabia, Algeria, and Turkey to oversee the practice of Islam among immigrants in European host societies. But since the 1990s, amid rising integration problems and fears about terrorism, governments have aggressively stepped up efforts to reach out to their Muslim communities and incorporate them into the institutional, political, and cultural fabrics of European democracy. The Emancipation of Europe's Muslims places these efforts, particularly the government-led creation of Islamic councils, within a broader theoretical context and gleans insights from government interactions with groups such as trade unions and Jewish communities at previous critical junctures in European state building. By examining how state-mosque relations in Europe are linked to the ongoing struggle for religious and political authority in the Muslim majority world, Laurence sheds light on the geopolitical implications of a religious minority's transition from outsiders to citizens. This book offers a much-needed reassessment that foresees the continuing integration of Muslims into European civil society and politics in the coming decades.

Europe's Debt to Islam Gustav Diercks, 1939 Arab Versus European Norman Robert Bennett, 1986 This major work analyzes competition between followers of two major world religions for mastery of the east-central region of Africa. Bennett meticulously traces the process by which European economic and political rivalry with the Muslim rulers of east-central Africa became transformed into a holy war against the Arabs. Bennett documents these complex relationships through three stages of their development: the first contacts of Arabs, Europeans, and Africans, 1800 to 1870s; the peaceful competition of the 1880s; and the downfall of Zanzibar dominions in the last part of the 19th century.

The Arabs and Mediaeval Europe Norman Daniel, 1979 A Handbook of Modern Arabic Historical Scholarship on the Ancient and Medieval Periods Amar S. Baadj, 2021-08-30 A Handbook of Modern Arabic Historical Scholarship on the Ancient and Medieval Periods presents 16 studies about modern Arab academic scholarship on the Ancient and Medieval Worlds, covering disciplines as diverse as Assyriology and Mamluk studies as well as historiographical schools in the Arab World. This unique work is the first of its kind in any language. It is an important resource for scholars and students of the Ancient Near East and North Africa, Classical and Byzantine studies, and medieval Islamic history who would like to learn more about the work done by their colleagues in the Arab World in these fields over the last 7 decades and to benefit from Arabic secondary sources in their research. 61 Contributors: Emad Abou Ghazi, Al Amin Abouseada, Youcef Aibeche, Sidi Mohammed Alaïoud, Abdulhadi Alajmi, Allaoua Amara, Lotfi Ben Miled, Brahim El Kadiri, Boutchich Usama, Gad Azeddine.

Guessous Fayza Haikal Hani Hamza Laith Hussein Nasir al Kaabi Khaled Kchir Mohammed Maraqten Amr Omar Abdelaziz Ramadan European Muslims and the Qur'an Gulnaz Sibgatullina, Gerard Wiegers, 2023-12-18 This edited volume aims to advance a Muslim centered perspective on the study of Islam in Europe To do so it brings together a range of case studies that illustrate how European Muslims engaged with their Sacred Scripture while being part of a Christian dominated social and political space The research presented in this volume seeks to analyse Muslims practices of translating interpreting and using the Qur an as a sacred object and thus pursues three main research agendas Part I focuses on the issues of Muslim Christian relations in Europe and studies how these relations have engendered discursive connections between Muslim and Christian produced texts related to the study and interpretation of the Qur an Part II aims to bring scholarly attention to the under represented cases of Muslim communities in Europe This part introduces new research on Polish Belarusian Daghestani Bosnian and Kazan Tatars and examines local traditions of producing vernacular Qur ans and commodification of Qur anic manuscripts The final section of the volume Part III contributes to filling in the gaps related to the theoretical and conceptual framing of Muslim translation activities The history of religious thought and practice in European history is in many ways still uncharted territory This book aims to contribute to a better understanding of the cultural history of the Qur an and Muslim agency in interpreting transmitting and translating the Sacred Scripture
