demonstrate the precarious relationship between body and identity in medieval literature Through the Daemon's Gate Dean Swinford, 2013-10-08 This book tells the story of the early modern astronomer Johannes Kepler's Somnium which has been regarded by science historians and literary critics alike as the first true example of science fiction. Kepler began writing his complex and heavily footnoted tale of a fictional Icelandic astronomer as an undergraduate and added to it throughout his life. The Somnium fuses supernatural and scientific models of the cosmos through a satirical defense of Copernicanism that features witches, lunar inhabitants, and a daemon who speaks in the empirical language of modern science. Swinford's look at the ways that Kepler's Somnium is influenced by the cosmic dream, a literary genre that enjoyed considerable popularity among medieval authors including Geoffrey Chaucer, Dante, John of Salisbury, Macrobius, and Alan of Lille. He examines the generic conventions of the cosmic dream, also studying the poetic and theological sensibilities underlying the categories of dreams formulated by Macrobius and Artemidorus that were widely used to interpret specific symbols in dreams and to assess their overall reliability. Swinford develops a key claim about the form of the Somnium as it relates to early science: Kepler relies on a genre that is closely connected to a Ptolemaic or earth-centered model of the cosmos as a way of explaining and justifying a model of the cosmos that does not posit the same connections between the individual and the divine that are so important for the Ptolemaic model. In effect, Kepler uses the cosmic dream to describe a universe that cannot lay claim to the same correspondences between an individual's dream and the order of the cosmos understood within the rules of the genre itself. To that end, Kepler's Somnium is the first example of science fiction, but the last example of Neoplatonic allegory.

Dystopia Gregory Claeys, 2016-11-24 Dystopia: A Natural History is the first monograph devoted to the concept of dystopia. Taking the term to encompass both a literary tradition of satirical works, mostly on totalitarianism, as well as real despotisms and societies in a state of disastrous collapse, this volume redefines the central concepts and the chronology of the genre and offers a paradigm-shifting understanding of the subject. Part One assesses the theory and prehistory of dystopia. By contrast to utopia, conceived as promoting an ideal of friendship defined as enhanced sociability, dystopia is defined by estrangement, fear, and the proliferation of enemy categories. A natural history of dystopia thus concentrates upon the centrality of the passion or emotion of fear and hatred in modern despotisms. The work of Le Bon, Freud, and others is used to show how dystopian groups use such emotions. Utopia and dystopia are portrayed not as opposites but as extremes on a spectrum of sociability defined by a heightened form of group identity. The prehistory of the process whereby enemies are demonised is explored from early conceptions of monstrosity through Christian conceptions of the devil and witchcraft and the persecution of heresy. Part Two surveys the major dystopian moments in twentieth-century despotisms, focussing in particular upon Nazi Germany, Stalinism, the Chinese Cultural Revolution, and Cambodia under Pol Pot. The concentration here is upon the political religion hypothesis as a key explanation for the chief excesses of communism in particular. Part Three examines literary dystopias. It commences well before the usual starting point in the secondary literature in anti Jacobin writings of the 1790s Two chapters address the main twentieth century texts usually studied as representative of the genre Aldous Huxley s Brave New World and George Orwell s Nineteen Eighty Four The remainder of the section examines the evolution of the genre in the second half of the twentieth century down to the present Saracens and the Making of English Identity Siobhain Bly Calkin,2013-11-05 This book explores the ways in which discourses of religious racial and national identity blur and engage each other in the medieval West Specifically the book studies depictions of Muslims in England during the 1330s and argues that these depictions although historically inaccurate served to enhance and advance assertions of English national identity at this time The book examines Saracen characters in a manuscript renowned for the variety of its texts and discusses hagiographic legends elaborations of chronicle entries and popular romances about Charlemagne Arthur and various English knights In these texts Saracens engage issues such as the demarcation of communal borders the place of gender norms and religion in communities self definitions and the roles of violence and history in assertions of group identity Texts involving Saracens thus serve both to assert an English identity and to explore the challenges involved in making such an assertion in the early fourteenth century when the English language was regaining its cultural prestige when the English people were increasingly at odds with their French cousins and when English Welsh and Scottish sovereignty were pressing matters Desiring Truth Jeremy Lowe,2005-01-07 First published in 2005 Volumes in the Medieval History and Culture series include studies on individual works and authors of Latin and vernacular literatures historical personalities and events theological and philosophical issues and new critical approaches to medieval literature and culture Momentous changes have occurred in Medieval Studies in the past thirty years in teaching as well as in scholarship The Medieval History and Culture series enhances research in the field by providing an outlet for monographs by scholars in the early stages of their careers on all topics related to the broad scope of Medieval Studies while at the same time pointing to and highlighting new directions that will shape and define scholarly discourse in the future This volume explores a methodology for articulating this relationship that fourteenth century texts invite us to participate in the production of meaning judgment the willed act of moral engagement and therefore the process a living evolving relationship an open circuit between text and respondent Between Courtly Literature and Al-Andaluz Michelle Reichert,2014-02-04 Chr tien de Troyes uses repeated references to Spain throughout his romances despite past suggestions that they contain Mozarabic and Islamic themes and motifs these references have never been commented upon The book will demonstrate that these allusions to Spain occur at key moments in the romances and are often coupled with linguistic riddles which serve as roadmaps to the manner in which the romances are to be read These references and riddles seem to support the idea that some of their themes and motifs in Chr tien s romances are of Andalusí origin The book also analyzes Chr tien s notion of conjointure and shows it to be the intentional elaboration of a sort of Mischliteratur which integrates Islamic and Jewish themes and motifs as well as mystical alchemical symbolism into the standard religious and literary canons of his time

The contrast afforded by Chr tien s use of irony and his subtle integration of this mati re d Orient into the standard canon constitutes a carefully veiled criticism of the social and moral conduct as well as spiritual beliefs of twelfth century Christian society the crusading mentality chivalric mores and even the notion of courtly love The primary interest of the book lies in the fact that it will be the first to comment upon and analyze Chr tien s references to Spain and the rich mati re d Orient in his romances while suggesting channels for its transmission through scholars merchants and religious houses from northern Spain to Champagne

The Preaching Fox Warren E. Edminster,2005-01-07 First published in 2005 Volumes in the Medieval History and Culture series include studies on individual works and authors of Latin and vernacular literatures historical personalities and events theological and philosophical issues and new critical approaches to medieval literature and culture Momentous changes have occurred in Medieval Studies in the past thirty years in teaching as well as in scholarship The Medieval History and Culture series enhances research in the held by providing an outlet for monographs by scholars in the early stages of their careers on all topics related to the broad scope of Medieval Studies while at the same time pointing to and highlighting new directions that will shape and define scholarly discourse in the future This volume is a collection of Wakefield Master s festive plays Characters threaten the audience with comic bravado engage in mocking tomfoolery and parody any number of sacred forms it is behavior unexpected by modern students of the drama especially from what we assume was a serious and religious medieval past and it is unlike what we find in the other mystery cycles

The Water Supply System of Siena, Italy Michael P. Kucher,2020-10-28 The book reviews scholarly literature and archival sources including maps and diagrams to better situate Siena s achievement in urban history and broadens our understanding of medieval technology and urban life

"She, this in Blak" Thomas Edward Hill,2006 Publisher description She, this in Blak Thomas Hill,2013-10-18 She This in Blak takes a fresh look at Chaucer s great Trojan romance Troilus and Criseyde in light of recent scholarship on late scholastic discourses on representation and causality as they pertain to human perception and judgment This study also contributes to a growing literature on the impact of scholastic psychological theory upon contemporary cultural forms by examining the way in which late medieval accounts of perception and cognition can illuminate the construction of the poem s subjects including one of the most compelling and controversial figures in medieval literature Chaucer s Criseyde By examining Chaucer s depiction of Troilus Pandarus and Criseyde within this contemporary cultural context She This in Blak offers a better grounded and more historically illuminating view of the poem than is provided by psychological readings based on modern constructions of intentionality

Illuminating the Border of French and Flemish Manuscripts, 1270-1310 Lisa Moore Hunt,2013-10-14 This study first examines the marginal repertoire in two well known manuscripts the Psalter of Guy de Dampierre and an Arthurian Romance within their material and codicological contexts This repertoire then provides a template for an extended study of the marginal motifs that appear in eighteen related manuscripts which range from a Bible to illustrated versions of the encyclopedias of Vincent de Beauvais and Brunetto Latini Considering the manuscript as a whole work of art the marginalia s physical relationship to nearby texts and images can shed light on the reception of these illuminated books by their medieval viewers Muslims in the Western Imagination Sophia Rose Arjana,2015-01-02 Through an exhaustive survey of medieval early modern and contemporary literature art and cinema Sophia Rose Arjana examines the dehumanizing ways in which Muslim men have been constructed and represented as monsters Travel, Time, and Space in the Middle Ages and Early Modern Time Albrecht Classen,2018-10-22 Research on medieval and early modern travel literature has made great progress which now allows us to take the next step and to analyze the correlations between the individual and space throughout time which contributed essentially to identity formation in many different settings The contributors to this volume engage with a variety of pre modern texts images and other documents related to travel and the individual s self orientation in foreign lands and make an effort to determine the concept of identity within a spatial framework often determined by the meeting of various cultures Moreover objects images and words can also travel and connect people from different worlds through books The volume thus brings together new scholarship focused on the interrelationship of travel space time and individuality which also includes of course women s movement through the larger world whether in concrete terms or through proxy travel via readings Travel here is also examined with respect to craftsmen s activities at various sites artists employment for many different projects all over Europe and elsewhere and in terms of metaphysical experiences catabasis
