Rottenberg, 1985 Elements of Argument Annette T. Rottenberg, 1991 Rejuvenating the Humanities Ray Broadus Browne, Marshall William Fishwick, 1992 The humanities are the human elements in any culture In the West these humanities have ordinarily been anchored in and derivative of Eurocentric culture and have been centered on elite and art related subjects As such they have strengthened and perpetuated elite culture and have been restricted and narrow in their point of view They have enervated the modern humanities which in a democratic society insist on having democratic humanities Democratic humanities demand a new point of view which demands respect for and dignity to the common aspects of culture as well as inclusion of those elements It is time the call went ringing through the land The Old is Sick Please Bring Assistance Rejuvenate the humanities The essays in this volume are Assistance an effort to demonstrate the inalienable need for new subjects in the humanities canon and the value of those subjects as parts of the New Humanities The twenty essays in this effort to bring new vitality to the humanities range through fields familiar in life but unfamiliar in the humanities canon They include leisure folk cultures material culture pornography comics animal rights Black studies travelling and of course the bugbear of academics television The authors include some of the outstanding scholar observers of today all of whom address their subjects in cool dispassionate and convincing reason The subject of revitalizing the Humanities is important indeed This volume will go a long way toward alerting the intellectual community to the desperate need to bring new understanding to the study of the modern humanities Intertexts Marguerite Helmers, 2003-01-30 Addresses the question What place does reading have in the college writing classroom Brings together compositionists engaged in teaching writing criticism and technology to re think the separation of reading and writing and to re theorize reading

The Linguistics of Punctuation Geoffrey Nunberg, 1990-09 Geoffrey Nunberg challenges a widespread assumption that the linguistic structure of written languages is qualitatively identical to that of spoken language It should no longer be necessary to defend the view that written language is truly language but it is surprising to learn of written language category indicators that are realized by punctuation marks and other figural devices He shows that traditional approaches to these devices tend to describe the features of written language exclusively by analogy to those of spoken language with the result that punctuation has been regarded as an unsystematic and deficient means for presenting spoken language intonation Analysed in its own terms however punctuation manifests a coherent linguistic subsystem of text grammar that coexists in writing with the system of lexical grammar that has been the traditional object of linguistic inquiry A detailed analysis of the category structure of English text sentences reveals a highly systematic set of syntactic and presentational rules that can be described in terms independent of the rules of lexical grammar and are largely matters of the tacit knowledge that writers acquire without formal instruction That these rules obey constraints that are structurally analogous to those of lexical grammar leads Nunberg to label the text grammar an application of the principles of natural language organization to a new domain Geoffrey Nunberg is a researcher at Xerox Palo Alto Research Center

Kirsznar, 2008 The IEEE Guide to Writing in the Engineering and Technical Fields David Kmieciak, Bernadette Longo, 2017-08-30 Helps both engineers and students improve their writing skills by learning to analyze target audience tone and purpose in order to effectively write technical documents This book introduces students and practicing engineers to all the components of writing in the workplace It teaches readers how considerations of audience and purpose govern the structure of their documents within particular work settings The IEEE Guide to Writing in the Engineering and Technical Fields is broken up into two sections Writing in Engineering Organizations and What Can You Do With Writing The first section helps readers approach their writing in a logical and persuasive way as well as analyze their purpose for writing The second section demonstrates how to distinguish rhetorical situations and the generic forms to inform train persuade and collaborate The emergence of the global workplace has brought with it an increasingly important role for effective technical communication Engineers more often need to work in cross functional teams with people in different disciplines in different countries and in different parts of the world Engineers must know how to communicate in a rapidly evolving global environment as both practitioners of global English and developers of technical documents Effective communication is critical in these settings The IEEE Guide to Writing in the Engineering and Technical Fields Addresses the increasing demand for technical writing courses geared toward engineers Allows readers to perfect their writing skills in order to present knowledge and ideas to clients government and general public Covers topics most important to the working engineer and includes sample documents Includes a companion website that offers engineering documents based on real projects The IEEE Guide to Engineering Communication is a handbook developed specifically for engineers and engineering students Using an argumentation framework the handbook presents information about forms of engineering communication in a clear and accessible format This book introduces both forms that are characteristic of the engineering workplace and principles of logic and rhetoric that underlie these forms As a result students and practicing engineers can improve their writing in any situation they encounter because they can use these principles to analyze audience purpose tone and form

Elements of Artificial Neural Networks Kishan Mehrotra, Chilukuri K. Mohan, Sanjay Ranka, 1997 Elements of Artificial Neural Networks provides a clearly organized general introduction focusing on a broad range of algorithms for students and others who want to use neural networks rather than simply study them The authors who have been developing and team teaching the material in a one semester course over the past six years describe most of the basic neural network models with several detailed solved examples and discuss the rationale and advantages of the models as well as their limitations The approach is practical and open minded and requires very little mathematical or technical background Written from a computer science and statistics point of view the text stresses links to contiguous fields and can easily serve as a first course for students in economics and management The opening chapter sets the stage presenting the basic concepts in a clear and objective way and tackling important yet rarely addressed questions related to the use of neural networks in practical situations Subsequent chapters on supervised learning single layer and multilayer networks unsupervised learning and associative models are structured around classes of problems to which networks can be applied

Applications are discussed along with the algorithms A separate chapter takes up optimization methods The most frequently used algorithms such as backpropagation are introduced early on right after perceptrons so that these can form the basis for initiating course projects Algorithms published as late as 1995 are also included All of the algorithms are presented using block structured pseudo code and exercises are provided throughout Software implementing many commonly used neural network algorithms is available at the book s website Transparency masters including abbreviated text and figures for the entire book are available for instructors using the text

What is the New Rhetoric? Susan E. Thomas, 2009-03-26 The Age of Information has spawned a critical focus on human communication in a multimedia world particularly on theories and practices of writing With the worldwide web impacting increasingly on academic and business communication the need has never been greater for advanced study in writing communication and critical thinking across all genres sectors and cultures In recent decades the definitions of new rhetoric have expanded to encompass a variety of theories and movements raising the question of how rhetoric is understood and employed in the twenty first century The essays collected here represent variations on these themes with each attempting to answer the title s deliberately provocative question addressing particularly How the classical art of rhetoric is still relevant today How it is directly related to modern technologies and the new modes of communication they have generated How rhetorical practice is informing research methodologies and teaching and learning practices in the contemporary academy

Books in Print Supplement, 1994 The Rhetorical Function of the Book of Ezekiel Thomas Renz, 2014-09-03 This study analyses the book of Ezekiel as a tool of communication arguing that the book was designed to shape the self understanding of the exilic community A discussion of the historical context precedes a chapter that deals with the basic thrust and literary arrangement of Ezekiel A detailed examination of individual rhetorical techniques use of the watchman motif legal traditions emotional language and others and of crucial passages especially 24 15 27 and 37 1 14 follows The final chapter explores the book s suitability for the situation for which it was designed This work gives readers the opportunity to study the book of Ezekiel as a whole and to explore some of its intricacies Its methodology is an example of the fruitful integration of traditional critical methods and more recent literary and sociological approaches This publication has also been published in paperback please click here for details

Argument and Theology in 1 Peter Lauri Thurén, 1995-10-01 Using both ancient and modern rhetoric linguistics and argumentation theory this study offers a fresh approach to 1 Peter and New Testament ethics It is often claimed that the growing interest in paraenesis or ethical teaching among early Christians indicates how Jesus revolutionary teaching and the Pauline notion of justification by faith were gradually replaced by an emphasis on good works and ethics borrowed from the surrounding Hellenistic and Jewish culture The Motivation of the Paraenesis challenges this traditional view of ethics in early Christianity arguing that paraenesis was an original essential part of early Christian doctrine and life The book also provides a new well balanced picture of 1 Peter and its message giving a natural interpretation to many puzzling sections and clarifying the internal logic of the text and the theology behind it
