Problem 4 – 3: (Cost at initial recognition)

A broker-trader was purchasing oil and entered into a forward contract to buy the oil at a forward contracted price of P1,400,000. At the time of delivery the spot price of the oil is P1,500,000 and the forward contract had a fair value of P100,000.

At what amount should the oil be recorded initially?

- a) P1,300,000
- b) P1,400,000
- c) P1,500,000
- d) P1,600,000

Answer: C

Forward price	P1,400,000
Derivative asset	100,000
Cost of inventory	P1,500,000

If a broker-trader had a forward contract for purchase of inventory this contract would be accounted for as a derivative under PAS 39 since it would not meet the normal purchase or sale exemption and when the contract was physically settled the inventory would likewise be shown at fair value less costs to sell. If however, an entity were not measuring inventory at fair value less cost to sell it would be subject to the measurement requirements of PAS 2 and would therefore have to record the inventory at the lower of cost and net realizable value. For an inventory acquired with a forward contract the cost should be the forward price adjusted for the derivative asset or liability.

The oil would be recorded at the fair value on what is consist of the P1,500,000 payment for the inventory offset by a P100,000 receipt upon settlement of the forward contract. This is exactly the same result as if the entity had been required to settle the forward contract immediately prior to, and separate from, the physical delivery of the oil.
