The Stranger's Child is Alan Hollinghurst's masterpiece the book that cements his position as one of the finest novelists of our time In its scope intelligence and elegance Sixteen year old Daphne Sawle is reading Tennyson in a hammock in the garden of Two Acres the family home in suburban London Her brother George arrives to visit with his Cambridge friend Cecil Valance a handsome assured and sometimes outrageous young man with a burgeoning reputation as a poet After a tantalizing and dramatic weekend Cecil writes a long poem in Daphne's autograph album as a parting gift It is titled Two Acres and both Daphne and George whose feelings for Cecil also go well beyond mere friendship immediately see how important the poem is but none of them can foresee the complex and lasting effects it will have on all their lives When the next section of the novel begins everything has changed Daphne is married to Cecil's brother Dudley Valance George to a historian named Madeleine and Cecil is dead killed by a sniper in World War One A Cabinet officer and man of letters named Sebastian Stokes is compiling an edition of Cecil's poems He is especially curious about Cecil's personal and passionate letters and unpublished poems papers that seem to have gone missing The book leaps forward to a party to celebrate Daphne's seventieth birthday We meet Peter Rowe a music teacher and his boyfriend Paul Bryant a bank employee with a feeling for

Cecil's poetry Soon Paul is taking up an idea that Peter abandoned to write a biography of Cecil Valance It means making some startling discoveries about a past that the Valance family would prefer to keep in sepia and shadows The Stranger's Child is that rare thing a historical novel whose characters in their passions and betrayals constantly surprise the reader and will surely be read for generations to come Stranger's Flowers Kemal Tabyldy,2024-09-09 Stranger's Flowers is not a story about flowers It's a narrative about the shadows they cast upon human lives Once on the day of your birth you were given flowers Were they a symbol of love and kindness Or did they perhaps conceal darker intentions whispering in the dark You entered this world without choice and your departure will be just as inevitable What if every bouquet you've ever received carried a hidden message a prophecy of your destiny What if the flowers you give and receive are not just symbols of joy but omens of the inevitable end that awaits us all Maybe the flowers on a grave are not simply tributes to memory but the final words of nature spoken in the silence of death The same gift for birth and death A symbol of life or a symbol of death To ponder what truly lies behind this gesture can be as dark and unsettling as death itself Listen carefully and perhaps in the rustling of petals you'll uncover a secret you're not ready to hear Perhaps we too are like flowers in this life Someone plants and nurtures us someone admires us and one day a stranger plucks us and offers us to another At the Sign of the Silver Flagon Benjamin Leopold Farjeon,1875 University of California Publications in Education University of California, Berkeley,1907 A Tale of Two Cities in Arabic Translation Fatima Muhammad Muhaidat,2009-09 This study investigates the problems translators encounter when rendering features of Dickens's style in A Tale of Two Cities into Arabic Examples of these features are singled out and analyzed Then they are compared with their counterparts in published translations of the novel in Arabic The comparisons depend on back translation to give non readers of Arabic a clear idea about the similarities and differences between the source text and target one's The features under focus are sound effects figurative language humor repetition and the French element The discussion dedicated to onomatopoeia alliteration and rhyme shows that there is no one to one correspondence between English and Arabic in reflecting these linguistic phenomena Translators may resort to techniques like rewording or paraphrasing to convey their propositional content at the expense of their sound effects Problems also arise when rendering figurative language into Arabic Various images in the novel are substituted by different ones that convey similar meanings in Arabic Some of them are deleted or reduced to their propositional content In addition footnotes are used to convey cultural aspects Translating humor shows the role context plays in facilitating the translator's task Techniques of translating humor conveyed via substandard English are noted The researcher also discusses translating humor that depends on background knowledge that the target text readers may not be familiar with Further translation issues are noticed when rendering repetition Some linguistic asymmetries between English and Arabic make translators dispense with repetition and resort to synonymy collocations and constructions that fit in Arabic More problems arise when rendering the French element in various names titles and what might be considered as literal translations of

French speech Throughout the discussion suggestions are made to bring about more adequate renderings This study also discusses the novel as a metaphor of translating Many aspects of the novel are comparable to the translation process Relationships among various characters provide a perspective from which the relationship between authors translators readers and text can be seen Finally the significance of some examples of inter language communication in the novel is pointed out
