multi disciplinary debates surrounding the cultural production of place space and memory in the post industrial city this study explores the role of moving images in representations and perceptions of everyday urban landscapes It uses a unique spatial database of over 1700 archive films of Liverpool from 1897 to the present day Finance and the World Economy in Weimar Cinema Owen Lyons, 2025-10-01 After the First World War the effects of financial crisis could be felt in all corners of the newly formed Weimar Republic The newly interconnected world economy was barely understood and yet it was increasingly made visible in the films of the time The complexities of this system were reflected on screen to both the everyday spectator as well as a new class of financial workers who looked to popular depictions of speculation and crisis to make sense of their own place on the shifting ground of modern life Finance and the World Economy in Weimar Cinema turns to the many underexamined depictions of finance capital that appear in the films of 1920s Germany The representation of finance capital in these films is essential to our understanding of the culture of the Weimar Republic particularly in the relation between finance and ideas of gender nation and modernity As visual records these films reveal the stock exchange as a key space of modernity and coincide with the abstraction of finance as a vast labour of representation in its own right In so doing they introduce core visual tropes that have become essential to our understanding of finance and capitalism throughout the twentieth century Ida Lupino, Director Therese Grisham, Julie Grossman, 2017-05-23 Dominated by men and bound by the restrictive Hays Code postwar Hollywood offered little support for a female director who sought to make unique films on controversial subjects But Ida Lupino bucked the system writing and directing a string of movies that exposed the dark underside of American society on topics such as rape polio unwed motherhood bigamy exploitative sports and serial murder The first in depth study devoted to Lupino s directorial work this book makes a strong case for her as a trailblazing feminist auteur a filmmaker with a clear signature style and an abiding interest in depicting the plights of postwar American women Ida Lupino Director not only examines her work as a cinematic auteur but also offers a serious consideration of her diverse and long ranging career getting her start in Hollywood as an actress in her teens and twenties directing her first films in her early thirties and later working as an acclaimed director of television westerns sitcoms and suspense dramas It also demonstrates how Lupino fused generic elements of film noir and the social problem film to create a distinctive directorial style that was both highly expressionistic and grittily realistic Ida Lupino Director thus shines a long awaited spotlight on one of our greatest filmmakers

Welcome to Fear City Nathan Holmes,2018-09-26 Analyzes how location shot crime films of the 1970s reflected and influenced understandings of urban crisis The early 1970s were a moment of transformation for both the American city and its cinema As intensified suburbanization racial division deindustrialization and decaying infrastructure cast the future of the city in doubt detective films blaxploitation police procedurals and heist films confronted spectators with contemporary scenes from urban streets Welcome to Fear City argues that the location shot crime films of the 1970s were part of a larger cultural ambivalence felt toward urban life evident in popular magazines architectural discourse urban sociology and visual culture Yet they also helped to reinvigorate the city as a site of variegated experience and a positively disordered public life in stark contrast to the socially homogenous and spatially ordered suburbs Discussing the design of parking garages and street lighting the dynamics of mugging panoramas of ruin and the optics of undercover police operations in such films as Klute The French Connection Detroit 9000 Death Wish and The Taking of Pelham One Two Three Nathan Holmes demonstrates that crime genres did not simply mirror urban settings and social realities but actively produced and circulated new ideas about the shifting surfaces of public culture Rejecting the easy abstractions and postmodern playfulness of noir and neo noir criticism Holmes places 1970s crime films as he says in relation to the urban context that was their location setting and subject He does this brilliantly convincingly and uniquely David Desser former editor Cinema Journal

New Approaches to Cinematic Space Filipa Rosário,Iván Villarrea Álvarez,2018-12-12 New Approaches to Cinematic Space aims to discuss the process of creation of cinematic spaces through moving images and the subsequent interpretation of their purpose and meaning Throughout seventeen chapters this edited collection will attempt to identify and interpret the formal strategies used by different filmmakers to depict real or imaginary places and turn them into abstract conceptual spaces The contributors to this volume will specifically focus on a series of systems of representation that go beyond the mere visual reproduction of a given location to construct a network of meanings that ultimately shapes our spatial worldview The US-Mexico Border in American Cold War Film Stephanie Fuller,2016-04-29 Through an analysis of Cold War Era films including Border Incident Where Danger Lives and Touch of Evil Stephanie Fuller illustrates how cinema across genres developed an understanding of what the U S Mexico border meant within the American cultural imaginary and the ways in which it worked to produce the border Flash! Therapeutic Revolutions Martin Halliwell, 2013-04-19 Therapeutic Revolutions examines the evolving relationship between American medicine psychiatry and culture from World War II to the dawn of the 1970s In this richly layered intellectual history Martin Halliwell ranges from national politics public reports and healthcare debates to the ways in which film literature and the mass media provided cultural channels for shaping and challenging preconceptions about health and illness Beginning with a discussion of the profound impact of World War II and the Cold War on mental health Halliwell moves from the influence of work family and growing up in the Eisenhower years to the critique of institutional practice and the search for alternative therapeutic communities during the 1960s Blending a discussion of such influential postwar thinkers as Erich Fromm William Menninger Erving Goffman Erik Erikson and Herbert Marcuse with perceptive readings of a range of cultural text that illuminate mental health issues among them Spellbound Shock Corridor Revolutionary Road and I Never Promised You a Rose Garden this compelling study argues that the postwar therapeutic revolutions closely interlink contrasting discourses of authority and liberation

The Accidental Possibilities of the City Katherine Smith, 2021-03-02 Claes Oldenburg's commitment to familiar objects has shaped accounts of his career but his associations with Pop art and postwar consumerism have overshadowed another crucial aspect of his work In this revealing reassessment Katherine Smith traces Oldenburg's profound responses to shifting urban conditions framing his enduring relationship with the city as a critical perspective and conceiving his art as urban theory Smith argues that Oldenburg adapted lessons of context gleaned from New York's changing cityscape in the late 1950s to large scale objects and architectural plans By examining disparate projects from New York to Los Angeles she situates Oldenburg's innovations in local geographies and national debates In doing so Smith illuminates patterns of urbanization through the important contributions of one of the leading artists in the United States
