and planning have been published since Henk Scholten and John Stillwell edited Geographical Information Systems for Urban and Regional Planning in 1990. This volume seeks to redress the balance by showing how GI of various types is being used in urban physical environmental socio economic and business planning contexts at local regional and national scales with the assistance of GIS and modelling methods and how the uses of GI and GI technologies have evolved over the last decade. During this period a number of meetings took place in Europe in different locations organised initially by European Geographical Information Systems EGIS 1990-94 and more recently by the Joint European Conference and Exhibition JEC on Geographical Information 1995-97. These meetings brought together members of the GI community from across the world to discuss GI research and GIS applications. One of the Special Interest Groups associated with the JEC gatherings was that on Geographical Information and Planning and several of the contributions in this book have their origins in papers presented to the group's meetings.

Stonehenge Landscapes, Sally Exon, Vincent L. Gaffney, Ann Woodward, Ron Yorston, 2000. Stonehenge Landscapes is the largest digital analysis of the archaeological landscape and monuments of Stonehenge ever attempted. The study uses data from more than 1200 monuments. The contents of the Stonehenge barrows are collated for the first time and presented in a series of appendices. The result of this endeavour is a major phenomenological study of the development of the Stonehenge landscape from the Mesolithic to the Early Bronze Age. The authors explain how the landscape emerged over time the developing relationships between the public monuments and how these monuments created new spaces for social action in prehistory The way monuments were used and perceived is discussed and the results are demonstrated through interactive software which displays GIS data animations of movement along monuments and through the landscape as well as 3 dimensional views of the landscape panoramic photographs and videos Uniquely the reader can access all the data through their web browser permitting them to perform their own studies and produce their own reading of the landscape of Stonehenge Stonehenge Landscapes is a radical step forward in archaeological publishing integrating computing and phenomenological study permitting new insights into a well known landscape and allowing the reader to participate in the study and interpretation of the results The Stonehenge Landscapes CD includes a software program to display various data sets The copyright owner of this program is Ronald Yorston Archaeopress holds a licence to distribute the program as part of the electronic version of Stonehenge Landscapes
