Finance Of Higher Education:

The Finance of Higher Education Michael B. Paulsen, John C. Smart, 2001 A wide ranging examination of the governmental and institutional policies and practices and essential theories and areas of research that in combination establish the foundation explore and extend the boundaries and expand the base of knowledge in the Financing Higher Education Worldwide D. Bruce Johnstone, Pamela N. Marcucci, 2010-06-07 No issue in higher education is as salient or as controversial as finance As demand for higher education around the world grows so do the costs associated with it especially as governments shoulder less of the burden Tuition fees rise and student loan debt grows Who pays for these surging costs Who should pay D Bruce Johnstone and Pamela N Marcucci examine the universal phenomenon of cost sharing in higher education where financial responsibility shifts from governments and taxpayers to students and families They find that growing costs for education far outpace public revenue streams that once supported it Even with financial aid and scholarships defraying some of these costs students are responsible for a greater share of the cost of higher education Featuring comprehensive economic and policy data the authors international comparative approach shows how economically diverse countries all face similar cost sharing challenges So who should pay for higher education While cost sharing is both politically and ideologically debated Johnstone and Marcucci contend that for almost all countries it is imperative for the financial health of colleges and universities bringing better efficiency equity and responsiveness Financing Higher Education Worldwide combines sophisticated economic explanations with sensitive political and cultural analyses of the financial pressures facing higher education throughout the world

Sources of Finance for Higher Education in America James Cunningham, 1980 Financing Higher Education Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, 1990 The nature of the changes in the patterns of financing and control of higher education systems which have been observed in the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development OECD countries over the last decade are discussed In particular the report analyzes the links between expenditure patterns costs and efficiency in higher education in relation to the mechanisms by which institutions receive funds and examines these areas against the background of changing policies for public financing The report draws extensively on a series of country case studies prepared specifically for the analysis The first chapter provides background information and discusses models and concepts Additional chapters examine the following areas 1 the existing arrangements and recent trends in the funding of higher education institutions in the studied OECD countries 2 the variety of schemes of student financial support in the OECD member countries taking part in the study 3 funding mechanisms and the functions of higher education institutions and 4 future prospect and policy implications based on current observations Contains six tables of analytical data and a resource list of national reports GLR

Financing Higher Education in the 21st Century , 1993 Student Financing of Higher Education Donald Heller, Claire Callender, 2013-06-07 The financing of higher education is undergoing great change in many countries around the world In recent years many countries are moving from a system where the costs of funding higher education are shouldered primarily by taxpayers through government subsidies to one where students pay a larger share of the costs There are a number of factors driving these trends including A push for massification of higher education in the recognition that additional revenue streams are required above and beyond those funds available from governments in order to achieve higher participation rates Macroeconomic factors which lead to constraints on overall government revenues Political factors which manifest in demands for funding of over services thus restricting the funding available for higher tertiary education A concern that the returns to higher education accrue primarily to the individual rather than to society and thus students should bear more of the burden of paying for it This volume will help to contribute to an understanding of how these trends occur in various countries and regions around the world and the impact they have on higher education institutions students and society as a whole With contributions for the UK USA South Africa and China this vital new book gives a truly global picture of the rapidly changing situation
