Education As A Humanitarian Response:

Education as a Humanitarian Response Gonzalo Retamal, Ruth Aedo-Richmond, 1998 Humanitarian emergencies in for example Rwanda Somalia and Bosnia are becoming increasingly drawn out We are now witnessing devastating situations which can go on for months or years In view of the significant psychological damage which can occur to refugees during emergency periods education can no longer be seen as an optional extra the quality of the education provided at these times can be crucial to a nation s rebirth In this extraordinary book the contributors all of whom have been involved in humanitarian crises outline how best to set up and carry out practical education under extreme mental and financial pressure

Education and Natural Disasters David Smawfield, 2013-03-28 What is the relationship between education and natural disasters Can education play a role in ameliorating and mitigating them preparing people in how to respond and even helping to prevent them If so how Drawing on research carried out in a number of different countries including Australia China India Japan the UK and the USA the contributors consider the role of education in relation to natural disasters The case studies expand conceptual and empirical understandings of the understudied relationship between education and natural disasters and uncover the potential and the limitations of education for mitigating responding to and potentially preventing natural disasters The contributors also consider the extent to which so called natural disasters such as mudslides caused by deforestation and flooding areas built on known flood plains are linked to human behaviour and how education can impact on these
