Financing And Risk In Developing Countries:

Project Finance in Developing Countries Priscilla Anita Ahmed,Xinghai Fang,1999-01-01 This report explores the changing face of project finance in developing markets IFC and more recently other multilateral bilateral and export credit institutions have played a strong supportive role in bringing project finance to its current volumes This role was highlighted in 1998 when these institutions sustained flows of an estimated 25 billion at a time when there was an abrupt decline in some types of private flows IFC in particular was a pioneer of project finance in developing countries and has a unique depth of experience in this field which spans more than 40 years in the practical implementation of some 2000 projects many of them on a limited recourse basis Particularly in today s marketplace IFC s ability to mobilize finance both loan and equity for its own account and syndicated loans under its B loan program the strength of its project appraisal capabilities and its experience in structuring complex transactions in difficult environments have been reassuring to other participants and important to the successful financing of many projects This report draws on IFC s experience in more than 230 greenfield projects costing upward of 30 billion that relied on project finance on a limited recourse basis see Appendix A It opens with a brief description of the major international trends in project finance over the past two decades and then turns to the essential ingredients of successful project financing Publisher abstract Financing and Risk in Developing Countries Stephen H.

Goodman,1978   Catastrophe Risk Financing in Developing Countries J. David Cummins,Olivier Mahul,2009 Catastrophe Risk Financing in Developing Countries provides a detailed analysis of the imperfections and inefficiencies that impede the emergence of competitive catastrophe risk markets in developing countries The book demonstrates how donors and international financial institutions can assist governments in middle and low income countries in promoting effective and affordable catastrophe risk financing solutions The authors present guiding principles on how and when governments with assistance from donors and international financial institutions should intervene in catastrophe insurance markets They also identify key activities to be undertaken by donors and institutions that would allow middle and low income countries to develop competitive and cost effective catastrophe risk financing strategies at both the macro government and micro household levels These principles and activities are expected to inform good practices and ensure desirable results in catastrophe insurance projects Catastrophe Risk Financing in Developing Countries offers valuable advice and guidelines to policy makers and insurance practitioners involved in the development of catastrophe insurance programs in developing countries

Health Financing in the Developing World Guy Carrin,2011 A collection of peer reviewed articles and contributions to books this overview of the finance of health insurance concentrates on developing countries The material covers various financing strategies and explains how each can or cannot help improve the transition toward universal coverage The model plans shown here are particularly useful for policy makers and technical advisers who have to decide upon health financing policies or are engaged in a debate about them and the sample forms can be adjusted to the particular economic and political context of the developing countries involved In addition there are reminders that this process varies in some countries universal coverage may take time and require a step by step approach In other developing countries a swift transition to universal coverage may be quite feasible     Financing and Risk in Developing Countries Stephen H.

This study provides a candid systematic and critical review of recent evidence on this complex subject Based on a review of the literature and some new empirical evidence it finds that 1 in spite of an apparently strong theoretical presumption it is difficult to detect a strong and robust causal relationship between financial integration and economic growth 2 contrary to theoretical predictions financial integration appears to be associated with increases in consumption volatility both in absolute terms and relative to income volatility in many developing countries and 3 there appear to be threshold effects in both of these relationships which may be related to absorptive capacity Some recent evidence suggests that sound macroeconomic frameworks and in particular good governance are both quantitatively and qualitatively important in affecting developing countries experiences with financial globalization     Blended Finance in the Least Developed Countries 2020

Supporting a Resilient COVID-19 Recovery OECD,United Nations Capital Development Fund,2020-12-16 The least developed countries LDCs are the furthest from achieving the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs They are also likely to be hit the hardest by the COVID 19 crisis and badly need the additional private finance that blended finance can unlock Yet evidence shows that too little private finance is mobilised for investment in LDCs How can this be fixed     Building
