

Chapter 13

Developing the Core Threat Intelligence Team

In this chapter

- Understand the processes, people, and technology that make up a dedicated threat intelligence capability
- Learn how these teams use threat intelligence not just to judge risk, but also to drive business continuity
- Review ways to engage with threat intelligence communities

“Talent wins games, but teamwork and intelligence win championships.”

— Michael Jordan

We have seen how threat intelligence benefits most of the teams in the information security organization. We now make a few suggestions about how to organize your core threat intelligence team itself.

Dedicated, but Not Necessarily Separate

As we discussed in the previous chapter, you can start your threat intelligence journey with people who continue to play other roles on different teams in the organization.

Two questions will arise:

1. Should there be a dedicated threat intelligence team?
2. Should it be independent, or can it live inside another cybersecurity group?

The answers are: yes, and it depends.
