Hare Joins the Home Guard Alison Uttley, 1974 The British Home Guard Pocketbook A.F.U. Green, 2018-03-22 The Home Guards are an attacking force lying in wait for and ready to destroy an enemy who dares to set foot on our shores The Home Guard has been immortalised in British culture in the TV series Dad's Army Formed by men not eligible for active service too old too young in reserved occupations vital to the war effort who were expected to resist a German invasion with any resources they had to hand the Home Guard is the embodiment of plucky British resolve against the odds The Home Guard Pocket Book evokes this spirit Written by Brig Gen Green commanding 4th battalion Sussex Home Guard and Training Adviser for the Sussex Zone this book is based on his experience and in his own words is the result of my ransacking the dusty pigeon holes of memory and the condensation of many books official instructions and writings Its tone is informal and colloquial such as March discipline Troops will always march off the parade ground at the Slope As soon as this has been done the order March at Ease should be given When marching at ease the rifle may be carried in any way a soldier fancies Nevertheless the book is full of sound advice on training organisation and discipline fire arms reconnaissance and field engineering the responsibilities of the Group Pigeon Officer the proper position to adopt for surviving a dive bomb attack and how to set a trap for an unwary advancing German cyclist Hare Joins the Home Guard ... Pictures by Margaret Tempest. (Second Impression.) Alison Uttley, Margaret Tempest, 1942 To the Last Man Malcolm Atkin, 2019-04-30 This historical study of the UK's WWII homeland defense service dispels the propaganda and pop culture myths to reveal its true wartime role In 1940 Britain formed an armed citizen militia to act as the first line of defense in case of Nazi invasion an essential if suicidal mission intended to buy time for the organization of regular forces Officially they were the Home Guard Later a British sitcom that ran for nearly a decade in the 60s and 70s dubbed them Dad's Army That show contributed to a distorted perception of the Home Guard that persists today But as Malcolm Atkin reveals in this thought provoking book the Home Guard's image was manipulated from its earliest days Sifting through official documents and contemporary histories as well as stories artwork and poetry of the era and comparing these with postwar films and histories Atkin explores how the myths of the Home Guard arose and were exploited He also shows how the strong sense of gallows humor amongst its volunteers which fits in with a long tradition of self deprecating humor in the British army was taken out of context and became the basis of the TV series To the Last Man strips back the myths analyzing how the modern perception has evolved The result is a new gritty and sometimes shocking appreciation of the role that the Home Guard was expected to play in the Second World War Dad's Army David Carroll, 2009-03-30 Immortalised by Dad's Army this is the true story of the men who manned the British frontline Gloucester's Military Legacy Christine Jordan, 2017-07-03 From the establishment of Gloucester as a Roman colonia a colony of retired military veterans the city has held a strategic position being close to the easiest crossing over the River Severn and into Wales The Romans began building the city's defences including the city walls and bastions

which were further enhanced by the great warrior Aethelflaed and which would become invaluable in the Siege of Gloucester during the Civil War in 1643 These walls would be destroyed by Charles II as a punishment for the city's role in the conflict In the twelfth century Gloucester's first motte and bailey castle were built and used by a number of kings as a garrison to prepare attacks against the Welsh and the Irish The formation of what would become known as The Glorious Glosters in 1782 led to a number of notable military campaigns including the battles of Alexandria Quatre Bras the Second Boer War including the Siege of Ladysmith both World Wars and the Korean War Christine's book will take you on an historic journey uncovering on the way the city's military legacy

Contesting home defence Penny Summerfield, Corinna Peniston-Bird, 2013-07-19 Contesting home defence is a new history of the Home Guard a novel national defence force of the Second World War composed of civilians who served as part time soldiers it questions accounts of the force and the war which have seen them as symbols of national unity It scrutinises the Home Guard's reputation and explores whether this people's army was a site of social cohesion or of dissension by assessing the competing claims made for it at the time It then examines the way it was represented during the war and has been since notably in Dad's Army and discusses the memories of men and women who served in it The book makes a significant and original contribution to debates concerning the British home front and introduces fresh ways of understanding the Second World War

British Children's Fiction in the Second World War Owen Dudley Edwards, 2007-08-01 What children read in the Second World War had an immense effect on how they came of age as they faced the new world This time was unique for British children parental controls were often relaxed if not absent and the radio
