Zbigniew Preisner's Three Colors Trilogy Nicholas W. Reyland, 2011-12-16 Director Krzysztof Kieslowski's Three Colors trilogy Blue 1993 White 1993 and Red 1994 is one of the great achievements of European film A meditation on liberty equality and fraternity these three films marked the culmination of the director's career as well as the zenith of one of the most important creative collaborations in 20th century cinema between Kieslowski scriptwriter Krzysztof Piesiewicz and composer Zbigniew Preisner Thanks to their close working relationship music for the Three Colors trilogy achieves both a focal narrative and philosophical function At times Preisner's music advances the narrative independently of the films other codes at other times it creates a metaphorical space into which the audience is invited in order to read for deeper messages As the first major scholarly treatment of Preisner's music

Nicholas Reyland's Zbigniew Preisner's Three Colors Trilogy A Film Score Guide fills an important void in film score scholarship. In this guide Reyland analyzes the historical context of the film scores, the life of the composer, the hermeneutic and narrative role of the music within the film and the musical scoring techniques used for the trilogy. This volume also draws on an interplay of established classic approaches to analyzing film music and more recent approaches in the exploration of its themes and readings. In addition, the composer's willingness to be interviewed by Reyland enhances the musicological scholarship of this book, giving the reader privileged access into the process of scoring. A significant contribution to both film studies and musicological literature, this book celebrates one of the great cinematic achievements of the last few decades.

Musical biography has rarely been an object of theoretical and methodological reflection. Our present day perception of the lives of prominent composers and performers of the past has been largely formed by cultural and political assumptions of nineteenth century biographers and their twentieth century followers. While older biographies are being scrutinized for veracity and updated with new evidence, their historiographical premisses and narrative techniques remain largely unchallenged. The epistemological upheavals in the humanities since the 1960s have generated a body of theoretical thought that has undermined many of the assumptions of traditional biography. Consequently, many of these assumptions have lost their hold as viable underpinnings for present day scholarly biography. For example, the accumulation of facts is no longer believed to bring us closer to an understanding of the subject nor are the traditional views of the unified self and the self as a foundational idea taken for granted. This volume brings together musicologists and historians who explore through individual case studies the rich potential of these new theories for writing musical lives. The authors of this volume examine how the insights provided by these theories illuminate our critical reassessment of older biographies and the interpretations of musical works. These biographies were used to construe and help forge new approaches to musical biography. The authors also explore the functions musical biographies served in different historical contexts, the relevance of biography for musical criticism, the reliability of archival evidence, the ethics of biography, the demands placed on biography by feminist and gender history and the new possibilities offered by cinema. The contributors to this volume challenge the view that biography has little importance for music history analysis and criticism. Collectively they reassert biography's centrality and relevance and demand
