

Great Orations

I believe that a Government of the People, by the People, and for the People,
shall not perish from the Earth. 1863

GETTYSBURG ADDRESS.

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.
Now, we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation, so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure.
We are met on a great battle-field of that war, here to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their life that the nation might live.
It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it will never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here, have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from the great mass of living men, here gathered, some shall give their lives that the nation may live. The brave dead, who here have left their bodies and souls, they would rather have this ground sacred to the living than that they should take it from us. Therefore, the living must be dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from the great mass of living
men, here gathered, some shall give their lives that the nation may live.
