Daleiden, Can each of us achieve our own American dream while recognizing needs of other individuals society and future generations Not if our present national policies continue warns long term planning expert Joseph L Daleiden He persuasively argues that if present socioeconomic trends remain our nation faces social disaster before the middle of the 21st century These trends can be reversed he insists but only if we are willing to 1 reject failed policies both liberal and conservative directed at population growth the environment the national debt trade poverty crime race relations education healthcare social security and tax reform 2 accept that all of these areas of concern are intertwined and 3 take responsibility for our decisions Avoiding ideology and platitudes Daleiden s pragmatic approach relies on actual evidence of how prospective policies will influence human behavior and whether their outcomes will increase or decrease human happiness in the long run Joseph L Daleiden Evanston IL is also the author of The Final Superstition A Critical Evaluation of the Judeo Christian Legacy and The Science of Morality The Individual Community and Future Generations The Futurist , 1994 Roadmap to Restructuring David T. Conley, 1993 Designed as a guide for practitioners this book draws on over 600 sources to discuss school restructuring definitions trends and issues achievements of a few select schools and implementation techniques and strategies Two overarching indirectly stated issues pervading the reconceptualization of schooling are multiculturalism and a caring school staff The book is organized into four parts Part 1 Rationale and Context presents a historical context for restructuring and a summary of the current motivations for and implications of educational restructuring Part 2 Changing Roles and Responsibilities examines the evolution of new roles for essentially all the groups that participate in public education Part 3 Dimensions of Restructuring explores the concepts of incremental and discontinuous change and extensively discusses current school restructuring activities along 12 dimensions learner outcomes curriculum instruction assessment learning environment technology school community relations time schedules governance teacher leadership personnel definitions and roles and working relationships Part 4 Process of Restructuring captures the lessons being learned about the restructuring process and presents examples of strategies and techniques Contains over 600 references MLH Oversold and Underused Larry CUBAN,2009-06-30 Impelled by a demand for increasing American strength in the new global economy many educators public officials business leaders and parents argue that school computers and Internet access will improve academic learning and prepare students for an information based workplace But just how valid is this argument In Oversold and Underused one of the most respected voices in American education argues that when teachers are not given a say in how the technology might reshape schools computers are merely souped up typewriters and classrooms continue to run much as they did a generation ago In his studies of early childhood high school and university classrooms in Silicon Valley Larry Cuban found that students and teachers use the new technologies far less in the classroom than they do at home and that teachers who use computers for instruction do so infrequently and unimaginatively Cuban points out that historical and organizational economic contexts influence how teachers use technical innovations Computers can be useful when teachers sufficiently understand the technology themselves believe it will enhance learning and have the power to shape their own curricula But these conditions can't be met without a broader and deeper commitment to public education beyond preparing workers More attention Cuban says needs to be paid to the civic and social goals of schooling goals that make the question of how many computers are in classrooms trivial Math Power Patricia Clark Kenschaft,2014-02-19 Critically acclaimed and commercially successful this resource helps parents overcome their residual math anxiety and assists them in showing children how to enjoy the subject and excel at it Packed with useful information and instruction the book features proven teaching techniques games and other activities Suitable for home schoolers and other parents of children from preschool to age 10 2006 edition Public Relations in Educational Organizations Theodore J. Kowalski,1996 This collection of readings addresses a demand being placed upon educational administrators using technology to create two way communications systems within their organizations and their communities It treats public relations as an indispensable element of leadership The book integrates theories and techniques taken from a variety of theorists and practitioners in both public relations and educational administration to provide an interdisciplinary contemporary foundation for practice In each chapter are case studies questions and suggested readings Occupational Education Forum ,1996 A Is for Ox Barry Sanders,1995-09-26 The twin crises of illiteracy and youth violence haunt our age the failure of increasing numbers of young people to attain even minimal levels of literacy signals a catastrophe at the deepest levels of our culture A is for Ox is an important and impassioned work that both proves this conclusion and suggests what can be done to change it Sanders argues that because of the omnipresence of electronically generated images and sounds in contemporary culture children grow up lacking the oral experience of language crucial to attaining true literacy without the technologies of reading and writing the development of self is stunted By tracing the long history of literacy in the West Sanders demonstrates how the culture of electronic media is changing both cognitive development and social interaction Taking the issue of literacy out of the narrow context of schooling and education Sanders compels us to consider it in relation to the fundamental issues of both personal identity and a person's unforced consent to the social contract
