Finch Bloody Finch The Life Of Peter Finch:

Finch, Bloody Finch Elaine Dundy, 1980 Finch, Bloody Finch Elaine Dundy, 1980 Peter Finch remains one of those British cult heroes who despite Network and his posthumous Oscar never truly caught on with U S fans Finch s childhood is fascinating on any terms doubly abandoned child of an Australian father and an English mum who quickly divorced Peter was first raised by a madcap Theosophist grandma who yanked him from Paris to India where he wandered off to become a nine year old Buddhist monk before being hauled back to Australia by paternal relations Rebelling against these proper folk Peter would always want to be a bum but rejected and identity less he d always be a little boy so frightened in his own skin that he jumped out of it and into that of others This book traces Finch s career quick rise to Australian radio stage stardom a second climb mentored by Olivier in London the movies the marriages affairs carousings breakdowns etc The truly riveting personal material here is the tortured liaison with ill Vivien Leigh Though often a tad over ripe it is energetic well researched and certainly the definitive Finch bio Peter Finch, a Biography Trader Faulkner, 1979 Mad as Hell Dave

Itzkoff, 2014-02-18 The behind the scenes story of the making of the iconic movie Network which transformed the way we think about television and the way television thinks about us I m mad as hell and I m not going to take this anymore Those words spoken by an unhinged anchorman named Howard Beale the mad prophet of the airwaves took America by storm in 1976 when Network became a sensation With a superb cast including Faye Dunaway William Holden Peter Finch and Robert Duvall directed by Sidney Lumet the film won four Academy Awards and indelibly shaped how we think about corporate and media power In Mad As Hell Dave Itzkoff of The New York Times recounts the surprising and dramatic story of how Network made it to the screen Such a movie rarely gets made any more one man s vision of the world independent of studio testing or market research And that man was Paddy Chayefsky the tough driven Oscar winning screenwriter whose vision outlandish for its time is all too real today Itzkoff uses interviews with the cast and crew as well as Chayefsky s notes letters and drafts to re create the action in front of and behind the camera at a time of swirling cultural turmoil The result is a riveting account that enriches our appreciation of this prophetic and still startling film Itzkoff also speaks with today s leading broadcasters and filmmakers to assess Network s lasting impact on television and popular culture They testify to the enduring genius of Paddy Chayefsky who foresaw the future and whose life offers an unforgettable lesson about the true cost of self expression

Into the Silence Wade Davis, 2011-10-18 The definitive story of the British adventurers who survived the trenches of World War I and went on to risk their lives climbing Mount Everest On June 6 1924 two men set out from a camp perched at 23 000 feet on an ice ledge just below the lip of Everest s North Col George Mallory thirty seven was Britain s finest climber Sandy Irvine was a twenty two year old Oxford scholar with little previous mountaineering experience Neither of them returned Drawing on more than a decade of prodigious research bestselling author and explorer Wade Davis vividly re creates the heroic efforts of Mallory and his fellow climbers setting their significant achievements in sweeping historical context from Britain's nineteenth century imperial ambitions to the war that shaped Mallory's generation. There was a country broken and the Everest expeditions emerged as a powerful symbol of national redemption and hope. In Davis's rich exploration he creates a timeless portrait of these remarkable men and their extraordinary times. Life Itself! Elaine Dundy, 2012-01-05 Author of the celebrated and hilarious THE DUD AVOCADO the classic novel about a young American ingenue in Paris Elaine Dundy was born in New York in the 1930s. Her first years were spent in an apartment on Park Avenue until the stock market crash wiped out most of the family's money. She went to university in the south where among other studies she worked hard at losing her virginity. Deciding the stage was her true home Elaine Dundy headed first to Paris and then to London where she met and married the famous theatre critic Kenneth Tynan. Though their union was intoxicating it was far from easy and the successful publication in 1958 of her novel finished off the marriage. But it was the opening of a new world of writers for Elaine Dundy including friendships with Tennessee Williams, Hemingway and Gore Vidal. Extremely funny and extraordinarily honest this wonderfully remembered story of growing up in America is as much a tonic as life itself.

Alan the Red Fox Reid Ross Fitzgerald, Stephen Holt, 2010 Arguably Australia's most influential political journalist Alan The Red Fox Reid covered Australian politics from the 1930s to the 1980s. During his career he was both a chronicler of and a player in Australian politics. In this book Ross Fitzgerald and Stephen Holt take us into a Machiavellian behind the scenes world of recurrent plots, crises and leadership challenges and show how it was possible for a skilled journalist to help shape both public perceptions and actual outcomes of political power plays. The Power of Words (2)

Chapman, Nicholas J. Cull, 2009-06-17 Popular cinema is saturated with images and narratives of empire. With Projecting Empire Chapman and Cull have written the first major study of imperialism and cinema for over thirty years. This welcome text maps the history of empire cinema in both Hollywood and Britain through a series of case studies of popular films including biopics, adventures, literary adaptations, melodramas, comedies and documentaries from the 1930s and The Four Feathers to the present with Indiana Jones and Three Kings. The authors consider industry-wide trends and place the films in their wider cultural and historical contexts. Using primary sources that include private papers they look at the presence of particular auteurs in the cinema of Imperialism including Korda, Lean, Huston and Attenborough as well as the actors who brought the stories to life such as Elizabeth Taylor and George Clooney. At a time when imperialism has a new significance in the world this book will fulfil the needs of students and interested filmgoers alike. The Lavender Screen Boze

Biography and History in Film Thomas S. Freeman, David L. Smith, 2019-10-14 The essays in this volume seek to analyze biographical films as representations of historical individuals and the times in which they lived To do this contributors examine the context in which certain biographical films were made including the state of knowledge about their subjects at that moment and what these films reveal about the values and purposes of those who created them This is an original approach to biographical as opposed to historical films and one that has so far played little part in the growing literature on historical films The films discussed here date from the 1920s to the 2010s and deal with males and females in periods ranging from the Middle Ages to the end of the twentieth century In the process the book discusses how biographical films reflect changing attitudes towards issues such as race gender and sexuality and examines the influence of these films on popular perceptions of the past The introduction analyses the nature of biographical films as a genre it compares and contrasts the nature of biography on film with written biographies and considers their relationship with the discipline of history As the first collection of essays on this popular but understudied genre this book will be of interest to historians as well as those in film and cultural studies
