Beyer,1992-07-01 Among Asian languages Tibetan is second only to Chinese in the depth of its historical record with texts dating back as far as the eighth and ninth centuries written in an alphabetic script that preserves the contemporaneous phonological features of the language The Classical Tibetan Language is the first comprehensive description of the Tibetan language and is distinctive in that it treats the classical Tibetan language on its own terms rather than by means of descriptive categories appropriate to other languages as has traditionally been the case Beyer presents the language as a medium of literary expression with great range power subtlety and humor not as an abstract object He also deals comprehensively with a wide variety of linguistic phenomena as they are actually encountered in the classical texts with numerous examples of idioms common locutions translation devices neologisms and dialectal variations     Trübner's Bibliographical Catalogues Kegan Paul, Trench, Trubner & Co,1925     Tibetan Philip Denwood,1999-11-15 The Tibetan language comprises a wide range of spoken and written varieties whose known history dates from the 7th century AD to the present day Its speakers inhabit a vast area in Central Asia and the Himalayas extending into seven modern nation states while its abundant literature includes much of vital importance to the study of Buddhism After surveying all the known varieties of Tibetan including their geographical and historical background this book concentrates on a phonological and grammatical description of the modern spoken Lhasa dialect the standard spoken variety The grammatical framework which has been specially devised to describe this variety is then applied to the written varieties of Preclassical and Classical Tibetan demonstrating the fundamental unity of the language The writing system is outlined though all examples and texts are given in roman script and where appropriate the International Phonetic Alphabet The volume includes a comprehensive bibliography
