First Farmers In The New Stone Age:

Last Hunters, First Farmers Theron Douglas Price, Anne Birgitte Gebauer, 1995 During virtually the entire four million year history of our habitation on this planet humans have been hunters and gatherers dependent for nourishment on the availability of wild plants and animals Beginning about 10 000 years ago however the most remarkable phenomenon in the course of human prehistory was set in motion At locations around the world over a period of about 5 000 years hunters became farmers Far more than the domestication of plant and animal species was involved in this revolution which was accompanied by massive changes in the structure and organization of the societies that adopted agriculture and by a totally new relationship with the environment Whereas hunter gatherers live off the land in an extensive fashion exploiting a diversity of resources over a broad area farmers utilize the landscape intensively The implications of these changes in human activity and social organization reverberate down to the present day The case studies presented here ranging from the Far East to the American Southwest provide a global perspective on contemporary research into the origins of agriculture Downplaying more traditional explanations of the turn to agriculture such as the influence of marginal environments and population pressures the contributors to this volume emphasize instead the importance of the resource rich areas in which agriculture began the complex social organizations already in place the role of sedentism and in some locales the advent of economic intensification and competition This volume resulted from an advanced seminar held at the School of American Research in Santa Fe New Mexico Contributors include Ofer Bar Yosef Anne Birgitte Gebauer Charles Higham Lawrence H Keeley Richard H Meadow Deborah M Pearsall T Douglas Price Bruce D Smith Patty Jo Watson and W H Wills The First Farmers in the New Stone Age Leonard Weisgard, 1966 A re creation through pictures and text of life in the New Stone Age Europe's First Farmers T. Douglas Price, 2000-09-14 Essays by leading specialists on a central issue of European history the transition to farming First Farmers , The University of Wisconsin features information about the history of agricultural domestication when farmers first began to plant and harvest crops and breed animals as part of the Why Files resource Why Files uses news and current events to explore science and the issues it raises The content is associated with specific National Science Education standards and offers links to related sites First Farmers Peter Bellwood, 2023-01-04 A wide ranging and accessible introduction to the origins and histories of the first agricultural populations in many different parts of the world This fully revised and updated second edition of First Farmers examines the origins of food production across the world and documents the expansions of agricultural populations from source regions during the past 12 000 years It commences with the archaeological records from the multiple homelands of agriculture and extends into discussions that draw on linguistic and genomic information about the human past featuring new findings from the last ten years of research Through twelve chapters the text examines the latest evidence and leading theories surrounding the early development of agricultural practices through data drawn from across the anthropological discipline primarily archaeology comparative linguistics and biological anthropology to present a cohesive history of early farmer migration Founded on the author's insights from his research into the agricultural prehistory of East and Southeast Asia one of the best focus areas for the teaching of prehistoric archaeology this book offers an engaging account of how prehistoric humans settled new landscapes The second edition has been thoroughly updated with many new maps and illustrations that reflect the multidisciplinary knowledge of the present day Authored by a leading scholar with wide ranging experience across the fields of anthropology and archaeology First Farmers Second Edition includes information on The early farming dispersal hypothesis in current perspective plus operational considerations regarding the origins and dispersals of agriculture The archaeological evidence for the origins and spreads of agriculture in the Eurasian African and American continents The histories of the language families that spread with the first farming populations and the evidence from biological anthropology and ancient DNA that underpins our modern knowledge of these migrations Drawing evidence from across the sub disciplines of anthropology to present a cohesive and exciting analysis of an important subject in the study of human population history Farmers First Second Edition is an important work of scholarship and an excellent introduction to multiple methods of anthropological and archaeological inquiry for the beginner student in prehistoric anthropology and archaeology human migration archaeology of East and Southeast Asia agricultural history comparative anthropology and more disciplines across the anthropology curriculum

Seeking the First Farmers in Western Sjælland, Denmark T. Douglas Price, 2022-06-16 This volume summarizes 30 years of fieldwork in Denmark some of the evidence for the spread of agriculture and the Neolithic into Scandinavia and some opinions about the origins of agriculture It is intended to be both academic and personal and to describe the actual process of research because most projects involve elements of both There is an introduction to each chapter that relates some of the more personal aspects of the research and the bulk of each chapter will be a more technical scientific report on our investigations Each chapter will deal with one of the components of the project survey testing and excavations We excavated eight sites from the Late Mesolithic and Early Neolithic that are discussed in this volume The concluding chapter summarizes our research in the area and proffers opinions on a variety of archaeological subjects with visits to climate change seasonality and sedentism hunter gatherer complexity aDNA inequality and the origins and spread of agriculture
