Fish Farming Technology H. Reinersten,L.A. Dahle,L. Jorgensen,2020-11-17 Over the past few years it has become more and more obvious that fish farming will become increasingly important in the future As fish farming moves into its industrial phase technology will be an important factor in determining its successful development It is therefore important for scientists representatives from the aquaculture industry to meet to define state of the art and explore future development of fish farming technology for different fish species 81 papers and abstracts were presented at the conference The proceedings reflect the different sections of the conference the plenum sessions and three parallel sessions Juvenile marine fish open production plants closed production plants and poster sessions      Handbook on European Fish Farming Ergün Demir,2020-01-16 Aquaculture is one of the fastest way to produce animal protein for growing population in the World Aquaculture is the art science and business of producing aquatic plants and animals useful to humans Fish farming is an ancient practice and date back as far as 2500 BC In Europe fish raised in ponds became a common source of food during the Middle Ages Today aquaculture plays a major role in global fish supply Today the global community faces financial and economic crisis climatic changes and the pressing food and nutrition needs of a growing population with finite natural resources As the world s population continues to increase over the coming decades and global living standards rise demand for fish is set to keep on growing With most wild capture fisheries already fully exploited much of that new demand will have to be met from aquaculture According to FAO estimates more than 50 % of all fish for human consumption now comes from aquaculture Aquaculture is one of the most resource efficient ways to produce protein Fish come out well because in general they convert more of the feed they eat into body mass than livestock animals Salmon is the most feed intensive farmed fish to convert feed to body weight gain and protein followed by chicken Aquaculture is the controlled cultivation and harvest of aquatic organisms Most commonly grown are finfish and shellfish but other aquatic organisms are also cultivated such as seaweed microalgae frogs turtles alligators and endangered species There are many similarities between aquaculture and agriculture but there are some important differences as well Aquaculture like agriculture is necessary to meet the food demands of a growing global population with diminishing natural fisheries stocks Aquaculture and agriculture are both farming However aquaculture is farming in the water and therefore requires a different set of knowledge skill and technology

Characterization of fish farming practices and performance: Baseline study and implications for accelerating aquaculture development in Ghana Ragasa, Catherine,Agyakwah, Seth K.,Asmah, Ruby ,Mensah, Emmanuel Tetteh-Doku,Amewu, Sena,2020-06-19 Over the past decade the aquaculture sector in Ghana has experienced tremendous growth driven mainly by large scale cage farms but it has been unclear how the rural poor have shared in this growth A research project has been initiated to help diagnose design and test interventions for better inclusion of the rural poor women and youth in the tilapia value chain This report describes the baseline data on 603 small scale tilapia farmers in Ghana The data collected during two hour face to face interviews during May July 2019 are disaggregated by socioeconomic indicators gender and age group Baseline data show that 9 percent of farm managers and owners were women and an additional 9 percent of farms engaged women in some decision making Moreover women contributed 16 percent of family labor and 5 percent of hired labor on farms Youth represented 14 and 24 percent of owners and managers respectively but contributed 68 percent of the total family and hired labor on farms A large majority of managers and owners had at least high school education with a third of owners and a quarter of managers attaining at least a college degree In Brong Ahafo and Ashanti regions especially most farmers engaged mainly in crop farming and non farm businesses as their main livelihood with fish farming as a small contributor to overall household income and livelihood Farmers in all regions had poor record keeping and management practices and low compliance with sanitation fish health and food safety standards A wide variety of input usage management practices and performance was observed among fish farms As a result the profitability of fish farms was also wide ranging between 12 00 and 46 00 cedi per m<sup>2</sup> with an average of 8 82 cedi per m<sup>2</sup> Despite wide variability in production and profits the majority of farmers experienced positive profits On average a farmer received a profit of 2 4 cedi per kilogram of tilapia produced or a 27 percent profit margin These encouraging figures indicate that farmers who adopt good aquaculture practices can achieve respectable profits

World Fish Farming: Cultivation and Economics

E. Brown, 2012-12-06 Until the First Edition of World Fish Farming Cultivation and Economics was published several years ago there was little or no economic and technical information on commercial aquaculture either by countries or by species I tried at that time to partially fill the gap in the literature In this Second Edition I have updated data originally presented and increased the scope by adding new countries New trout data have been added for 10 western European countries sections on cost of production of food sized catfish and fingerlings in the USA new and improved chapters for Japan Hungary Indonesia the Philippines and the United Kingdom and completely new chapters pertaining to Poland Thailand and Czechoslovakia have all been added to this edition The book now includes 31 countries including all major producing ones Between 5 5 and 6 0 million metric tons of finfish shrimp and crayfish cultured production are represented which accounts for about 90% of the world's total The People's Republic of China and the USSR as well as countries on the continents of Europe Asia North America and Oceania are represented Because of only minimal reported cultured fish production in Africa and South America these continents have been omitted Also according to information received from New Zealand there is no culturing of fish in that country other than for restocking of public waters More than 100 species of cultured fish seven species of shrimp and prawns and six species of crayfish are discussed

Tihanyi,Mohammad Karaan,2011-09-01 Emerging or black farmers are often considered a homogeneous group While individual emerging farmers and agribusinesses in South Africa share a common history the case studies in this book show that in fact significant differences exist among them that are often hidden beneath the averaging and aggregation typical of most analytical research Presenting fifteen case studies of emerging agribusinesses in South Africa this book has three main objectives 1 to capture the human stories behind the emerging farms and agribusinesses in South Africa in order to showcase their rich diversity historical backgrounds current context and future directions 2 to highlight the best practices opportunities and challenges facing South Africa s emerging farmers and agribusinesses and 3 to create a new set of instructional materials for academics and development practitioners or as a point of reference for other entrepreneurs members of government and other practitioners engaged in agriculture and agribusiness The case study format a relatively new tool in the field of agribusiness management allows for a close up view of the entrepreneurs at the heart of the businesses providing an ideal lens through which to take a snapshot of the agribusiness landscape of South Africa today

Fish Production in Irrigation Canals Theresa A. Redding,Alex B. Midlen,1991-01-01 This publication reviews the potential for fisheries production from irrigation canals It deals with the subject under the following major headings engineering aspects of irrigation systems factors limiting fish production in canals weed growth and associated problems in irrigation canals Cage culture in irrigation canals is presented in case studies for Indonesia Egypt and Thailand and pen culture in China Both cage and pen culture are considered to be the most suitable forms of aquaculture in irrigation canals Fish can be profitably and successfully reared in irrigation canals to control unwanted aquatic weed growth and there is some potential for the use of fish to control vectors and hosts of waterborne diseases Amongst the constraints levels of pesticides in fish tissues cultured in irrigation systems could be a problem in the development of foodfish production in irrigation canals The major constraint to aquaculture development in such systems is that a continuous preferably constant flow of water is required throughout the culture period and this is not available in many irrigation systems
