Invest in the right digital signs for your store. Improve brand recognition and your customer reach.

Keep Your Business Separate: Be careful not to intermix your personal and business finances. Prevent tax problems and other issues down the road, especially in case of bankruptcy.

Pay Yourself: Don't forget that the owner needs a salary, too. While you want to keep investing money back into the business, give yourself enough to live comfortably on.

Plan Long-Term: If you're transitioning from a more traditional job be sure to rethink your personal retirement plan. You can build security into your business from the beginning.

Choose Employee Benefits: Consider what benefits you'll be able to offer your team. This may not be feasible from the beginning but consider health and life insurance, 401k, and vacation benefits.

Stay Intentional: Set short-term and long-term goals with your business's financial management. Keep active goals and always pay attention to performance.

Save Now: Owning your own business is unpredictable and risky. Save as much money in the early stages as you can in order to build up an emergency fund for unexpected costs down the road.
