Economic and Demographic Relationships in Development Ester Boserup, 1990 The 25 essays in this collection analyze developmental problems from an unusually broad perspective The first seven essays emphasize the relationships between agriculture and population while the next four are concerned with food supplies Other essays address the role of women in economic development the determinants of fertility in low income countries economic development in Africa and public policy issues ISBN 0 8018 3929 7 45 00

Politics, Property and Production in the West African Sahel Tor Arve Benjaminsen, Christian Lund, 2001 Through a number of case studies from the West African Sahel this book links and explores natural resources management from the perspectives of politics property and production

The Elgar Companion to Development Studies David Clark, 2006 If handbooks can be inspiring this is it Like a true companion it takes in its stride conversations both big and small Its entries do not just present an international and multidisciplinary mix but true to life they work on several different scales And importantly the book makes its authority evident For it is like an extended website but with all the added advantages of an encyclopaedia that actually tells you about the authors and the sources on which they have drawn The resulting compilation is highly intelligent thoughtful and above all usable

Dame Marilyn Strathern University of Cambridge UK The Elgar Companion to Development Studies is a major production in the development studies field authored by a star studded cast of contributors With 136 entries covering a vast range of topics it should quickly establish itself as a leading work of reference We should all feel indebted to David Clark who has successfully brought this substantial publishing project to completion

John Toye University of Oxford UK This is a most comprehensive handbook on development studies It brings together a wide varied array of carefully crafted summaries of 136 key topics in development by an international cast of well respected academics and other experts in respective areas of study The handbook is heavily interdisciplinary organically combining economic political historical social cultural institutional ethical and human aspects of development While the wide range of entries might appear as a simple glossary listing or an encyclopedic collection each of the 136 entries offers more depth and discussion than the average handbook Viewed in this light this companion is highly likely to become known as a leading reference work on the topic Highly recommended

Ismael Hossein Zadeh Choice The Elgar Companion to Development Studies is an innovative and unique reference book that includes original contributions covering development economics as well as development studies broadly defined This major new Companion brings together an international panel of experts from varying backgrounds who discuss theoretical ethical and practical issues relating to economic social cultural institutional political and human aspects of development in poor countries It also includes a selection of intellectual biographies of leading development thinkers While the Companion is organised along the lines of an encyclopaedia each of its 136 entries provide more depth and discussion than the average reference book Its entries are also extremely diverse they draw on different social science disciplines incorporate various mixes of theoretical and applied work embrace a variety of methodologies and represent different views of the world The Elgar Companion to Development Studies will therefore appeal to students scholars researchers policymakers and practitioners in the field of development as well as the interested layman The Demographic Revolution in Modern Egypt Warren C. Robinson, Fatma H. El-Zanaty, 2006-01-01 The Demographic Revolution in Modern Egypt tells the dramatic story of Egypt's transition in the last two decades from staggeringly high to low fertility and mortality rates Scholars Warren C Robinson and Fatma H El Zanaty especially delve into the reasons for the decline in fertility including the relative success of Egypt's recent public initiatives in family planning Robinson and El Zanaty compellingly show the importance of continued demographic stability in Egypt for that nation the Middle East and indeed the world The authors point to Egypt's optimistic progress as a model for other countries facing out of control birthrates wreaking havoc with economic and social development The Diversity of Emerging Capitalisms in Developing Countries Eric Rougier, François Combarrous, 2017-04-06 This book presents the results of a collective and original empirical investigation of the institutional systems underlying the capitalisms that are coming to the fore in developing nations While varieties of industrialized countries capitalisms are extensively scrutinized those of developing countries capitalisms are far less documented By implementing a unified and original comparative approach based on the institutional complementarity theory the different contributors of the book find evidence for the originality and heterogeneity of the forms of capitalism to be observed in developing countries This text analyses capitalist systems as clusters of sectoral institutions and regulations identifying differences between these clusters in a large sample of emerging and developing countries Rougier and Combarrous bring together contributions answering the following questions What are these clusters of institutions underlying emerging capitalisms Are there common or specific patterns of institutional clustering across countries and what are the main characteristics of the varieties of capitalism they shape What are their main long term determinants Are there specific patterns of economic outcome associated with these clusters Can different forms of institutional complementarity be observed How can we analyse institutional reform from this perspective Population — Development — Environment J. Baguant, Wolfgang Lutz, C. Prinz, F.L. Toth, A.B. Wils, 2013-06-29 Because the number of options is often limited small island states tend to find it uncommonly difficult to strike a balance between population environment and development Relatively high population density and small land areas without much in the way of natural resources do not provide the best of circumstances for improving the living conditions of the population especially a fast growing one The result is often stunted economic development and environmental stress both on land and offshore The developments in the island state of Mauritius over the past 30 years however can serve as an inspiration and illustration of how extremely adverse conditions can be overcome In the early 1960s Mauritius was trying to cope with rapid population growth extreme poverty and grim economic prospects Population density was 324 inhabitants per km² total fertility was 5.7 and GNP per capita was less than 200 In 1990 the situation in Mauritius was radically different Although 2 population density had increased to 527 inhabitants per km total fertility had dropped to 2.0 and GNP per capita had increased to 2,310. Economic stagnation had been replaced by steady growth and full employment and environmental problems were being addressed as issues of high priority. Proposed Mutual Defense and Development Programs United States. Agency for International Development, 1965

The Routledge Handbook on Cities of the Global South Susan Parnell, Sophie Oldfield, 2014-03-26 The renaissance in urban theory draws directly from a fresh focus on the neglected realities of cities beyond the west and embraces the global south as the epicentre of urbanism. This Handbook engages the complex ways in which cities of the global south and the global north are rapidly shifting the imperative for multiple genealogies of knowledge production as well as a diversity of empirical entry points to understand contemporary urban dynamics. The Handbook works towards a geographical realignment in urban studies bringing into conversation a wide array of cities across the global south the ordinary mega global and peripheral. With interdisciplinary contributions from a range of leading international experts it profiles an emergent and geographically diverse body of work. The contributions draw on conflicting and divergent debates to open up discussion on the meaning of the city in or of the global south arguments that are fluid and increasingly contested geographically and conceptually. It reflects on critical urbanism the macro and micro scale forces that shape cities including ideological demographic and technological shifts and constantly changing global and regional economic dynamics. Working with southern reference points the chapters present themes in urban politics identity and environment in ways that re frame our thinking about cities. The Handbook engages the twenty first century city through a southern urban lens to stimulate scholarly professional and activist engagements with the city.

Investment in Women's Human Capital T. Paul Schultz, 1995-06-15 How are human capital investments allocated between women and men? What are the returns to investments in women's nutrition health care education mobility and training? In thirteen wide ranging and innovative empirical analyses Investment in Women's Human Capital explores the nature of human capital distributions to women and their effect on outcomes within the family. Section I considers the experiences of high income countries examining the limitations of industrialization for the advancement of women returns to secondary education for women and state control of women's education and labor market productivity through the design of tax systems and the public subsidy of children. The remaining four sections investigate health education household structure and labor markets and measurement issues in low income countries including the effect of technological change on transfers of wealth to and from children in India women's and men's responses to the costs of medical care in Kenya the effects of birth order and sex on educational attainment in Taiwan wage returns to schooling in Indonesia and in Cote d'Ivoire and the increasing prevalence of female headed households and the correlates of gender differences in wages in Brazil.

Ester Boserup's Legacy on Sustainability Marina Fischer-Kowalski, Anette Reenberg, Anke Schaffartzik, Andreas Mayer, 2014-08-19 Arising from a scientific conference marking the 100th anniversary of her birth this book honors the life and work of the social scientist and diplomat Ester Boserup who blazed new trails in her interdisciplinary approach to development and sustainability African Development in a Comparative Perspective, 2000 Agriculture and Environmental Challenges Jitendra Srivastava, Harold Alderman, 1993-01-01 Annotation Symposium on environmentally sustainable agricultural development Twenty seven specialists discuss policies and techniques for advancing agricultural development and protecting the environment The discussions on agricultural management examine how the environment is affected by population growth conservation tillage moisture management soil fertility and biological nitrogen fertilization Several strategies offer ways to raise the productivity of women farmers target women for extension programs and address fuel issues of special concern to women The symposium also explores the relationship between poverty and agricultural resource management Key topics include the effects of deforestation conservation and population growth on poverty and the ways in which supply led credit could be used to rehabilitate the environment World Population and Fertility Planning Technologies, 1982 The Impact of Population Growth on Well-being in Developing Countries Dennis A. Ahlburg, Allen C. Kelley, Karen Oppenheim Mason, 2013-03-14 This book examines the nature and significance of the impact of population growth on the well being of developing countries in particular the effects on economic growth education health food supply housing poverty and the environment In addition because family planning programmes often significantly affect population growth the study examines the impacts of family planning on fertility and health and the human rights implications of family planning programmes In considering the book's conclusions about the impact of population growth on development four caveats should be noted First the effects of population growth vary from place to place and over time Thus blanket statements about overall effects often cannot be made Where possible the authors note the contexts in which population effects are strongest and weakest Second all of the outcomes examined in this book are influenced by factors other than population growth Moreover the impact of population growth may itself vary according to the presence or absence of other factors This again makes blanket statements about the effects of population growth difficult Throughout the chapters the authors try to identify other relevant factors that influence the outcomes we discuss or that influence the impact of population growth on those outcomes Rural Women C.A.B. International, 1992 This annotated bibliography contains nearly 1900 records taken from over 500 serial publications It provides extensive coverage of the literature relating to women and rural development in the Third World including many issues and topics currently receiving increased attention Human Geography Erin Hogan Fouberg, Alexander B. Murphy, Harm J. De Blij, 2015 The Economics of Migration in the Volta Basin of Ghana Daniel Tsegai, 2005 Strengthening the Bank's Population Work in the Nineties Steven W. Sinding, 1991 These recommendations for the nineties focus on changing Bank strategies not Bank policy Population and Development in Latin America and the Caribbean United States. Congress. House. Committee on Foreign Affairs. Subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs, 1982 Bulletin Du Bureau International D'éducation, 1993
