Teaching for Democracy in an Age of Economic Disparity Cory Wright-Maley,Trent Davis,2016-07-01 Teaching for Democracy in an Age of Economic Disparity addresses the intersections between democratic education and economic inequality in American society Drawing upon well established theoretical constructs in the literature on democratic citizenship as well as recent events this volume outlines the ways in which students can not only be educated about democracy but become actively engaged in the social issues of their time The collection begins with an examination of how the confluence of capitalism and education have problematized the current model of democratic education before transitioning into discussions of how teachers can confront economic disparity both economically and civically in the classroom The authors then introduce a variety of ways in which teachers can engage and empower students civic action at all grade levels As a final component the volume explores new avenues for civic action including the use of social media for democratic engagement in schools and opportunities for critical reflection and cross cultural dialogue This book is a valuable resource for both scholars interested in the research on democratic education and practicing teachers wishing to turn their students into critical active citizens

Middle Grades Education Pat Williams-Boyd,2003-11-12 An expert guide to the development of the middle school model as the best educational environment designed to address students developmental and social needs as well as educational needs Middle Grades Education A Reference Handbook explores the distinctive middle school approach to helping adolescents develop as human beings and citizens as well as students with coverage that ranges from the conceptual foundations of the middle school model to research based best practices to sample lesson plans and activities Edited by Pat Williams Boyd with contributions from experienced frontline educators the book showcases a number of places where the ideal middle school has become reality where individual talents are nurtured families are involved teachers serve as role models and advocates and crucial health and developmental needs are met Readers will experience classrooms where students dance their math sing their science and breathe the winds of history and where the joy of learning is bounded only by the educator s imagination

Doing History Linda S. Levstik,Keith C. Barton,2015-01-30 Now in its fifth edition Doing History offers a unique perspective on teaching and learning history in the elementary and middle grades Through case studies of teachers and students in diverse classrooms and from diverse backgrounds it shows children engaging in authentic historical investigations often in the context of an integrated social studies curriculum The premise is that children can engage in valid forms of historical inquiry collecting and analyzing data examining the perspectives of people in the past considering multiple interpretations and creating evidence based historical accounts Grounded in contemporary sociocultural theory and research the text features vignettes in each chapter showing communities of teachers and students doing history in environments rich in literature art writing discussion and debate The authors explain how the teaching demonstrated in the vignettes reflects basic principles of contemporary learning theory Doing History emphasizes diversity of perspectives in two ways readers encounter students from a variety of backgrounds and students themselves look at history from multiple perspectives It provides clear guidance in using multiple forms of assessment to evaluate the specifically historical aspects of children s learning
