Nash, Harriet F. Senie, Alan G. Wilkinson, 2001-01-01 Henry Moore 1898 1986 is arguably one of the most famous and beloved sculptors of the twentieth century yet in recent decades his work has fallen out of favor in the world of contemporary art criticism This handsome book examines this intriguing contradiction and seeks to reassess Moore s crucial contribution to art of the last century Looking at Moore s early engagements with primitivism his 1930s dialogue with abstraction and surrealism and his postwar interest in large scale public sculpture the authors show how the sculptor helped to define some of the most significant aspects of modernism The authors also contextualize within the polemics of early modernism Moore s emphasis on direct carving instead of modeling and the necessary balance between abstraction and what he called the psychological human element Moore s early sculpture largely unfamiliar to the general public is given particular attention enabling the reader to explore the evolution of thematic and formal elements in his work and his ongoing response to different materials Photographs some by Moore himself of over 120 works including plasters maquettes carvings bronzes and drawings are featured many of which are previously unpublished

North is a historical narrative about Black women and the long civil rights movement in New Jersey from the Great Migration to 1954. Specifically, the critical role played by Black women in forging interracial cross class and cross gender alliances at the local and national level and their role in securing the passage of progressive civil rights legislation in the Garden State is at the core of this book. This narrative is largely defined by a central question: How and why did New Jersey's Black leaders, community members, and women in particular affect major civil rights legislation, legal equality, and integration a decade before the Brown v Board of Education Topeka, Kansas decision? In this analysis, the history of the early Black freedom struggle in New Jersey is predicated on the argument that the Civil Rights Movement began in New Jersey and that Black women were central actors in this struggle.

Life, Ethics and Faith in Australian Society: Facts and Figures Philip Hughes, Lachlan Fraser, 2014. A reference book from the Christian Research Association. Religion interacts with almost every aspect of life. Australian religious communities have grown through immigration but have declined through cultural changes. These communities continue to educate almost 40 per cent of Australian students and provide many of Australia's welfare services and international aid. In turn, religious faith has an impact on the age at which young people get married, family size, the occupations their members go into, as well as how they spend their time and money and their involvement in voluntary activities. Religious faith also has an impact on people's values, their attitudes to work and leisure, their sense of meaning in life, and their attitudes to the sacredness of human life and to expressions of sexuality. Drawing on data from the Australian Bureau of Statistics and several other major social surveys, this book explores not only the general impact of religion but how that impact varies according to the extent of people's involvement in religion and the particular religious group in which people are involved. To understand Australian culture and society, one needs to understand the impact of the multiplicity of faiths that shape the lives of Australians.

Martin Luther's Understanding of Faith and Reality (1513-1521) Ilmari Karimies, 2022-08-03. Ilmari Karimies investigates Martin Luther's understanding of reality and faith. He examines Luther's understanding of reality from three perspectives: firstly, God as the self-giving highest good uniting opposites and hiding beneath them; secondly, the visible and invisible world; and thirdly, human beings as tripartite (body, soul, spirit) and bipartite (flesh, spirit). The author explores the cognitive conflict between these in relation to spirit's grasping of God and the invisible world, with reference to Augustinian Platonism. He analyses aspects of faith from the perspective of the theory of divine illumination and shows that Luther represents a realistic Augustinian view. Faith functions as the theological intellect grasping the invisible world and showing human beings the future good in a manner similar to the medieval notion of ecstatic knowledge. It differs from vision in glory because of sin, as mixed with humanity and as partial knowledge.

The New Atheist Denial of History B. Painter, 2014-11-19. This compact, forcefully argued work calls Sam Harris, Richard Dawkins, Steven Pinker, and the rest of the so-called New Atheists to account for failing to take seriously the historical record to which they so freely appeal when attacking religion. The popularity of such books as Harris's The End of Faith, Dawkins's The God

Delusion and Christopher Hitchens God Is Not Great set off a spate of reviews articles and books for and against yet in all the controversy little attention has focused on the historical evidence and arguments they present to buttress their case This book is the first to challenge in depth the distortions of this New Atheist history It presents the evidence that the three authors and their allies ignore It points out the lack of historical credibility in their work when judged by the conventional criteria used by mainstream historians It does not deal with the debate over theism and atheism nor does it aim to defend the historical record of Christianity or religion more generally It does aim to defend the integrity of history as a discipline in the face of its distortion by those who violate it Creation and Salvation E.
