Motherless Tongues Vicente L. Rafael,2016-04-01 In Motherless Tongues Vicente L. Rafael examines the vexed relationship between language and history gleaned from the workings of translation in the Philippines the United States and beyond Moving across a range of colonial and postcolonial settings he demonstrates translation s agency in the making and understanding of events These include nationalist efforts to vernacularize politics U S projects to weaponize languages in wartime and autobiographical attempts by area studies scholars to translate the otherness of their lives amid the Cold War In all cases translation is at war with itself generating divergent effects It deploys as well as distorts American English in counterinsurgency and colonial education for example just as it re articulates European notions of sovereignty among Filipino revolutionaries in the nineteenth century and spurs the circulation of text messages in a civilian driven coup in the twenty first Along the way Rafael delineates the untranslatable that inheres in every act of translation asking about the politics and ethics of uneven linguistic and semiotic exchanges Mapping those moments where translation and historical imagination give rise to one another Motherless Tongues shows how translation in unleashing the insurgency of language simultaneously sustains and subverts regimes of knowledge and relations of power Discourse Across Cultures Larry E. Smith,1987 Papers presented at a conference organized by the Institute of Culture and Communication of the East West Center in 1983 revised and updated As Flip as I Want to be George Estrada,2007 Selections from the author s Mango Diaries column originally published in the Philippine Times of Las Vegas Kinaadman ,1995 The Mid-Pacific
