Film Form And Function:

Film Study Frank Manchel, 1990-10 The four volumes of Film Study include a fresh approach to each of the basic categories in the original edition Volume one examines the film as film volume two focuses on the thematic approach to film volume three draws on the history of film and volume four contains extensive appendices listing film distributors sources and historical information as well as an index of authors titles and film personalities Film, Form and Function George Wead, George Lellis, 1981 Engaging the Moving Image Noel Carroll, 2008-10-01 Noel Carroll a brilliant and provocative philosopher of film has gathered in this book eighteen of his most recent essays on cinema and television what Carroll calls moving images The essays discuss topics in philosophy film theory and film criticism Drawing on concepts from cognitive psychology and analytic philosophy Carroll examines a wide range of fascinating topics These include film attention the emotional address of the moving image film and racism the nature and epistemology of documentary film the moral status of television the concept of film style the foundations of film evaluation the film theory of Siegfried Kracauer the ideology of the professional western and films by Sergei Eisenstein and Yvonne Rainer Carroll also assesses the state of contemporary film theory and speculates on its prospects The book continues many of the themes of Carroll's earlier work Theorizing the Moving Image and develops them in new directions A general introduction by George Wilson situates Carroll's essays in relation to his view of moving image studies Media Studies: Content, audiences, and production Pieter Jacobus Fourie, 2001 This book includes theoretical approaches as well as a production section that focuses on basic techniques and introductory applications of media studies Film, Art, and the Limits of Science Malcolm Turvey, 2025-04-26 There is currently a vigorous debate in film studies and related disciplines about the extent to which scientific paradigms like evolutionary psychology and neuroscience can explain the cinema and other artforms This debate tends to devolve into extreme positions with many film scholars and other humanists insisting that science has little or no role to play in the study of the arts while a minority contends that it is always needed to fully account for cultural phenomena like film Malcolm Turvey advocates for a more moderate position He argues that while the sciences can explain much about film and the other arts there is much about these phenomena that only humanistic methods can account for He thereby mounts a trenchant defence of the purpose and value of humanistic explanation one that nevertheless acknowledges and welcomes the legitimate contribution of the sciences to the study of the arts Films that Work Patrick Vonderau, Vinzenz Hediger, 2025-10-01 The history of industrial films an orphan genre of twentieth century cinema composed of government produced and industrially sponsored movies that sought to achieve the goals of their sponsors rather than the creative artists involved seems to have left no trace in filmic cultural discourse At its height the industrial film industry employed thousands produced several trade journals and festival circuits engaged with giants of twentieth century industry like Shell and AT T and featured the talents of iconic actors and directors such as Buster Keaton John Grierson and Alain Resnais This is the first full length book anthology and annotated bibliography to analyse the industrial film and its remarkable history Exploring the potential of the industrial film to uncover renewed and unexplored areas of media studies this remarkable volume brings together renowned scholars such as Rick Prelinger and Thomas Elsaesser in a discussion of the radical potential and new possibilities in considering the history of this unexplored corporate medium
