Readers and Reading Andrew Bennett,2014-07-15 Much literary criticism focuses on literary producers and their products but an important part of such work considers the end user the reader It asks such questions as how far can the author condition the response of the reader and how much does the reader create the meaning of a text Dr Bennett's collection includes important essays from such writers and critics as Wolfgang Iser Mary Jacobus Roger Chartier Michel de Certeau Shoshana Felman Maurice Blanchot Paul de Man and Yves Bonnefoy It looks in turn at deconstructionist feminist new historicist and psychoanalytical response to the school The book then considers the act of reading itself discussing such issues as the uniqueness of any reading and the difficulties involved in its analysis Educational Programs that Work,1987 Reading People Instantly Xena Mindhurst,AI,2025-02-13 Reading People Instantly offers a guide to understanding human behavior by decoding nonverbal communication microexpressions and linguistic analysis It reveals how to interpret subtle cues like body language and facial expressions to better assess intentions and emotions The book highlights that even fleeting microexpressions can reveal concealed emotions drawing on research to identify universally recognizable emotional expressions Furthermore it explores how linguistic analysis of speech patterns and word choice can uncover hidden meanings and potential deception improving your ability to detect deception The book progresses systematically starting with fundamental principles of emotional expression before dissecting microexpressions nonverbal cues and linguistic patterns Subsequent chapters focus on practical applications in various settings like understanding workplace dynamics and enhancing personal relationships Each chapter includes exercises and case studies designed to reinforce learning The book uniquely integrates these three key elements into an actionable framework which sets it apart from other self help communication guides Resources in Education,1996 Dialogue on the Internet Richard Holt,2004-07-30 Richard Holt draws on his extensive experience in discourse analysis and Web design to present a picture of the Internet as a potentially powerful tool of civic discourse in the third millennium Beginning with background on two of the Internet's most prevalent communication forms email discussion messages and Web pages sites the book introduces the concepts of monologism and dialogism Holt advocates a method of discursive analysis called dual reading in which Internet utterance is analyzed first monologically and then dialogically This method is demonstrated by analyzing email discussions that deal with such varied topics as media espionage sexual identity presidential politics hate speech and hate crimes This volume contains a multidisciplinary approach involving a wide range of specializations from computer science to philosophy It will appeal to students teachers practitioners and lay readers who are interested in Internet communication politics and popular culture In contrast to many of the doom and gloom accounts of the deficiencies of the Internet it offers a hopeful vision of the Internet as a means of civic discourse Reading Moving Letters Roberto Simanowski,Jörgen Schäfer,Peter Gendolla,2015-07-15

Digital media is increasingly finding its way into the discussions of the humanities classroom But while there is a number of grand theoretical texts about digital literature there as yet is little in the way of resources for discussing the down to earth practices of research teaching and curriculum necessary for this work to mature This book presents contributions by scholars and teachers from different countries and academic environments who articulate their approach to the study and teaching of digital literature and thus give a broader audience an idea of the state of the art of the subject matter also in international comparison

Reading, Literature, and Psychology in Action Philip Davis, Rhiannon Corcoran, Josie Billington, Arthur Frank, 2023-06-23 Psychology in Action is a term coined by the Guest Editors from the Centre for Research into Reading Literature and Society CRILS University of Liverpool in their work in filming recording and analyzing shared reading groups led by The Reader organization It refers both to the work of psychology within literary texts and to the responses of multifarious reader participants to literature read live and aloud in small community groups within a variety of settings In particular psychology in action has meant seeing readers suddenly activated into deep personal thinking responding to situations imaginatively simulated by reading literature in ways that trigger surprised and involuntary emotion autobiographical memory and spontaneous empathy

Literary Reading David S. Miall, 2006 This is the first major book in English on literary reading to be based on empirical methods Moving the focus away from interpretation to the experience of literary texts these studies demonstrate the role played by feeling in readers responses showing how feeling performs important functions during reading that cannot be accounted for by cognitive understanding These studies not only reinvigorate the concept of literariness they are also thoroughly interdisciplinary offering a coherent approach to literary reading that draws on literary theory psychology neuropsychology and evolutionary psychology Several chapters help to introduce the empirical approach for students

Hargie, 2006-10-16 The Handbook of Communication Skills is recognised as one of the core texts in the field of communication. This thoroughly revised and updated third edition arrives at a time of considerable growing interest in this area with recent research showing the importance of communication skills for success in many walks of life. The book's core principle that interpersonal communication can be conceptualized as a form of skilled activity is examined in detail and a comprehensive transactional model of skilled communication is presented which takes into account current conceptual and research perspectives. This book provides a comprehensive analysis of research theory and practice in the key skill areas of communication such as non verbal communication, persuasion, leadership, assertiveness, self disclosure, listening and negotiation. Each chapter is written by a recognised authority in that particular specialism among the world leaders in their particular fields. In the ten years since the last edition a large volume of research has been published and the text has been comprehensively updated by reviewing this wealth of data. In addition a new chapter on persuasion has been added, one of the areas of most rapid growth in social psychology and communication. The Handbook of Communication Skills represents the most significant single contribution to the literature in this domain. It will be of continued interest to researchers and students in psychology and communication as well as in a variety of other contexts from vocational courses in health, business and education to many others such as nursing and social work whose day to day work is dependent on effective interpersonal skills. Children's Books in Print, 2007, 2006 Matthew's Narrative Web Janice Capel Anderson, 1994-01-01 The Gospel of Matthew contains many repeated phrases and double stories. Scholars have usually used this as evidence to support various source theories. Taking a different approach this book uses narrative and reader response criticisms to explore the role verbal repetition plays in the rhetoric, characterization and plot of the Gospel. The importance of variation, context and the temporal dimension of narrative is highlighted. A concluding chapter treats two literary studies of repetition in modern narrative and the relation of narrative and reader response criticisms to aural reception of the Gospels in the first century.
