Eleventh Draft Craft And The Writing Life From The Iowa Writers Workshop:

The Eleventh Draft Frank Conroy, 1999-10-01 The present day director of the Iowa Writer s Workshop Frank Conroy invites 23 former professors and students of the workshop to pen essays on their craft Reconsidering Flannery O'Connor Alison Arant, Jordan Cofer, 2020-11-24 Contributions by Lindsay Alexander Alison Arant Alicia Matheny Beeson Eric Bennett Gina Caison Jordan Cofer Doug Davis Doreen Fowler Marshall Bruce Gentry Bruce Henderson Monica C Miller William Murray Carol Shloss Alison Staudinger and Rachel Watson The National Endowment for the Humanities has funded two Summer Institutes titled Reconsidering Flannery O Connor which invited scholars to rethink approaches to Flannery O Connor s work Drawing largely on research that started as part of the 2014 NEH Institute this collection shares its title and its mission Featuring fourteen new essays Reconsidering Flannery O Connor disrupts a few commonplace assumptions of O Connor studies while also circling back to some old questions that are due for new attention The volume opens with New Methodologies which features theoretical approaches not typically associated with O Connor s fiction in order to gain new insights into her work The second section New Contexts stretches expectations on literary genre on popular archetypes in her stories and on how we should interpret her work The third section lovingly called Strange Bedfellows puts O Connor in dialogue with overlooked or neglected conversation partners while the final section O Connor s Legacy reconsiders her personal views on creative writing and her wishes regarding the handling of her estate upon death With these final essays the collection comes full circle attesting to the hazards that come from overly relying on O Connor s interpretation of her own work but also from ignoring her views and desires Through these reconsiderations some of which draw on previously unpublished archival material the collection attests to and promotes the vitality of scholarship on Flannery O Connor

After the Program Era Loren Glass, 2017-01-04 The publication in 2009 of Mark McGurl's The Program Era provoked a sea change in the study of postwar literature Even though almost every English department in the United States housed some version of a creative writing program by the time of its publication literary scholars had not previously considered that this institutional phenomenon was historically significant McGurl's groundbreaking book effectively established that the rise of the creative writing program stands as the most important event in postwar American literary history forcing us to revise our understanding not only of the relationship between higher education and literary production but also of the periodizing terminology we had previously used to structure our understanding of twentieth century literature After the Program Era explores the consequences and implications as well as the lacunae and liabilities of McGurl's foundational intervention Glass focuses only on American fiction and the traditional MFA program and this collection aims to expand and examine its insights in terms of other genres and sites Postwar poetry in particular has until now been neglected as a product of the Program Era even though it is arguably a purer example since poets now depend almost entirely on the patronage of the university Similarly this collection looks beyond the traditional MFA writing program to explore the pre history of writing programs in American universities as well as alternatives to the traditionally structured program that have emerged along the way Taken together the essays in After the Program Era seek to answer and explore many of these questions and continue the conversations McGurl only began engaging and scholarly significant SPN s The book is also fun to read The authors intersperse throughout their own SPN s pedagogical insights from their doing and teaching and real life stories in order to illustrate the methodological process challenges and triumphs
