Protestant Boy Geoffrey Beattie, 2013-02-07 Geoffrey Beattie grew up in the notorious murder triangle in North Belfast where during thirty years of the Troubles more than six hundred people were killed Many of his childhood friends ended up dead or in prison while Beattie himself moved to England at first to study and eventually to build a highly successful career as a psychologist On a visit home to see his ailing mother Beattie begins to explore his Ulster Protestant ancestry and to reflect on the unfashionable and little understood Protestant community His search takes him to the trenches of the Somme to the Plantation villages of Ulster and to Drumcree for the Orange march And it also takes him deeper into his mother s character at the heart of the book is an extraordinarily vivid portrait of this opinionated witty exasperating Ulsterwoman Protestant Boy is an honest beautifully written book about the stories that families and cultures tell themselves and about the silences that they leave behind

De-Industrialization Bert Altena, Marcel van der Linden, 2002 De industrialization processes have accompanied industrialization from the start both regionally and globally Most historical studies of de industrialization focus on economic issues including structural causes and forms of unemployment Much less attention is usually paid to the social and cultural aspects What are the consequences of de industrialization for working class families and their communities How does de industrialization affect working class culture trade unions traditional labour parties and the regional social educational and cultural infrastructure Are gender relations changed by de industrialization The essays here propose a wide scope for the study of industrial devolution
