Community Action for School Reform Howell S. Baum, 2003-08-28 Presents an innovative community approach to educational improvement Community Action for School Reform tells the story of a partnership between Baltimore community activists and a university as they created an organization to improve neighborhood schools. The book examines the challenges they faced such as persuading community members that they had the necessary knowledge to do something about the schools, starting and sustaining an organization, conducting and using research, engaging the school system, and funding their work. By analyzing the group's experiences, the author describes the challenges any school reform effort must address and shows directions for success.

The Skeptical Visionary Seymour Bernard Sarason, 2003

Seymour Sarason, in the words of Carl Glickman, is one of America's seminal thinkers about public education. For over four decades, he has been a voice of much needed skepticism about our plans for school reform, teacher training, and educational psychology. Now, for the first time, Sarason's essential writings on these and other issues are collected together, offering students and researchers alike the range, depth, and originality of Sarason's contributions to American thinking on schooling. As we go from debate to debate on issues such as school choice, charter schools, inclusive education, national standards, and other problems that seem to drag on without solution, Sarason's critical stance on the folly of many of our attempts to fix schools has always had at the center a concern for the main players in our educational institutions: the students, the teachers, and the parents. Any plans that cannot account for their well-being are doomed to failure. And in the face of such failure, the clarity of Sarason's vision for real educational success is a much needed antidote to much of the rhetoric that currently passes for substantial debate. A wide-ranging and comprehensive selection of Sarason's most significant writings, The Skeptical Visionary should find a prized space on any student's or teacher's bookshelf.

Author note: Robert Fried is Associate Professor in the School of Education at Northeastern University and is the author of The Passionate Teacher: A Practical Guide and The Passionate Learner: How Teachers and Parents Can Help Children Reclaim the Joy of Discovery.

Seymour Sarason is Professor Emeritus in the Department of Psychology at Yale University. He is the author of over forty books and is considered to be one of the most significant researchers in education and educational psychology in the country.

The Principals Frederick C. Lunenburg, Beverly J. Irby, 2022-08-04

Today's emphasis on student learning outcomes coupled with federal legislation to that end has placed more demands on the role of the principal than ever before in our nation's history. To address the heightened demands for greater accountability for student learning, The Principals uses a learning-centered approach, one that emphasizes the role of the principal as the steward of the school's vision, learning for all. The critical aspects of the teaching-learning process are addressed here, including student motivation, individual differences, classroom management, assessing student learning, and developing, maintaining, and changing school culture. In addition, several topics not found in other principals' texts are addressed, including school safety, special education, gifted education, bilingual education, nontraditional organizational structures, gender-inclusive theories, diversity, ethics, political and policy context, human resource management, legal issues, and collective bargaining. The book is documented extensively throughout and grounded in the latest research and theory, with suggestions for applying theory to practice, reflecting cutting edge research and topical issues facing principals in schools today Reforms and Innovation in Education Alexander M. Sidorkin, Mark K. Warford, 2017-10-05 This book investigates the interrelationship between educational reforms and pedagogical and technological innovations as well as the implications of this relationship for the quality of human capital By analyzing recent educational reforms in Russia and the US the authors shed new light on how these reforms may help or hinder innovations such as the introduction of computer technologies into classrooms new methods of teacher evaluation constructivist teaching methods and governance in public schools Taking labor economics as a useful lens for conceptualizing the diffusion of innovation in the first part of the book the authors analyze how certain power arrangements can block educational innovations in schools In the second part they examine recent educational reforms in the US and Russia The final part presents a vision of the next generation of educational reforms which may enable innovation diffusion rather than hamper it School Change and the MicroSociety® Program Cary Cherniss, 2005-06-28 Be an agent of positive enduring change with these specific strategies gleaned from the MicroSociety program and apply them to your school improvement efforts Inside Teacher Education: Challenging Prior Views of Teaching and Learning S.M. Bullock, 2011-07-23 Learning to teach is complex Teacher candidates begin a preservice program with powerful tacit assumptions about how teachers teach based on lengthy apprenticeships of observation over many years as students Virtually all teacher education programs provide a mixture of coursework and classroom experience Much has been written about the theory into practice approach in teacher education an approach that assumes teacher candidates who have been provided with instructions about how to teach will be able to recall and apply them in a school setting In reality teacher candidates report considerable difficulty enacting theory in practice to the point that many question the value of coursework This book takes an in depth look at five future teachers in one teacher education program analyzing and interpreting how they and their teacher educators learn from experience during both coursework and practicum experiences Many assumptions about the complex challenges of teaching teachers are called into question Is the role of a teacher educator to synthesize research based best practices for candidates to take to their field placements Does the preservice practicum experience challenge or reinforce a lifetime of socialized experiences in schools Must methods courses always be seen by most teacher candidates as little more than sites for collecting resources Where and how do candidates construct professional knowledge of teaching The data illustrate clearly that methods courses can be sites for powerful learning that challenges tacit assumptions about how and why we teach Enacting a Pedagogy of Teacher Education Tom Russell, John Loughran, 2007-03-12 Building on John Loughran's latest work Developing a Pedagogy of Teacher Education this book focuses on how individuals enact pedagogy in the context of teacher education With teacher educators actually teaching while showing student teachers how to teach the quality of teacher education improves Bringing together contributions from internationally known teacher educators a school administrator who supports teachers professional learning someone studying to become a teacher educator and someone studying to become a teacher the book examines enacting educational and pedagogical values in personal practice and developing the interpersonal relationships that are so essential to quality teaching and learning Each chapter illustrates an individual working to better understand the processes of teaching and learning and then modifying personal practices to enact a productive pedagogy of teacher education This collection extends the rich literature emerging from the field while also focusing explicit attention on the challenges of enacting a pedagogy of teacher education

Urban Education with an Attitude Lauri Johnson, Mary E. Finn, Rebecca Lewis, 2012-02-01 This book profiles local and national efforts to transform urban education and reinvent urban teacher preparation It describes real programs in real urban schools that have developed policy initiatives that promote educational equity community based curricula and teacher education and parent empowerment programs that emphasize democratic collaboration among universities urban teachers parents and community members By involving all stakeholders this comprehensive approach provides a model for creating urban schools that not only excite and inspire but also serve as engines for social change Contending that urban education reform will fail without public engagement and a commitment to social justice the contributors challenge urban educators to become accountable to their students and the communities they serve

Turnaround Principals for Underperforming Schools Rosemary

Papa, Fenwick W. English, 2011-07-21 There's no mystery in turning around low performing or failing schools but there are also no recipes In Turnaround Principals for Underperforming Schools Rosemary Papa and Fenwick English identify the essential ingredients for success The causes of failure are complex and interactive Schools are not inert structures but living organisms Putting schools back together is a collaborative venture It takes a team to turn around a school but it all begins with the leadership The key to success rests in a school leader who has a fundamental understanding of the dynamics of schooling human motivation and possesses the resiliency and energy to engage in altering the internal landscape of an unsuccessful school Two veteran educators have put together a work based on their research and experience for the past half century They pull no punches The challenge is not only to turn low performing or failing schools around but to enable them to become more socially just places for all students

Beyond Bystanders Nimrod Aloni, Lori Weintrob, 2017-04-17 Beyond Bystanders calls for a shift in the professional self image of teachers from agents of socialization to active advocates of human flourishing social justice and world betterment The editors propose that it is irresponsible for teachers to posit themselves as bystanders and to conceive of globalization as something happening to them Their role as educators in all disciplines must be to establish educational leadership that would empower students to critically evaluate developing global realities mass migrations socioeconomic inequalities global warming and the dehumanizing effects of submission to social media and consumerism and achieve the overarching goals of humanization and facilitation of the fulfilling life A shared commitment to humanist ethics pedagogical activism and social engagement at Kibbutzim College of Education Tel Aviv and Wagner College New York sparked this collaboration The authors of the book include educational thinkers such as Nel Noddings Michael Apple David Hansen Pasi Sahlberg and Wiel Veugelers as well as scholars and practitioners from six different countries and diverse professional and cultural backgrounds An essential part of our educational enterprise must involve promoting intercultural opportunities confronting cultural ills and ensuring that civic engagement is more attuned to political realities Educators in all disciplines can reframe their teaching and schools to be more cooperative and civic minded and challenge views of marginalized immigrant undocumented and refugee communities as strangers Education is not only about teaching people to read and to write It is about teaching human rights and cultural diversity nourishing peace and fostering inclusive and sustainable development I wish to commend Kibbutzim College of Education and Wagner College for joining forces to compile this volume to inspire readers in crafting new models of intellectual and intercultural understanding
